Project Criticized—The proposed Central - Loranee peoples' utility district, southwest of Eugene, would not be self-liquidating under the original setup, but it might be practical in event the electrical service and the grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials were obtained from the government, the state hydro-electric commission held in a report released Friday. The commission estimated the cost of the necessary transmission lines and distribution system at approximately $34,000. In case the federal grant was obtained this investment would be reduced to $87,000.

SCOUTS WILL SEEK ROOSEVELT AWARD

Several Boy Scout troops in Salem and vicinity are expected to apply for the President Franklin D. Roosevelt 1933 award, a red, white and blue ribbon 18 inches long to be attached to the troop flag, according to F. Howard Zinsler, district scout commissioner. The chief purpose of the award is to encourage scouts to enlist other boys in the organization and keep their membership active for at least four years.

To qualify, new troops must follow an approved activities program for three months and register three 12 year old boys between October 1 and December 31; old troops also must carry on an approved program, reregister at least 80 per cent of their 1932 membership and obtain a large number of recruits from among 12 year olds.

The award is offered to stimulate interest in the ten-year national scout program undertaken last year in an effort to give at least 25 per cent of the boys of the national at least four years of scout citizenship training.

SALES TAX DECIED BY SENATOR BROWN

Discussing "human rights versus property rights" State Senator Sam Brown Thursday in addressing Lions club at the Gray Belle charged that the new sales tax set was purposely held off until the last minutes of the recent special legislative session so the legislators would have no other alternative than to accept it to provide necessary financial relief for the schools of the state. He held that the cry for relief to the schools was tacked onto the sales tax agitation as a blind by force working throughout the nation to shift the tax burden to citizens least able to pay.

"If the people again vote the sales tax down, the next thing they (sales tax proponents) will have a school for blind mice or some other damn thing," the senator declared. "We're interested in our schools but we're also interested in the people who work."

"The interests are afraid we'll follow in the footsteps of some countries and take from those that have. To ward that off, they want in this country to enact a scheme whereby those least able will have to pay."

PRICE WILL TELL HIS SIDE MONDAY

Oscar E. Price will take the stand Monday at 10 a. m. as his own witness in the contested divorce case being heard before Judge L. G. Lewelling. Virtually all the case of the plaintiff, Mrs. Price, was completed when court adjourned Friday. Judge Lewelling warned counsel for both litigants that he wished the case concluded by Monday night and said he would hold a night session if necessary. Two days have thus far been taken by testimony of plaintiff and her witnesses.

Mrs. Price continued on the stand yesterday until afternoon. She was followed by a nurse who attended her during an illness by Dr. W. B. More and by her son, Willard Kapphan. She contends her health was affected by frequent disputes with her husband.

Listeners at the trial filled every seat in the small courtroom yesterday and overflowed into the halls.

Governor's Auto License 99,999

Governor Julius L. Meier's car in 1934 will carry license number 99,999, it was learned yesterday at the statehouse. His son, Jack Meier, will drive a car bearing license tag 100,000. Two years ago a considerable controversy was waged between the governor and the secretary of state's office over the issuance of distinguishing license numbers to the executive.

Then the auto department asserted that no special numbers would be given to anyone, tags being

The Christmas season arrived at the state capitol yesterday when workmen set up a large tree in the center of the first floor lobby, underneath the dome.

On the tree will be placed gifts of food and clothing from state employees to needy families. Salem groups will sing carols around it in late afternoon and evenings of the days immediately preceding Christmas.
