

DOUGLAS TO TALK AT GATES FRIDAY

On Colds and Other Health Subjects; High School Play Successful

GATES, Nov. 15.—County Health Officer Vernon Douglas will be the speaker at a meeting at the high school Friday night, November 17. He will talk on common colds and other health topics. He will explain inoculation for colds as is being used in some places. Along with the program will be a one act comedy, "Whose Crazy Now?" put on by the high school.

Miss Louise Graf was hostess at a party for the children of her Sunday school class at the Graf home on Saturday afternoon. She was assisted by Mary and Elizabeth Bock and Allura Dike. Teachers present were Robert Wilson, Sammy and Edwin Donnell, Doris Jones, Laura and Wilma Stewart, Fauneta and Zeta White, Audrey Sellard, Donald Carey and Patricia Uebel.

Harry White, who has been ill for several years and seriously so recently, was removed to the Albany hospital the last of the week. The high school play, "Everybody's Getting Married," was given Friday night before a fair sized audience with $21 taken in. The profit will be added to the student body treasury. The cast was made up of 14 members all carrying their parts exceptionally well. Harold Shepard, Wallace Sawyer and Howard Farnum, seniors, carried heavy talking parts, with Mary Bock, Louise Graf, Elizabeth Bock, Lois Hayward, Maxine Doyle, Ruby Nystrum and Maurine Herron supporting them. Verne Rataberg, Junior Farnum, Robert Willis and Elton Brown proved themselves promising material for future high school plays.

BROWNS ARE HURT WHEN AUTO SKIDS

AUMSVILLE, Nov. 15.—Monday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown of Mill City, were making the turn from the gravel road on to the pavement at the west end of Aumsville, the car skidded in the loose gravel and turned over. Mrs. Brown received serious cuts on the wrists. Dr. Beauchamp of Stayton, was called and gave first aid and then she was taken to a hospital in Salem. Mr. Brown also received injuries. The car was badly damaged. While cutting wood at the Hoyt Cupp farm Saturday night Rod Hendry received a serious cut on the thumb, necessitating a doctor's care. Bazaar Stated Friday Final plans are under way for the annual bazaar which will be held at the schoolhouse Friday, November 17. A boys' basketball game with Stayton will be played in the afternoon. A chicken dinner will be served at noon and in the evening. In the morning the girls children will put on a program. All of the usual things that go with a bazaar will be held and in the evening an interesting program will be given, followed by an auction of all the things left from the various stands.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL FOR RED CROSS ON

MILL CITY, Nov. 15.—The committee for the annual membership drive of the Red Cross started work Monday morning under the leadership of Mrs. W. W. Allen. The drive will possibly continue the remainder of this month. Mrs. Vivian Albert will have charge of the stamp sale for the T. B. cause this year. Many Mill City people witnessed the football classic between Oregon and Oregon State. Sun Shines Monday After a week almost heavy fog which obscured the mountains and made travel not only disagreeable but at times dangerous, the fog lifted Monday forenoon and the sun came out, which is greatly appreciated by most folks in this vicinity.

Oh Diogenes! Lost Ticket to Football Battle is Returned

MOLALLA, Nov. 15.—F. M. Henriksen believes he had dealings with the world's most honest man in Portland Saturday afternoon, but he doesn't know the man's name. Henriksen lost his reserved seat ticket to the Oregon-Oregon State football game when he was about three blocks from the stadium. He told his seat number and his troubles to the gatekeeper, who returned him to the main office. The main office found nothing could be done and Henriksen was faced with the prospect either of not seeing the big game or paying about $5 for a ticket. Tickets were selling for that much outside the stadium. Dejectedly he made his way back to the gatekeeper to be greeted by the happy words, "Hey, your ticket has just been turned in." Henriksen had found it on the street.

Farmers' Union News

TALBOT, Nov. 15.—Sidney Talbot Farmers Union met in regular session in the Talbot school house Friday night with a large attendance and several visitors from the River view local, who were interested in talks on the progress in their local. A representative of the West Coast Dynamite company gave a talk for the benefit of the members who are placing orders for dynamite at this time. Sidney Talbot local is putting on a membership drive at this time and several prospective members were present. A program of mixed numbers were enjoyed and lunch was served. Committee on refreshments at next meeting are the Hitchons, Cole, Calavan and Cochran families.

TALBOT, Nov. 15.—G. W. Potts, state president of the Farmers' Union and also president of the Sidney Talbot local, left Friday night for Omaha, Neb., to attend the National Farm Union convention. Mr. Potts went by the way of Los Angeles where he will visit his sisters a few days. He will return by the way of Montana and spend a few weeks with his daughters. Mrs. Potts left Thursday night for Billings, Mont., where she will visit her daughters during her husband's absence.

Bits for Breakfast

(Continued from page 4) the Aurora neighborhood, as fine asparagus as ever grew. The big Reid-Murdock cannery in Salem is now and has been for a couple of years or more putting up a wonderful line of green asparagus, for a high class trade.

A cannery at Walla Walla, Wash., has for some time been putting up green asparagus, and now one in the Yakima valley of that state is sending to market a like product. The fact is that the preference for green asparagus has grown so much that some of the California canneries putting up white asparagus for a generation are changing over part of their outputs to the green brand.

The writer has for years and years been advocating the processing of maraschino cherries here in the Salem district, where they are grown, instead of putting them into barrels, in brine, and shipping them to far points, especially along the Atlantic seaboard, there to be given the finishing touches.

One reason why little progress has been made toward securing this desirable development for our section was that the cherries sent in barrels go into many other products than maraschino. The ones that reach the consumers in the maraschino form must be just so and so. The others go into glaze fruits, into pies, confections of various sorts, etc.

Besides, the concerns handling the barreled product could get hands trained for the work of taking it on to its final forms at greater ease in the large population centers—and at lower wages than prevail in Oregon.

Hereafter, if the NRA undertakings are successful, and enduring, this will be equalized, and we will have a better chance to get more maraschino and kindred industries here.

Once, Salem had a large industry in fruit juices, principally loganberry juice extracting, bottling and marketing. The opportunities for extensive development of this line are greater than ever, with the growth of ocean commerce from our Pacific ports.

And this outlet for fruit juices might extend to our other specialties, including grape juice, which we can produce as good as the earth affords. Ours is a bush
