Abrams Expresses Fear Delay to Cause Loss, Letter To Dean Dillehunt

Fear that the state of Oregon will not be able to secure funds for the promotion of its building program under the public works administration act because of delays already experienced and demands being made by other states, were expressed by Representative Abrams in a letter prepared Thursday for the consideration of Dr. Richard Dillehunt, dean of the university medical school in Portland.

Dillehunt previously had questioned the decision of the state board of control in allotting funds for the expansion of institutions in dire emergency. The program outlined by the board of control involved an outlay of approximately $1,400,000. "I agree with you that this matter should have been threshed out and the program ready long before the special legislature convened," Abrams said in his letter. "On our arrival at this session we found that no program had been presented but upon investigation discovered that some projects had been hastily representative in congress from approved by the board and these are now being discussed. Orders From Japan Reported: 70 Men to Be Hired: Repairs Start Soon

NORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 30. (P) -The announcement was made here yesterday that the Spaulding Pulp and Paper company plant at Newberg will resume operations about January 20 after being idle for the past two years. Crews are scheduled to start work Monday on repairs and remodeling estimated to cost $10,000.

About 70 men will be employed at the plant, virtually all of them residents of Newberg and vicinity. Many are to return to work who are old employes of the company. A 40-hour week will be ob-

The mill has a capacity of 1500 tons of pulp a month. It was said here that the output is under contract for the Japanese market, and will move through Portland. J. C. Compton of McMinnville is president of the company. It was announced here that financing of the reopening had been completed.

Operation of the Newberg mill has been suspended for about two years, Senator C. K. Spaulding stated here yesterday. He had been advised recently by J. C. Compton of McMinnville, president of the mill company, of plans for early resumption of operations.

What has been the chief stumbling block, financial aid for operating expenses, is being eliminated through formulation of plans along this line, he said. The outlook now, he added, seems much' brighter for going ahead with reopening and running the plant.
