

Schwammel of Oregon State Chosen on A P All-America

FAR WEST HAS THREE PLACES

Mikulak on Second Eleven, Franklin on Third; Choice Explained

By ALAN GOULD
 NEW YORK, Dec. 1. (AP)—In a terrific battle of ballots and ballhoos, for the fifth successive year, the balance of All-American power in college football ranks has been captured by the middle west.

Gridiron products of the great American midlands capture four of the eleven positions in the all-star lineup named by the nation's experts in the ninth annual Associated Press consensus selections.

Three positions on the big team go to the far west. The east and south, although they produced the only major undefeated and untied teams of 1933, have to be satisfied with two places each.

The mid-west can thank the remarkable all-around strength of the Big Ten and its neighboring conference, the Big Six, for the distinction of keeping the All-American argument under control in a season featured by the sharp and startling decline of Notre Dame. This year is the first in five successive campaigns that the Fighting Irish have not contributed one or more players to the all-star eleven. Their only consolation is the naming of Hugh Devore at end on the third team.

Little to Choose
 Taking the All-America squad as a whole, consisting of 33 players, the far west enjoys a slight margin, with ten players named, as compared with nine for the middle west, eight for the east and six for the south, but there was very little to choose in the voting for most of the positions. In fact the majority of contests for places were so close that on paper, at least, many might well figure that the second or third string lineup possesses enough ability and strength to wallop the All-America itself.

Although some All-America selections already released have placed Mikulak of Oregon and Franklin of Oregon State, or both, on the first team, the selection of Schwammel is noteworthy for the reason he is the first player from this state ever placed on the first team in the Associated Press selections which were first published in 1925.

Honorable mention was received by the following coast players: Ends—Palmer, Southern California; Tackles—Field, Oregon State; Bellinger, Gonzaga; Lutz, California; Wiatrack, Washington; Erskine, Southern California; Theodoratus, Washington State; Yeszerki and C. Jorgensen, St. Mary's.

Guards—Cuppoletti, Oregon; Stevens, Southern California; Centers—Hunt, Oregon; Ingram, Washington State; Christie, California.

Quarterbacks—Sorboe, Washington State; Smith, Idaho; Griffith, Southern California.

Halfbacks—Temple, Oregon; Williams, California; Stansberry, Montana; Paglia, Santa Clara.

Fullbacks—Grayson, Stanford; Keeble, U.C.L.A.; Bendele, Washington State; Suikosky, Washington.

Spee Keene says he told his first team not to pass and it didn't. Whitman's secondary defense was right up into the line and there was nothing to keep passes from working; furthermore if a few had been thrown the secondary would have had to back up, making running plays more effective; the Bearcats' regulars might have scored points, than they did, but Spee wanted to see them run. When the second team went in it opened up with a flock of passes and of course they worked.

But, says Spee, every man of the 25 he took to Walla Walla played great ball. And when you consider that second team, already crowding the regulars, it certainly looks good for next year.

Now it's another season—basketball. Willamette as well as Salem high has a championship to defend. Keene lost from his Northwest conference champs of 1932-33, an outstanding center in Bud Kieke, and three capable forwards, Northrup, Griffith and Paul. He has a pretty fair nucleus of regular and reserves left over; Burdett, Lemmon and Manning, forwards; Kloostera who played forward but will return to his old job at center from present indications; Hartley, Kaiser, Frantz and Conors, guards.

From last year's Bearkittens there are McKerron, Eckman, Pemberton, Hagemann and possibly others; Keene won't know whom he can count upon until he looks them over, beginning Monday. From Salem high's state champions come Morley and Mosher. There may be some other good men among the freshmen. There appears to be plenty of material, but just how it will stack up eventually no one can say. The Northwest conference is getting tougher and tougher, but Willamette hopes to play a lot of other teams this year also. Keene is not overly optimistic, but his team should be about as good as last year's. That may not be good enough.

Spee Keene says he told his first team not to pass and it didn't. Whitman's secondary defense was right up into the line and there was nothing to keep passes from working; furthermore if a few had been thrown the secondary would have had to back up, making running plays more effective; the Bearcats' regulars might have scored points, than they did, but Spee wanted to see them run. When the second team went in it opened up with a flock of passes and of course they worked.

But, says Spee, every man of the 25 he took to Walla Walla played great ball. And when you consider that second team, already crowding the regulars, it certainly looks good for next year.

Now it's another season—basketball. Willamette as well as Salem high has a championship to defend. Keene lost from his Northwest conference champs of 1932-33, an outstanding center in Bud Kieke, and three capable forwards, Northrup, Griffith and Paul. He has a pretty fair nucleus of regular and reserves left over; Burdett, Lemmon and Manning, forwards; Kloostera who played forward but will return to his old job at center from present indications; Hartley, Kaiser, Frantz and Conors, guards.

From last year's Bearkittens there are McKerron, Eckman, Pemberton, Hagemann and possibly others; Keene won't know whom he can count upon until he looks them over, beginning Monday. From Salem high's state champions come Morley and Mosher. There may be some other good men among the freshmen. There appears to be plenty of material, but just how it will stack up eventually no one can say. The Northwest conference is getting tougher and tougher, but Willamette hopes to play a lot of other teams this year also. Keene is not overly optimistic, but his team should be about as good as last year's. That may not be good enough.

Spee Keene says he told his first team not to pass and it didn't. Whitman's secondary defense was right up into the line and there was nothing to keep passes from working; furthermore if a few had been thrown the secondary would have had to back up, making running plays more effective; the Bearcats' regulars might have scored points, than they did, but Spee wanted to see them run. When the second team went in it opened up with a flock of passes and of course they worked.

But, says Spee, every man of the 25 he took to Walla Walla played great ball. And when you consider that second team, already crowding the regulars, it certainly looks good for next year.

Now it's another season—basketball. Willamette as well as Salem high has a championship to defend. Keene lost from his Northwest conference champs of 1932-33, an outstanding center in Bud Kieke, and three capable forwards, Northrup, Griffith and Paul. He has a pretty fair nucleus of regular and reserves left over; Burdett, Lemmon and Manning, forwards; Kloostera who played forward but will return to his old job at center from present indications; Hartley, Kaiser, Frantz and Conors, guards.

From last year's Bearkittens there are McKerron, Eckman, Pemberton, Hagemann and possibly others; Keene won't know whom he can count upon until he looks them over, beginning Monday. From Salem high's state champions come Morley and Mosher. There may be some other good men among the freshmen. There appears to be plenty of material, but just how it will stack up eventually no one can say. The Northwest conference is getting tougher and tougher, but Willamette hopes to play a lot of other teams this year also. Keene is not overly optimistic, but his team should be about as good as last year's. That may not be good enough.

Spee Keene says he told his first team not to pass and it didn't. Whitman's secondary defense was right up into the line and there was nothing to keep passes from working; furthermore if a few had been thrown the secondary would have had to back up, making running plays more effective; the Bearcats' regulars might have scored points, than they did, but Spee wanted to see them run. When the second team went in it opened up with a flock of passes and of course they worked.

But, says Spee, every man of the 25 he took to Walla Walla played great ball. And when you consider that second team, already crowding the regulars, it certainly looks good for next year.

Now it's another season—basketball. Willamette as well as Salem high has a championship to defend. Keene lost from his Northwest conference champs of 1932-33, an outstanding center in Bud Kieke, and three capable forwards, Northrup, Griffith and Paul. He has a pretty fair nucleus of regular and reserves left over; Burdett, Lemmon and Manning, forwards; Kloostera who played forward but will return to his old job at center from present indications; Hartley, Kaiser, Frantz and Conors, guards.

From last year's Bearkittens there are McKerron, Eckman, Pemberton, Hagemann and possibly others; Keene won't know whom he can count upon until he looks them over, beginning Monday. From Salem high's state champions come Morley and Mosher. There may be some other good men among the freshmen. There appears to be plenty of material, but just how it will stack up eventually no one can say. The Northwest conference is getting tougher and tougher, but Willamette hopes to play a lot of other teams this year also. Keene is not overly optimistic, but his team should be about as good as last year's. That may not be good enough.

Large Crowd To See Army Battle Irish

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. (AP)—A capacity crowd of 73,000 is expected to jam the Yankee stadium tomorrow to find out whether there is any real answer to the 1933 riddle—what's wrong with Notre Dame—or whether the fighting Irish will prove simply the final stepping stone to an unbeaten season for West Point's safes.

Because it is the last and biggest chance for Notre Dame to pull something out of the football wreckage, in addition to being the ideal spot for the underdog to come through, expert opinion tonight carefully weighed the prospect of an upset. Army, nevertheless, ruled a 9 to 5 favorite and, on the basis of comparative records, figured to win handily from a team that has been struggling all season to find the right combination.

Many officials anticipated a sell-out, with less than 2000 tickets left today and the demand for these increasing. They frustrated the activities of speculators by putting the remaining pasteboards on public sale. The scalpers were asking $10 to $15 for "choice" seats but trimmed the scale when Army set up headquarters.

Dallas Winds Up Fair Grid Season

DALLAS, Dec. 1. — Coach Shreve's football team wound up its 1933 season here Thanksgiving day when they lost their annual battle with Amity high by a 14 to 6 score. Dallas took the lead in the first quarter but dropped behind in the second period to fall to score during the remainder of the game.

Despite this setback, the Orange and Black had a successful season, winning five out of eight games for a percentage of .625. Dallas won the Polk county championship on Armistice Day by defeating Independence 6 to 0. This was the second straight year the locals have defeated their old rivals and was the first time since the rivalry started that Dallas has won two straight games from Independence.

Dallas' record for the season follows:

Dallas	..... 6	Alumni	..... 7
Dallas	..... 12	Dayton	..... 0
Dallas	..... 13	Philmath	..... 0
Dallas	..... 35	Newport	..... 0
Dallas	..... 7	Molalla	..... 6
Dallas	..... 6	Gervais	..... 7
Dallas	..... 6	Independence	..... 0

Calgary Hockey Team is Winner

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—The Portland Buckaroos received a thorough, 3 to 1, thrashing from the league leading Calgary Tigers in their northwest hockey league contest here tonight before a crowd that packed the Coliseum.

HARMSON TO COACH
 BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 1. (AP)—Nelson A. Kellogg, director of athletics at Lehigh university, today announced the appointment of Glen Harmson, assistant football coach at Purdue university, as coach at Lehigh.

The 1933 All-American Team as Chosen by The Associated Press

Pos.	Player	College	Age	Wgt.
E	PAUL GEISLER	Centenary	22	189
T	FRED CRAWFORD	Duke	23	195
G	FRANCIS W. SCHWAMMEL	Iowa	22	215
C	CHARLES J. BERNARD	Michigan	22	215
G	WILLIAM CORBUS	Stanford	21	195
T	ADOLPHE J. SCHWAMMEL	Oregon State	24	214
E	JOSEPH SKLADANY	Pittsburgh	21	184
Q	IRVINE WARBURTON	Southern California	21	147
H	FRANCIS LUND	Minnesota*	20	175
H	JACK M. BUCKLER	Army*	23	159
F	GEORGE HENRY SAUER	Nebraska	22	195

*One more season to play.

SECOND TEAM
 William Smith, Washington..... E..... Hugh Devore, Notre Dame
 Charles Cepl, Princeton..... T..... Cassius Gentry, Oklahoma
 Thomas Hupke, Alabama..... G..... Harvey Jablonsky, Army
 Lee Coats, California at L. A. .... C..... Lawrence Siemering, San F.
 Aaron Rosenberg, S. Calif. .... G..... George Barclay, N. Carolina
 Charles Harvey, Holy Cross..... T..... Arthur Buss, Michigan State
 Fred Petosky, Michigan..... E..... Lester Borden, Fordham
 Paul Johnson, Army..... Q..... Clifford Montgomery, Columbia
 Beattie Feathers, Tennessee..... H..... Norman Franklin, Ore. State
 Duke Purvis, Purdue..... H..... George Wilson, St. Mary's
 Mike Mikulak, Oregon..... F..... Ralph Kercheval, Kentucky

CURT COMMENTS

The Willamette Bearcats wound up their football season in a blaze of glory and with a ringing promise of the accomplishments looked for next year when nearly all of them are entitled to come back and, judging from the spirit demonstrated at a dinner in Walla Walla which followed their 40 to 6 victory over Whitman, all of those eligible will be back, or break a leg trying.

Yes, the Bearcats had a dinner, unlike the Salem high boys. Coach Hollis Huntington's players understood somebody was cooking a turkey for them but they never connected with a drumstick. Both of those teams have given Salem every right to be proud of them, and it shouldn't be expecting too much to presume that somebody will banquet each group.

Spee Keene says he told his first team not to pass and it didn't. Whitman's secondary defense was right up into the line and there was nothing to keep passes from working; furthermore if a few had been thrown the secondary would have had to back up, making running plays more effective; the Bearcats' regulars might have scored points, than they did, but Spee wanted to see them run. When the second team went in it opened up with a flock of passes and of course they worked.

But, says Spee, every man of the 25 he took to Walla Walla played great ball. And when you consider that second team, already crowding the regulars, it certainly looks good for next year.

Now it's another season—basketball. Willamette as well as Salem high has a championship to defend. Keene lost from his Northwest conference champs of 1932-33, an outstanding center in Bud Kieke, and three capable forwards, Northrup, Griffith and Paul. He has a pretty fair nucleus of regular and reserves left over; Burdett, Lemmon and Manning, forwards; Kloostera who played forward but will return to his old job at center from present indications; Hartley, Kaiser, Frantz and Conors, guards.

From last year's Bearkittens there are McKerron, Eckman, Pemberton, Hagemann and possibly others; Keene won't know whom he can count upon until he looks them over, beginning Monday. From Salem high's state champions come Morley and Mosher. There may be some other good men among the freshmen. There appears to be plenty of material, but just how it will stack up eventually no one can say. The Northwest conference is getting tougher and tougher, but Willamette hopes to play a lot of other teams this year also. Keene is not overly optimistic, but his team should be about as good as last year's. That may not be good enough.

TROY-BULLDOG BATTLE TODAY

"Stop Warburton" is Sole Advice Friends Give To Georgia Team

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1. (AP)—The University of Georgia, here for a football game with the University of Southern California tomorrow, was told in two words from the mouths of unofficial scouts just the right system to employ in the game.

"Stop Warburton" the Bulldogs from classic Athens were warned by their friends and well-wishers as they ended their long trip from the old south.

The crackers may find the mighty mite is not easily stopped but if they can do it, it is a good trick and will help their cause no end. The scooter of the Trojans has made four touchdown runs, ranging from 54 yards to 80, to say nothing of several around 40 yards.

The last time the red and black team from Georgia invaded Los Angeles it bumped into a red hot Southern California outfit and the game was turned into a 60 to 0 rout. Nothing of the kind was expected in tomorrow's contest.

Coach Howard Jones told his men at a final workout this morning they could take no chances

Dallas ..... 6 Woodburn ..34
 Dallas ..... 6Amity .....14
 Dallas ..... 85 Opponents ..68

Liberate Cat—A cat, locked in the State Street grocery store since last Tuesday when creditors closed the establishment, was freed yesterday by county officials. The authorities did not notice the cat when the door of the place was locked, but its loud meowing attracted many pedestrians yesterday.

POLLY AND HER PALS

MICKEY MOUSE

THIMBLE THEATRE—Starring Popeye

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

TOOTS AND CASPER

ELI-PRINCETON CLASSIC TODAY

Undefeated Tigers Favored But Their Backers Not Taking Long End

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 12. (AP)—The fading breath of another football season blew in tonight on the embers of a rivalry that was old when grandfather was young. It fanned into glowing, one-day life again, the famed conflict of Princeton and Yale, 60 years old at their 57th meeting in the huge Yale bowl tomorrow.

Since 1873 the Tigers have been coming to New England and the Elis have been going down to New Jersey, year after year with only one break during the world war, and their followers have come along with them.

Hotels were crowded, the lobbies filled with the bows of old friends meeting again. There were lights everywhere, excitement, but no wise Princeton man took the odds that made his team a 2 1/2 to 1 favorite.

Winding up the 1933 season, sharing only with Army and Notre Dame in New York the major honors of the day, the game seemed certain to attract a crowd of almost 50,000 to the huge bowl, far less than capacity, but considered unusual under the circumstances. Perfect weather conditions are promised, clear and cold.

Such a crowd would surpass the attendance here two years ago, when the tables were exactly turned, Princeton had the poor eleven, Yale the mighty array, and the Elis won by a margin the Tigers will be fighting bitterly to avenge tomorrow, 51 to 14. They tied last season at Princeton, the first year for the Tigers under the direction of Orrin C. "Fritz" Crisler, the man from Minnesota, who led the Jungle Cats out of the football wilderness. Over the span of 56 games, Yale has won 30 times, Princeton 18 and ten matches have been tied.

MEDFORD DECLINES STATE TITLE GAME
 MEDFORD, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—An invitation to meet Washington high school at Portland next Saturday in a game to decide the mythical state interscholastic football championship was declined today by the Medford high school football team. James J. Richardson, manager of the Multnomah stadium at Portland, extended the invitation in a long distance telephone conversation today with Coach Darwin K. Burgher of Medford.

Washington high of Portland defeated Salem high in a Thanksgiving day game at Multnomah stadium while Medford high won from Bend high in another turkey day encounter at Medford.

Hugh J. Boyd, principal of Washington high, had said that the Colonials would be glad to consider the game with Medford.

MEDFORD DECLINES STATE TITLE GAME

MEDFORD, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—An invitation to meet Washington high school at Portland next Saturday in a game to decide the mythical state interscholastic football championship was declined today by the Medford high school football team. James J. Richardson, manager of the Multnomah stadium at Portland, extended the invitation in a long distance telephone conversation today with Coach Darwin K. Burgher of Medford.

Washington high of Portland defeated Salem high in a Thanksgiving day game at Multnomah stadium while Medford high won from Bend high in another turkey day encounter at Medford.

Hugh J. Boyd, principal of Washington high, had said that the Colonials would be glad to consider the game with Medford.

PA KNOWS WHEN HE'S LICKED!

Baiting the Trap

Time to Check Out

On the Trail of an Appetite

JUNIOR HOOP LEADERS TO MEET

Preliminary to organization of the junior church basketball league, a meeting of teachers of boys' classes of members of such classes will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the city Y.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—Word was received here by the Associated Press today that the University of Nebraska has not made any negotiations for a football game with the University of Oregon.

It had been reported that the Cornhuskers, victors over the Oregon State Beavers at Lincoln Thanksgiving day, had indicated willingness to meet the Webfoots at Portland December 16.

John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska, said his school is not negotiating for a football game with Oregon university "at any time."

Hugh Rosson, graduate manager of the University of Oregon,

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—Word was received here by the Associated Press today that the University of Nebraska has not made any negotiations for a football game with the University of Oregon.

It had been reported that the Cornhuskers, victors over the Oregon State Beavers at Lincoln Thanksgiving day, had indicated willingness to meet the Webfoots at Portland December 16.

John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska, said his school is not negotiating for a football game with Oregon university "at any time."

Hugh Rosson, graduate manager of the University of Oregon,

CORNHUSKERS NOT ASKING FOR GAME

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 1. (AP)—Word was received here by the Associated Press today that the University of Nebraska has not made any negotiations for a football game with the University of Oregon.

It had been reported that the Cornhuskers, victors over the Oregon State Beavers at Lincoln Thanksgiving day, had indicated willingness to meet the Webfoots at Portland December 16.

John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska, said his school is not negotiating for a football game with Oregon university "at any time."

Hugh Rosson, graduate manager of the University of Oregon,

By CLIFF STERRETT

By WALT DISNEY

By SEGAR

By DARRELL McCLURE

By JIMMY MURPHY

