

Coast Champs Look Good as They Wallop Bearcats 41-24

NEW MEN LOOK GOOD IN LINEUP

Kidder and Folen Hold Own With Vets; Willamette Shooting is "Off"

The Pacific Coast conference champions are good enough to repeat, provided they get their share of the breaks—such as the verdict of Salem basketball fans who saw the Oregon State college hoopsters romp to a 41 to 24 victory over Willamette university's castemen here Wednesday night.

Only three of last year's Beaver regulars saw action, "Red" McDonald being indisposed, but "Skeet" O'Connell, George Hibbard and Carl Lenchitsky scintillated as they did in the historic series with U.S.C. last March, and the new men, Kidder and Folen, looked every bit as good. Coach "Slats" Gill had revised his playing system somewhat to fit the change in material, but all of the Orangemen knew just what they were supposed to do and performed in an entirely workmanlike manner.

In contrast to last week's game with Oregon, was the Bearcats day Oregon, was the Bearcats who started with a run Wednesday night. They quickly grabbed a 4 to 1 lead and stayed ahead for about six minutes, the Orangemen finally overtaking them at 8-7, then piling in points until the halftime score was 26-13 for the college.

Willamette speeded up its floor play in the second half and would have reduced the margin, had Coach "Spec" Keene's men been able to find the hoop with anything like average consistency. As it was Oregon State outscored them 15 to 11 in the second half.

Playing mostly a feeding game, George Hibbard nevertheless found time to roll in six field goals to take high point honors for the Beavers. Kidder and Folen, the latter converted from a center to a guard, played a waiting game in the corners, Kidder breaking in for close shots and Folen specializing in long ones from his corner.

The game was fairly rough and indicated the need of two officials to maintain order on the floor.

MILK PRICES TO BE ESTABLISHED SOON

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 27. (AP)—E. G. Harlan, chairman of the newly created state milk commission announced here Tuesday that milk prices in the larger cities of Oregon will be established by the commission within a few days. The commission is operating under the law enacted at the recent legislative special session declaring milk a public utility.

Harlan said an order is now being prepared and will go into effect within a few days.

The chairman of the new commission today submitted his resignation as secretary of the Eugene chamber of commerce, to go into effect Jan. 1. He left for Portland to assume his new duties there tomorrow, when the milk commission will meet again.

Pointing out that the commission has been provided broad regulatory powers under the new law, Harlan said:

"The regulation will be done according to consumption in each shed. The commission will strive to maintain adequate milk supplies at a fair price to the producer, distributor and consumer. In milk sheds where there are already too many producers, the commission will attempt to reduce the milk production among those already established. It will prevent people from entering the field where the supply is already adequate."

Columbia's Gems of the Pigskin

By BURNLEY

WHEN Columbia a few weeks ago received the Rose Bowl invitation, Lou Little remarked, "We may not beat Stanford, but at least we will show them three real football players in Montgomery, Matal and Barabas."

These three stars are the aces of the Lion eleven. Montgomery and Matal are veterans, while Barabas is a sensational sophomore half-back.

Captain Cliff Montgomery is unquestionably the spark plug of the Columbia team. Small and light—he weighs but 160 pounds—Cliff is a human dynamo in action. He directs the play from his quarterback post with all the craft and brilliance of a truly great field general, and he possesses the invaluable faculty of inspiring his team-mates.

Montgomery is a very talented ball-carrier and may be counted upon to show the Stanford players some extra fancy leather lugging. At times he runs with the ball in a crouching position, bending almost unbelievably close to the ground as he hurtles forward behind interference. The big Red forward wall will not find Monty easy to stop.

Tony "Red" Matal, Columbia's other standout player, has been playing a brilliant game at end. Little, who is not given to over-enthusiastic statements, has called Matal the greatest end he has ever seen.

During the 1933 season the red-headed wingman's work on offense has been incredibly disastrous to the enemy teams. Single-handed he takes care of the defending tackle, a rare feat in football, and a feat that was largely responsible for many of Montgomery's long runs. And defensively Matal is even better than on the firing end.

Stanford had better watch this red-head!

LANDLORD IS HELD FOR WOUNDING TWO

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 27. (AP)—Two women were shot, one perhaps fatally, here Tuesday, and Jack Kutsch, 61, was held by the police as the assailant after he allegedly admitted turning a rifle upon them because they had failed to pay $22.50 rent on a cottage he had let to them.

Mrs. Adelia Wilmot, 40, and her daughter, Mrs. Lois Maceto, 22, were the victims. Physicians said Mrs. Wilmot probably would not live and that Mrs. Maceto was in a serious condition.

Angry neighbors swarmed about the place after hearing the shots and when threats of summary violence were uttered against Kutsch, police hurried him to the city jail.

Officers said Kutsch had rented a cottage in the rear of his home to Mrs. Maceto and her husband, Victor Maceto, the latter a jobless man, and had been attempting for several days to collect back rent. The Maceto family started moving out of the cottage this morning and Kutsch, police stated, appeared and warned them not to take their household goods away without paying him.

Under New Flag

The football death toll for the season just ended was considerably smaller than that of 1932. A committee headed by Mal Stevens, former Yale coach, turned in a report at the coaches' meeting in Chicago showing that of 87 deaths reported, only 28 were directly attributable to football.

The committee further reported that 27.8 per cent of all football injuries, including those which were fatal, were preventable being caused as follows: Inadequate coaching and poor playing fields 17.7 per cent; fatigue and carelessness, 4.9 per cent; physical condition 5.2 per cent.

No college varsity football player died in the 1933 season as a direct result of a football injury; two college freshman players are on the list of 28, which also includes 12 sandlot players, 12 high school players and two on independent amateur teams.

CURT COMMENTS

The first intercity independent basketball attraction, of several which are planned for the season now opening, is scheduled for Friday night when Pade's of Salem, strengthened by the addition of "Doc" Allen, will play DeNeff's of Eugene on the Parish floor at 8:15.

DeNeff's will bring such notable ex-Westfoot stars as Gene and Bill Eberhart, Cliff Horner and Windsor Calkins. This team has always proven a good attraction in Salem, and the general impression is that Pade's will give the Eugene stars a tough battle, win or lose.

Stanford Ceases Two-a-Day Schedule; Columbia's Gridsters Ready

By BRIAN BELL
PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 27. (AP)—Stanford football players left the two-a-day workouts behind them today and from now until the New Year's game with Columbia in the Rose Bowl will be content to practice once each day.

The morning workout was little more than tossing the ball around but the drill gained momentum in the afternoon. Coach Tiny Thornhill seemed confident his sound Indians would be in tip-top shape Monday. Most of the cripples should be able to play part of the game.

Monk Moscrip's leg injury seemed slightly improved although he continued to limp and Lyle Smith, who probably will start at the other end, had a very sore shoulder.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 27. (AP)—Columbia's football team cleared the last high hurdle today in its preparations for the football war of the roses with Stanford, driving vigorously through a final hard workout.

Whatever can be done in the way of drilling—football tactics into my boys has been done," Coach Lou Little announced. "From now on we are going to worry more about getting them to a fine mental and physical edge for the game Monday."

BOB KRUSE BEATS TEXAS WRESTLER

PORTLAND, Dec. 27. (AP)—Bob Kruse, 210, of Oswego, defeated Floyd Paul Jones, 212, of Dallas, Tex., in the main event of the wrestling program here tonight when Jones was unable to return to the mat after Kruse had taken the first fall.

Kruse used a hammerlock to win the opening fall in 20 minutes. Officials said Jones' arm was so severely wrenched he was unable to return to finish the scheduled two-hour event.

HELEN MOODY MAY PLAY NEXT SEASON

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—The possibility she may be able to compete in tournament play in 1934 was seen today by Helen Willis Moody, former queen of the world's tennis courts.

"I miss tennis like everything," she declared. "As soon as I can play again I am going to start conditioning myself for tournament play."

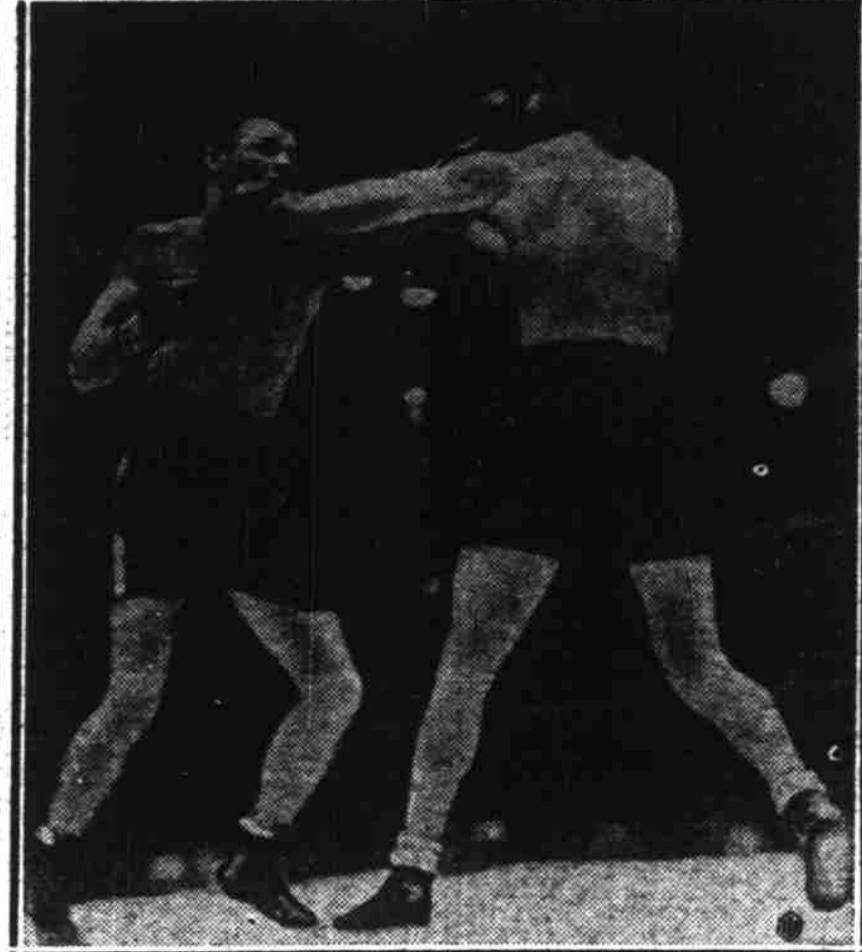

Mrs. Moody's chief source of exercise now is swimming which she said is "lots of fun."

Barred Star

Because, as a substitute, he played for two minutes with St. Ignace's College in 1929, Al Norgard, star end of Stanford University's football team, has been declared ineligible to play in the Rose Bowl classic against Columbia University at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Another Step on Comeback Road

It seems to be a fair exchange of compliments here as Tony Canzoneri (left), former lightweight champion of the world, and Cleto Locatelli, European champion, land punches simultaneously during their bout at Madison Square Garden, New York. Canzoneri won an easy decision on points over the invader.

EAST SCRIMMAGES WITH NATIVE SONS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Eastern football stars bucked up against organized opposition today in a lively scrimmage session preparatory to the annual charity game against the West here New Year's day.

The eastern collegiate pigskin mania were given a good workout by a squad picked up around this district by Dal Marvil, former line star of Northwestern and now assistant coach at the University of San Francisco.

The scrimmage, held at Stanford university, lasted about an hour and resulted in the best practice for the easterners thus far. Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr found plenty of flaws in their machine.

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Dec. 27.—Oregon State college basketball team will wind up its pre-conference schedule against Southern Oregon Normal here this weekend in a two-game series Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 o'clock.

One of the features of the series should be the contest for center honors between Wilbur Kidder and Cliff Folen of Oregon State and Ward Howell of the Teachers. Howell, 6 feet 6 inches tall, controls the tip-off for his team most of the time and is a real scoring threat.

Most of the Oregon scoring plays this year are built around the veteran forward pair—Captain Skeet O'Connell and George Hibbard. O'Connell was chosen an all-star on the northern division quintet last spring and was one of the leading scorers of the conference. Hibbard, who broke in as a regular while a sophomore last year, is one of the most improved players on the Orange squad.
