

Solons Will Work Saturday Defying Tradition

COMPULSION IN NRA PROPOSED

Old Age Pension Tax One of Bills Introduced in House Friday

Introduction of two measures, a new tax for old age pensions, levied against the employer and employee in all activities and a proposal to make the NRA code compulsory in the state, preceded adjournment of the house of representatives Friday until 11 o'clock today. The afternoon session.

Headed by Frank Loneragan of Multnomah county, a group attempted to adjourn the house until Monday morning, but a majority vote was recorded to continue in session Saturday. Committee meetings were announced for early today and adjournment was expected about noon. The senate will convene at 10:30 a. m. today.

The old age pension bill was introduced by O. Henry Olson of Columbia county. His proposal assesses a tax of two cents a day on employers for every employed person and a tax of one cent a day upon the employee. The money would be used solely for payment of old age pensions.

Bill providing that before any election is held in regard to sewage disposal, plans must be prepared and be available for inspection of any qualified elector of the municipality, was introduced in the senate Friday afternoon by the committee on municipal affairs.

A vetoed bill appropriating $1000 of the treasury department went through the senate without a negative vote, thereby becoming law. It passed the house previously. The bill, it was explained, corrects an error in making up the budget for the biennium.

STIFFER RULES ON BACK TAXES URGED

Penalty on Late Payment, Rebate on Early, One Of Plans Offered

Additional bills aimed at stiffer collection of back taxes in Oregon made their way to the legislative session Friday.

Representative Herman introduced a measure which would levy a 10 per cent penalty for non-payment of taxes and a two per cent rebate on taxes paid before March 15 each year. The measure would also set the dates for tax payment ahead each year, substituting March 15 for May 5 and September 15 for November 5.

A bill drawn by Representatives Graham and Hilton of Multnomah county grants a three per cent discount for taxes paid before March 15 each year and the present rate of interest or two-thirds of one per cent per month on all back taxes. This bill would also give a five per cent discount on all back taxes of 1932 or prior years paid within 90 days from the time the law becomes effective.

An organized lobby is active at the session, working to stiffen rates on back taxes.

BANKING BILLS REACH SENATE

Irrigation and Compensation Measures are Others Filed on Friday

Twenty-one new bills found their way into the senate hopper Friday of which eight were amendments to the state banking code. These bills were drafted by the joint committee on banking and have received the approval of the state superintendent of banks and the Oregon State Bankers' association. Five other bills were introduced by Senator Upton.

Members of the banking committee explained that the proposed amendments were necessary so that the state banking code would conform to recent federal banking legislation.

The five Upton bills give to irrigation and drainage districts authority to meet federal regulations in connection with the proposal to secure a part of the $50,000,000 appropriated for the rehabilitation of reclamation projects. Upton declared that these bills came within the scope of emergency legislation and particularly were of interest to farmers living in the irrigation and drainage areas.

The senate approved a bill by Senator Dunne which would make it possible for employers with a favorable experience rating to obtain a reduction in their contributions to the state under the workmen's compensation law. The bill was recommended by the employers, employees and members of the state industrial accident commission.

Under a resolution introduced by Senator Dickson concurrence of 10 jurors in all criminal cases, other than first-degree murder, would be sufficient to find a verdict of guilty.

SCRIP PLANS TOLD BY SENATOR DUNNE

Rotund Senator Joe Dunne, who with a set of white whiskers and a red coat would make a perfect Santa Claus, explained to the Salem club yesterday noon his Santa Claus measure of state scrip, which he has put in the form of a bill. This scrip would be paid out as part of the wages of public employees and as half of old age pensions. It would be "hot money," and so would pass rapidly from hand to hand. It would be redeemed at the state clearing house after discount stamps had been attached.

Senator Dunne also entertainingly told the club members the problems the legislature was facing. He said its relief measures should extend to farmers, taxpayers, unemployed. He defended the truck and bus bill passed by the last legislature though he admitted some things got by which needed correction, particularly the matter of refunds of deposits.

S. E. Darlow Johnson, president of the Marion County Public Health association, explained the annual Christmas seal sale which starts after Thanksgiving.

GROSS TAX SCHEME DRAWS OPPOSITION

Before a gross tax measure on utilities had been dropped into the house hopper, a strong protest was being launched at the capital yesterday against the measure.

Governor Meier was in conference for upwards of an hour yesterday with bond and stockholders of Oregon utilities, all protesting against any further tax on utilities' gross income. On his desk was a deep sheaf of telegrams coming from all parts of the state, opposing further utility taxation.

While the new proposed tax bill was scheduled to be introduced Friday, it had not reached the house when the session ended for the day. Charles M. Thomas, utilities commissioner, along with Henry Hansen, budget advisor to the governor, are said to be drawing the measure.

Bill to Permit Salem to Sell Bonds Favored

The house committee on unemployment yesterday voted to report out favorably a bill authorizing the City of Salem to sell its water bonds at market. The general law provides that bonds of this character shall not be sold at less than 95 cents on the dollar.

Another bill approved by the committee provides that the state shall bear its share of the expense of operating a municipal sewage disposal plant here.

Hon. Martin May Revive Tax Plan

Representative Hannah Martin announced Friday that she probably would revive her bill of the 1933 regular legislative session providing for a sales tax on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and cosmetics. It was estimated that such a tax in Oregon would raise approximately $2,000,000 annually. This proposed tax received the approval of the Oregon County Judges and Commissioners association which convened in Portland recently.

Mickey Mouse NOTES

Christmas is surely creeping up quickly—why I only last week finished paying up my last year's Christmas bills—and now I've got to start all over again.
