Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A jumper is very important in the wardrobe of the 6 to 14 school-girl—but a jumper quite as versatile as this you've never dreamed of before. It boasts two detachable bretelles that perk out over the shoulders in a fetching way—without them you have a snappy pleated skirt belted at the waistline. The gimpes, too, does things with the length of its sleeves, and with or without its collar. Wool and cotton would combine ideally for warmth and practicality. As for its simplicity—even a junior could make it!

Pattern 1645 is available in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 takes 1 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric and 1 1/4 yards 36 inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

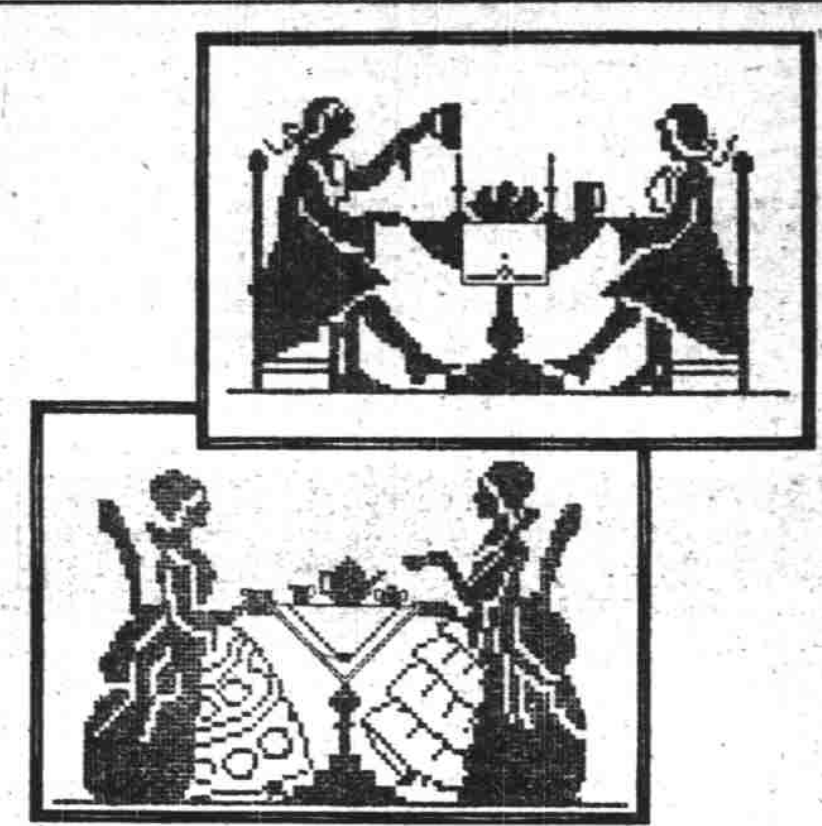

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS

COLONIAL SILHOUETTES PATTERN 437

Colonial Scenes in Silhouette. Silhouettes in cross stitch are a decoration that is attractive in any home. Having an old-time quaintness, they are as much in vogue today as they ever were. Done in one color thread, they are especially interesting to make, for cross stitch is quick to do, and each bit added to the embroidery shows up. These quaint scenes are attractive subjects to work on, for one could so easily weave an interesting story around them. They lend themselves not only to pictures, but are decorative as cushions, tray cloths or insets.

Pattern 437 contains a transfer pattern of two designs shown, which measure 8 1/4 inches, and for cross stitch to do, and yardages for doing these as pictures. Send 10c for this pattern to The Statesman, Needlecraft Dept.

Mrs. Monroe Gilbert was the first president of the Salem Arts league. Since that time the league has been an important factor in the cultural life of the city.

Mrs. Jessie Singleton, leader of the writer's section, gave a review of Laurence D'Orsay's book, "Stories You Can Sell," a collection of short stories with explanations as to how and why they were written.

"Sunset Trails" anthology of Oregon poets published by Oregon State college, and "Trends of Thought in Modern Philosophy" by Santyana, were books ordered bought and placed in the Salem public library.

Mrs. William Fordyce Fargo, president of the league, presided.

It all comes down to the telephone

IN THE calamities—fire, sickness, accident or other peril—the telephone is the first thing thought of. But its daily usefulness makes it scarcely less valuable.

It makes appointments. It reaches friends. It invites the ring of opportunity. Its value is so great that it simply doesn't pay to do without it.

M'GILCHRIST HEADS 'ARMY' FUND DRIVE

$2500 Goal of Campaign in Salem; Relief Work of Group Stressed

William McGilchrist, Jr., has been chosen campaign manager for the Salvation Army annual fund campaign, which starts in Salem Monday, November 20, for the securing of at least $2500 to carry on the work of the Army for another year. T. A. Livesley, Douglas McKay, Iri McSherry, George Aruckle and Charles A. Sprague are named members of the executive committee.

"In years past, the Salvation Army has done a splendid work in Salem," states Harry V. Collins, chairman of the local advisory board, "in looking after the needs of those in want and alleviating human suffering whenever it was within their power. They are still doing that work and, with the cooperation of the people of the city, will continue their service of helpfulness and mercy throughout the coming winter months, when calls upon them for aid will be heaviest."

"To enable the Salvation Army to keep up this good work, the people of the city have always provided them with the necessary funds to meet the demands. The money required for this purpose has always been cheerfully donated by Salem citizens, and there is no doubt but that the needed funds will be quickly raised this year. The advisory board estimates that only $2500 will be needed for their purposes this year, which, considering present conditions, is an exceedingly small amount with which to accomplish all the work required of the Army for one year.

"The public can rest assured that every cent contributed to this fund will be spent economically and where it will do the most good. Experience has shown that the most efficient means of disbursing moneys for that purpose is through the Salvation Army."
