ROOSEVELT OFFERS 3-POINT PROGRAM

This Country Opposes Armed Intervention; Not to Enter League

to eliminate over a short period of years, and by progressive steps every weapon of offense in its possession and to create no additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you implement it with the right to fortify its own border with permanent and non-mobile defenses, and also with the right to assure itself through international continuing inspection that its neighbors are not creating nor maintaining offensive weapons of war.

"2—A simple declaration that no nation will permit any of its armed forces to cross its own borders into the territory of another nation. Such an act would be regarded by humanity as an act of aggression and, as an act, therefore, that would call for condemnation by humanity.

"3—It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of aggression and of weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value to the world unless every nation, without exception, entered into the agreement by solemn obligation. If then such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be a comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as belonging to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of an attack upon their neighbors."

Gives Praise to Wilson

To President Wilson Mr. Roosevelt gave credit for the first enunciation of "a definite statement that the United States will never again seek one additional foot of territory by conquest.' "

"President Wilson went further," Mr. Roosevelt said, "pointing out with special reference to our Latin American neighbors that material interests must never be made superior to human liberty. Nevertheless and largely as a result of the convulsion of the World war and its after effects, the complete fruition of that policy of unselfishness has not in every case obtained.

"It therefore has seemed clear to me as president that the time has come to supplement and to implement the declaration of President Wilson by the further declaration that the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention.

"The maintenance of constitutional government in other nations is not a sacred obligation devolving upon the United States alone.

"The maintenance of law and the orderly processes of government in this hemisphere is the concern of each individual nation within its own borders first of all.

"It is only if and when the failure of the orderly processes affects the other nations of the continent that it becomes their concern; and the point to stress is that in such an event it becomes the joint concern of a whole continent in which we are all neighbors."

Latin Nations Not Mentioned

President Roosevelt did not mention by name Cuba, the scene of current internal troubles, in his decision of the Latin American problems. Nor did he mention Nicaragua, where marines have been sent in the past. He preceded his declaration against armed intervention, however, with the statement:

"I do not hesitate to say if I had been engaged in a political campaign as a citizen of some other American republic I might have been strongly tempted to play upon the fears of my compatriots of that republic by charging the United States of North America with some form of imperialistic desire for selfish aggrandizement.

"As a citizen of some other republic I might have found it difficult to believe in the altruism of the richest American republic.

"In particular, as a citizen of some other republic, I might have found it hard to approve of the occupation of the territory of other republics, even as a temporary measure." Terming the recently concluded Montevideo conference a "fine success," Mr. Roosevelt placed responsibility for its success on "comprehension" of the doctrine he set forth in his discussion of non-intervention in the maintenance of constitutional governments.

"A better state of feeling among the neighbor nations of North and Central and South America," he said, "exists today than at any time within a generation. For participation in the bringing about of that result we can feel proud that so much credit belongs to the secretary of state of the United States, Cordell Hull."

Hull was chief of the American delegation at the Montevideo conference.

Their High Scholarship Wins Honors

Six seniors of the University of Oregon, three of whom are from Eugene, were picked from a field of 19 eligible candidates and elected to Phi Beta Kapa, national scholastic fraternity. Election to the fraternity is regarded as the highest scholastic honor that can be won by students, and to be chosen a member of the "senior six" is an even higher tribute to scholastic ability. Those chosen, shown above, are, left to right, top row—Barbara Leisz, Portland; Martha Goodrich, Eugene; Francis Frazier, Portland. Bottom row—Madeleine Gilbert, Eugene; Thomas H. Tongue, III, Hillsboro; and Lucy Howe, Eugene.

'B' TOURNAMENT PLANNED FOR 1935

"No school shall be allowed to participate in both 'A' and 'B' tournament."

Gary is Re-elected

John L. Gary, secretary of the association and of the board of control, was unanimously re-elected to the post. As he returned to the chair, Gary was commended by the other officials for his efficient and constructive work in recent years.

The officials also adopted an amendment to Article IV, Section 8, dealing with the eligibility of athletes. The amendment reads:

"Students who receive compensation for their athletic skill, or who are under discipline in the school, or whose character or conduct is such as to reflect discredit upon the school are not eligible. This shall not prohibit students from participating in summer sports, with individuals, any of whom are classed as professional or wrestling or boxing matches at any time during the year—if they receive no compensation."

Paul T. Jackson of Klamath Falls, president of the association, stated that the most important amendment regards the adoption of the class B basketball tournament. He said that the board of control, including Jackson, Gary and Austin Landreth will back the event. Because amendments are not entered until September 1 of the year following their adoption, there will be no class B tournament this season.

To Follow Willamette Plan

The board of control will appoint an advisory board of three members from class B schools to assist in developing the tournament. Expenses will be met by the state board of control, the plan being to use the same method as the one which has been in force at the state tourney at Willamette university.

The amendment was submitted by Father F. P. Leipzig of St. Mary's high school of Eugene.

The initial plan is to invite eight teams, division winners, to the B tournament.

Four of the suggestions made by Gary in his annual report were adopted. They include:

"Work out a plan for athletic insurance by taking the matter up with some reliable insurance company to insure the athletes from injury.

"Have all coaches look over the national federation rule book and decide whether they would care to use them.

"Organize a plan for the training of officials and register them with the state association.

"Try out a class 'B' championship tournament, limiting the number of entries until it is found to pay expenses of operation."

Gary, who attended the annual meeting of the annual Federation of Prep Athletic associations at Chicago recently, said that "the east is watching Oregon, and the work of its athletic association—and we want to build this organization into a strong association."

Five Young Men Enlist in Army

Don Jackson, 318 East Miller street, was recently enlisted for infantry service and was sent to his station at San Francisco aboard one of the Admiral liners from Portland.

WANT CWA HELP FOR PENSION AIDES

Taking of applications for old-age pensions will start some day next week if the hiring of six investigators can be approved as a CWA project, Commissioner James E. Smith said yesterday.

Smith warned prospective pensioners not to come to the courthouse until announcement was made. He said n oapplications were being taken now and that a trip for inquiry would be only wasted time.

When the court is ready to take applications, Smith said, due notice will be given. Probably one group of persons will be handled daily, starting with those whose last names begin with "A" and "B".

An extended number of questions will be asked each applicant and affidavits will be taken. Then each case will be checked by an investigator. The amount of pension awarded is optional with the court. It cannot exceed $30 a month to any person. No one under 70 years of age, a resident of Oregon for less than 15 years or of this county for less than three years, is eligible.

Special Session Sets Apart Funds

General fund appropriations authorized by the recent special legislative session aggregated $483,030.71, according to a tabulation prepared by the secretary of state's office.

The largest appropriation of $400,000 was authorized as a working capital for the state liquor control commission. This money will be used by the commission for the purchase of liquor, etsablishment of liquor stores and other expenses incident to the administration of the state liquor control law. The appropriation will be repaid out of profits derived from liquor sales. The second largest appropriation was $45,000 to cover the costs of the special legislative session. Another appropriation of $10,000 was authorized to pay the expenses of a special election to be held May 18, 1934.

INDICT CARL MOEN FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Involuntary manslaughter was charge against Carl A. Moan yesterday in an indictment returned by the Marion county grand jury. Moen was driver of a car which struck the auto driven by Robert McBride, president of the Salem Navigation company. The accident resulted in McBride's death several weeks ago. Police alleged Moen was intoxicated when the accident occurred 10 miles north of Salem.

Three other indictments were returned. One charged Wesley Smith with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, one charged William Shiteside with a satutory offense and the third charged Clyde A. Timme with non-support.

Judge L. G. Lewelling by order continued the jury to serve in January.

COURT REJECTS APPEAL OF BANKS

The state supreme court Thursday denied the application of L. A. Banks for a certificate of probable cause which would have entitled him to an appeal from his conviction on a murder charge in the Lane county circuit court.

Banks was convicted of slaying Officer George Prescott of Medford and is now serving a life term in the Oregon state penitentiary. He was represented at the hearing yesterday by Attorneys Frank Lonergan of Portland and Charles A. Hardy of Eugene. Attorney General Van Winkle appeared for the state. The murder occurred when Prescott appeared at the Banks home to serve a warrant of arrest.

Plans Submitted For 2 Buildings

Formal applications covering federal loans for the proposed construction of a receiving ward at the eastern Oregon state hospital and a state library in Salem, were completed here yesterday and will be sent to Portland today for consideration of C. C. Hockley, public works administrator for Oregon. The cost of the two structures was estimated at $500,000.

Similar applications are being prepared for improvements at the state tuberculosis hospitals, state home for the feeble minded, state blind school, and Oregon state penitentiary.

The aggregate loan of $1,500,000 would be repaid to the federal government on a rental basis extending over a period of several years.
