Allens in Wreck—Mrs. E. A. Allen is recuperating from hand bruises suffered Sunday night when the car in which she and Mr. Allen were riding was struck head-on by a machine driven by a Mr. Staats of Portland. Staats was attempting to pass another machine when he crashed into the Allen car. Allen, who is senior at the Royal Court, went down to view the wreck of his car yesterday and found it almost beyond repair. Staats' car was also badly wrecked. The accident happened about five miles north of Woodburn.

Game Licenses Here—The county clerk here has received a supply of hunting and fishing licenses for 1934 and placed them on sale at $3 each or $5 for the combination. License applicants for 1934 are required by law to file a written report on the number of game birds and animals killed during 1933; the past year this was not mandatory but instead only a request of the game commission. Trappers hereafter need have only a hunting license.

120 BOYS COMING TO Y CONFERENCE

Valley Older Boys' Affair to Start Friday; Dean U. G. Dubach is Speaker

Between 120 and 150 Willamette valley school boys are expected to attend the Older Boys' conference here beginning Friday, December 15, and continuing through to Sunday noon. The theme of the conference centers about youth in the new deal, the relation of young men to civic and individual problems, with Dean U. G. Dubach of Oregon State college as principal speaker outside the Y. M. C. A. organization. The final program for the sessions was gone over here yesterday by Gus Moore, boys' work secretary, and Fred Crosby, boys' work secretary for the Northwest council.

Registration opens at the city Y at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon with all out-of-town boys to be assigned to Salem homes for entertainment during their stay here.

Professor W. C. Jones of Willamette university will be toastmaster and Dean U. G. Dubach principal speaker for the banquet scheduled for 6:30 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church. Mayor Douglas McKay will extend the city's welcome to the conference while Phil Brownell, president of the junior board and of the Hi-Y is slated to give the Y's welcome with a response from one of the Portland delegates.

Singing, discussion groups and recreational activities, under the direction of Dwight Adams, including basketball in the Willamette gym and swimming in the Y pool will occupy Saturday afternoon.

Matt Thompson and Jim Palmer will be in charge of the fellowship supper at 8 p. m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian church social hall which will be followed by discussion groups. Sunday morning meetings open at 9:30 a. m. in the Willamette chapel. During the morning meeting of the discussion groups a committee composed of secretaries of the various groups will meet to formulate the "findings report", a summary of discussions. At 11 o'clock Sunday morning, Dean Frank M. Erickson of Willamette university will address the group. Jim Palmer, executive secretary of the central Y at Portland will close the session.

Group to Study Shipping Future Will Meet Soon

Alderman Walter Fuhrer, chairman of the special committee named by Mayor Douglas McKay to study cargo possibilities of the Willamette river, yesterday announced his committee probably would meet before the end of this week and have a report to file with the city council at its session next Monday night. Other committee members are Senator C. K. Spaulding and Karl W. Heinlein. The survey is to be made to obtain information relative to the city's application for a $95,000 public works loan and grant for construction of a municipal dock. The Salem Navigation company, which would lease the dock, now occupies an 80 foot strip of city property beginning at Chemeke street and running north on the water front. Only $1 rent has been paid the city for use of the property, this for the five year period ending in August 1931.

TAX APPLIES TO ALL SALES OF HOGS, SAY

Farmer Must Pay $1 Process Levy Even on Selling Hog to Neighbor

Farmers who sell hogs to their neighbors are just as subject to the processing tax as the buyer who handles quantity lots. W. H. Stensloff of the Valley Packing company said yesterday in answer to inquiries made for farmers.

For the month of December, the processing tax is at the rate of $1. This packing plant here is paying by deducting this sum from the market price of hogs. In other words, with the market quoted at $3.85, as it is today, the farmer gets $2.85 and the packing company pays an additional dollar processing tax, thus in reality making the market $4.85. Stensloff declared efforts would be made to return this dollar to the producer, but so far the matter has not been worked out.

Every hog sold, no matter to whom, is subject to the tax which is collected by the government to repay those who take advantage of the hog allotment plan—and producers who fail to pay it when they sell to friend or neighbor is subject to government regulation and penalty on the matter.

According to the basis on which the packers work, farmers selling a hog to a neighbor are entitled to ask a dollar above the market quotation, as buyers' quotations

Consumer Held Due to Benefit, Water Reduction

When the Portland city council recently reduced the rate on water purchased by a number of smaller distributors, it acted in the interest of the consumers and not the distributors, Charles M. Thomas, state utility commissioner, declared in a statement issued here yesterday.

Thomas has sent letters to these distributors demanding that they revise their water tariffs so that the reductions may be passed on to the consumers. The reduction was approximately 20 per cent.

11 PROHIBITION PRISONERS FACE PARDON, SAID

With the 18th amendment and the prohibitory sections of the state statutes and constitution repealed, and with the manufacture, sale and use of liquor once more legalized in Oregon, political speculators were Monday venturing various guesses as to what Governor Meier intends to do about 11 violators of the extinct prohibition law who are serving sentences in the state penitentiary.

Likewise, there is further speculation regarding the fate of 11 quorum law violators serving time in county and city jails. In the interests of economy and because the crimes of which they were convicted are no longer crimes it has been indicated that the governor may pardon all 11 quorum law offenders.

Of the 11 offenders in the penitentiary eight are there on conviction of possession charges; one for setting up a still for manufacture of intoxicating liquor; one for transportation, and one for the possession of mash for the manufacture of beer.

Price Suit Up—Suit of Price vs. Price, involving a contest divorce action and a suit over disputed property rights, comes to trial here tomorrow in equity court.
