EXTENSION DIVISION OFFERS NEW COURSE

"Community Organization" To Be Taught by Saidie Orr-Dunbar, Portland

People living in and near Sa-lem who wish to spend part of their time in study under expert instruction during the next few months may still register in the courses sponsored here by the general extension division of the state system of higher education, it was announced here by W. G. Beattle, who has been in Salem organizing the classes.

Four courses, started with sucess last term, will be continued, and a fifth will be added if suficient students register. New students may registered in any of the four courses, and full university or college credit may be obtained if desired.

The new course will be in "community organization," and will be taught by Mrs. Saidle Orr-Dunbar of Portland, It will include an introduction to the theory and practice of community organization and many other important factors in this field. Registration may be made and information obtained at the county health office in the Masonic building.

The other courses will include mental hygiene," taught by Dr. fice procedure," by H. T. Vance, on Tuesday; "educational psychology," by Dr. H. V. Matthew, on Wednesday: "book and play reviewing," by S. Stephenson Smith, on Friday. All classes meet in the high school building at 7:15 p. m. The course in psychology may now be taken by teachers and others interested in education as a fulfilment of requirement for certificate to teach in high schools,

Students may enroll at the time of the classes, and a special registration price will apply to those wishing to take more than one course.

Only Producers' Milk Prices May Be Fixed, Policy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (A)new program for production control in the dairy industry was undertaken today, with Secretary Wallace announcing abandonment of present marketing agreements and substitution of new ones.

The secretary of agriculture haid in the future only producers prices would be fixed, in line with the administration's policy of Warrant Comes improving farm income, and it would "no longer be possible use milk producers as a buffer in competitive price wars." Heretofore it has sought to guarantee prices to both producers and dis-

Transients Few In Oregon Now, Reynolds Avers ties he was interested in near

Faced with orders to keep off freight trains and highways and with opportunity of obtaining passenger train transportation, hundreds of transient men and boys over the state are now applying at transient relief depots, according to Clarence W. Reynolds, Oregon transient relief director, who conferred here yesterday with R. R. "Bob" Boardman, local supervisor. Reynolds declared there was a noticeable decrease in the number of men 'riding the rods."

The transient relief service, he said, is checking all cases carefully and availing itself of the cooperation of all relief organizations, the Travelers' Aid society police departments and juvenile courts throughout the nation in an effort to rid the country of its floating population.

DEAN SHEPARD IS LEADER OF GROUP

Word has been received here his week of the election of Dean Walter J. Shepard of Ohio State university, as president of the American Political Science association. The news came in a letter to Dean Shepard's father, James R. Shepard, 701 North Church street, who has been a resident of Salem for 50 years. Dean Shepard attended Willamette university in his youth and here obtained a degree which he later supplemented by a degree from Har-yard. Dean Shepard's election is es pecially noteworthy in the fact that the presidency of the association is reputedly the highest honor a political scientist can achieve. Its presidents have included such men as F. J. Goodnow, president of Johns Hopkins university; Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; James Bryce ambassador from England; A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Woodrow Wilson, late president of the United States.

Dean Shepard's election came at a meeting of the association in Philadelphia. He was one of three speakers in a nation-wide broadcast from Washington in which individual rights under NRA were discussed.
