

MAC DOWELL CLUB CONCERT PLEASING

No doubt the exquisite portrayal of this beautiful number conjured other pictures in the minds of the spell-bound audience. At any rate, when Miss Eades paused, the audience held its breath, and when she continued it relaxed a little, but still felt the pull of that great bond between artist and audience when the two feel as one.

The final number of the group was as powerful as the second was delicate. Vibrant chords and skillful octave work, with both left and right hands demonstrated the strength and versatility of the player.

As encores, the pianist played "En Route" by Godard and "F Sharp, Major Etude" by Arensky. In the second half of the program were presented Mrs. William Fischer, soprano, Miss Marie Eaton, mezzo-soprano, and Mrs. Saphus Starr, soprano, as soloists with ensembles. The numbers were "The Shepherd's Story" by Dickason, and "The Sailor's Christmas, Opus 48," by Chamaine. Both numbers were well-received.

The mezzo-soprano solo by Miss Margaret Simms with violin obbligato by Miss Florence Taylor, of "Cantique de Noel" displayed the rich fulness of Miss Simms beautiful voice. She declined an enthusiastic encore.

The men's and women's choruses combined in the last four numbers, with a particularly charming rendition of "While By My Sheep," 17th century hymn, arranged by Jungst. An athena quartette made up of Miss Bernice Rickman, Mrs. H. J. Hjort, Earl Potter and Earl Neal responded from the wings to the joyous voices of the chorus.

Miss Lena Belle Tartar was poised and masterful in her direction and should be proud of the performance of the MacDowell club last night.

of the Portland junior symphony orchestra. Representatives Hannah Martin and Otto Palms of the Marion county delegation, and the Martin upon work of the special session of the legislature. Mrs. Martin said that while she did not vote for the sales tax, it is certainly true the common school system of the state is near collapse. "And whether you want the schools of the state to remain open by passing the sales tax next May 18 depends upon your vote at that time."

COLLEGE DEBATERS ARGUE IN PRACTICE

Something new in the way of intercollegiate good will was on the state last night on the Willamette campus when Linfield and Willamette debaters hand it out among themselves just for practice. Five teams from each institution took the floor in separate contests in separate rooms before experienced critics. When they had argued for the full time allotted in a regular debate they were given the judgment of the critics and later the entire group got together for a round table discussion of each others' strong and weak points.

A similar stunt is planned to be carried out early next year in McMinnville. The topic for discussion was "The judgment of the powers of the president of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy."

Representing Linfield in the practice fray were Moore and Cummins, Woodell and Edwards, McKes and Wilson, Undergraph and Wells and Sawyer and Morgan. Willamette speakers were Brown and Knotts, Bennett and Mosher, Lucke and Barnett, Morley and Kester and Scott and Williams.

the Dillinger gang was keeping a car at the garage and went to the establishment with a plain clothes detail preparatory to setting a police trap.

The officer entered the place alone, his companions remaining in a car at the curb. A man and a woman entered a moment later as the officer was talking to Bloomberg. Shanley walked toward the man intending to question him. The latter whipped out a pistol and sent a half dozen bullets into Shanley's chest.

Using CWA Pay For Liquor Will Mean Dismissal

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Dec. 14, (AP) — Employees working on civil works projects in Klamath county were warned today by Nelson Reed, head of the federal re-employment office here, that they would be cut off the list if they were found to be spending their pay checks for liquor.

Reed said he had received word that several men had spent their checks last week "on a bend."

PRICE CASE OPENS IN CIRCUIT COURT

Taking of testimony for the plaintiff, principally through the evidence offered by Mrs. Lyllis F. Price herself, marked the first day in circuit court here of the contested divorce action of Mrs. Price against Oscar E. Price, her husband. Judge L. G. Lowelling is hearing the case which yesterday attracted an audience which filled the courtroom throughout the day.

Mrs. Price testified that she was urged not to place her property in trust before she married the defendant. She contended that a trust deed he executed the day before their marriage to three pieces of real property he owns should be set aside. The instrument was not recorded until the marriage was consummated.

Considerable testimony was taken concerning payment of a claim for loss during a burglary. Mrs. Price contends her husband included articles as stolen which had been lost before the burglary occurred. Frederick A. Greer, insurer, now in charge of bond and orchestra music at Redlands, Cal. Regarding his work Prof. Thayer writes:

"I have a high school band of 85 pieces, an orchestra of 75, two junior orchestras, one of 64 and one of 49, also six grade orchestras of 95; a girls' band of 35, a jazz orchestra of 24, a saxophone ensemble of 10; so you see we have very little time to go fishing. I go to work every day at 6:45 and work clear through till 4:30 with 30 minutes for lunch, although don't mind it as everything is so pleasant here. School board, superintendent and principal are mighty fine to work with and we have a wonderful band room, 30x80 with a 40-foot ceiling, two pianos, plenty of chairs, light and heat."

Prof. Thayer Has Charge of Bands In Redlands, Cal.

Dr. H. C. Epley is in receipt of a letter from O. P. Thayer, former bandmaster at the high school, now in charge of band and orchestra music at Redlands, Cal. Regarding his work Prof. Thayer writes:

"I have a high school band of 85 pieces, an orchestra of 75, two junior orchestras, one of 64 and one of 49, also six grade orchestras of 95; a girls' band of 35, a jazz orchestra of 24, a saxophone ensemble of 10; so you see we have very little time to go fishing. I go to work every day at 6:45 and work clear through till 4:30 with 30 minutes for lunch, although don't mind it as everything is so pleasant here. School board, superintendent and principal are mighty fine to work with and we have a wonderful band room, 30x80 with a 40-foot ceiling, two pianos, plenty of chairs, light and heat."

"Our high school, both band and orchestra handle some wonderful numbers. We will give a concert after New Year's. I will use about 110 pieces comprising about 60 violins, 10 basses, 12 cellos, besides the other instruments including a harp. We will play Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, ballet music from 'Sylvia,' Bizet's suite from 'Carmen,' a violin concerto, a harp solo and a number of other pieces on same order, so you can see they must play well to handle this kind of a program. On our band program for Orange show in February we play 'Unfinished Symphony,' Egyptian ballet music, overture 'Rosamunde' and numbers on same order."

RARE OLD GUNS, COINS EXHIBITED NEAR HERE

Collected by D. E. Decker, New Resident

A fortune in old guns and coins comes to this section with D. E. Decker, artist and antique collector who has just leased the Cherry Hill Hilling station four miles west of Salem on the Salem-Dallas highway. Mr. Decker has on display at the station his collection of old guns and coins. He has more than 200 guns, some over 400 years old, and for the gun collection alone he has refused $8000.

Of especial interest in the gun array are two: One which came from a pirate ship sunk off the west coast of Florida more than 400 years ago, and the other a sword on which is inscribed some highlights in Egyptian history, inscribed in hieroglyphics. He owns guns and spurs once the property of the James brothers. Among the numismatic collection are 30 B. C. coins, including several used in the time of Julius Caesar and others representing almost every historical period of the world's history. A coin he possesses and issued 504 B. C. is the oldest dated coin known to exist.

Who hasn't heard of the "widow's mite" Decker has one—a small brass coin. It will be recalled these "mites" brought words of praise from Jesus Christ to a poor woman who dropped two of them in the temple offering box.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker and their two children have "settled down" here in order that their two children may enter school. The Decker's have traveled about the country so much in their collecting that the children have never attended school. Decker has worked for the federal treasury department in purchasing old gold and silver and for a Texas numismatic company in purchasing old coins, in addition to working his own hobby.

revenue the city will have from this source for upwards of two years since the special session legislature appropriated the first $5,000,000 of liquor revenues under the Knox law for unemployment relief.

Right of the city to collect its own licenses and taxes from beer and wine is somewhat in doubt under the Knox law but the license committee will attempt to have the new ordinance enacted and enforced until it may be held illegal.

F. E. Needham is chairman of the police, traffic and license committee, and Walter Fuhrer the third member.

With 18,000,000 men estimated out of work at the start of CWA's program, White said the government aimed to employ 4,000,000. Government estimates are that 2,000,000 remaining men are presumably unemployable. The remaining 4,000,000 must rely on resources stored up during the summer, as relief for an the revised in general situation which CWA is expected to provide.
