The profile coast hop markets were like quiet during the week ending December 14, with trading and movement of considerably less volume than during the past few weeks according to the Weekly Hop Market Review of the bureau of agricultural economics. Slackening of foreign demand, particularly from English buyers, was regarded as the principal factor in the quiet market situation this week, but a continued full domestic inquiry was an additional influence. The less active inquiry from England was attributed to the needs of buyers in that market being supplied for the present from the heavy recent purchases, and also from the further drop in the pound sterling, which fell to $5.03 % on December 13, compared with $5.12% December 6. Despite the dull demand from both foreign and domestic buyers the moderate to light offerings by growers, particularly for the better quality hops, tended to maintain a steady undertone to the

Other sales included 30 bales of better quality at 30c; and 40 bales at 33c per pound net growers. Practically all of these sales were for English account, with buyers from that market continuing to manifest interest in Oregon hops throughout the period, although less actively than during recent weeks. While the definite and complete check on the 1933 Oregon production and remaining stocks. has not yet been completed by the Oregon dealers who cooperate in assembling those figures, preliminary trade estimates indicate the Oregon crop this year totaled around 97,800 bales, of which about 22,000 to 25,000 bales remained in growers hands on December 13. The Washington 1933 hop production was placed according to trade estimates at around 31,600 bales, but figures as to unsold stocks remaining in first hands were not yet available.

No changes were reported on local grain and live stock markets.

PORTLAND, Dec. 16. (A)-Cut n butter cube prices on the produce exchange for the week end session failed to indicate the fuil volume of weakness in the trade here. Neither did it show the depression in the entire American market as a result of the huge surplus of fresh make as well as the inability to make much of a movement out of store.

Government buying appears the only hope remaining for the trade. Actual sales of butter on the open market were being made in some instances 1c below the s-e tablished quotations. Butterfat drop of 1c was in line with the cut in butter. Weak situation was confronting the egg trade locally. Northern and interior markets are trying to unload some of their storage eggs here despite the fact that Portland has sufficient to supply

CHICAGO, Dec. 16. (P)-Endof-the-week buying that in some quarters was ascribed to government-sponsored sources gave the wheat market renewed strength late today. Rallies in price virtually wiped out early losses of 1 1/2 c a bushel for wheat. The rallies were aided by reports of persistent dearth of moisture throughout domtsic winter wheat territory southwest and by official estimates of the 1933 wheat crop in 41 countries exclusive of Russia and China showing a reduction of 6 per cent from PORTLAND, Dec. 18. (AP)-Despite the cut of 1c in the price on colored fowls on the produce exchange for the late session, buyers appeared willing to pay the former price of 11c for such offerings.

geese and ducks on account of the shortage of other fowls. Few of the former two have been received recently which has created a nominal price list Country killed meats continued the good demand shown during the last few days. The public appeared a trifle tired of fowls and

There was a good call for both the cool weather has created a greater call for beef, pork and lamb. The latter was scarce. Considerable gain in strength was suggested for onlens at country points despite efforts of some operators to talk of lack of demand, Local trading, however, was adversely influenced by the supply of lew grade and cheap priced Yakimas.
