

DANGER OF POWER WIRES BEING TOLD

Electric Company Men Talk In Schools; Reaction is Found Interesting

Students of all the schools in Salem are being given a talk on safety this week. W. R. Newmyer and L. M. Flagg of the local power company are doing this work. Mr. Newmyer gives the students five "don't" which may be summarized briefly as follows: Don't touch wires hanging down from a pole or tree.

Don't climb trees with wires passing through the branches. Don't fly kites near power lines. Don't put radio aerials above electric wires. Don't touch a brass socket when turning on or off a light when you are standing on a concrete floor or in a bath tub.

Flagg then tells the students what to do if someone does touch an electrically charged wire, how to take him off the wire without danger, and how to apply artificial resuscitation. He demonstrates, using Mr. Newmyer as the unfortunate individual.

This talk and demonstration has been given at Garfield, Englewood, Washington, Richmond, Park, Lincoln, and to the teachers at Parrish, and will be given during the week at the other schools.

The reaction to the talk by the principals, teachers, and students has been interesting with students discussing the information generally.

If this series of talks saves just one person from coming in contact with a high voltage wire, the sponsors will feel amply repaid for their work, they say.

If any of the rural schools or any other group would care to have this talk and demonstration presented to them, Mr. Newmyer and Mr. Flagg would be very glad to do so. They may be reached by a telephone call to W. M. Hamilton of the Portland General Electric company.

Sophomores of Salem High Win In Class Debate

The sophomores at Salem high vanquished their traditional rivals, the juniors, by a 3 to 0 decision in an interclass debate Tuesday on the question, Resolved, that the United States should adopt the British Broadcasting company system of radio control. Faculty judges were Professor James Nelson, June Philpott and Ruth Runyan.

Upholding the negative, the sophomore team consisted of Marjorie Tryon and Dear Ellis; the affirmative, the juniors, Ted Smith and Martha Robertson.

THIRTEEN INJURED IN LABOR FLAREUP

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9 (AP)—Thirteen persons were injured in a clash between members of the Construction Workers Industrial union, an asserted communist organization, and civil workers administration workers late today. Ten of the injured required hospital treatment.

Police reports said approximately 75 CWA workers were involved and the police also reported the number of men, known to them as communists, was from 6 to 20.

The clash was the second in many days and was inspired, presence said, by the repeated presence of the organizers at the Southern Pacific platform when the train bearing homeward-bound CWA workers arrived.

The members of the industrial union passed out cards to the workers urging them to attend a meeting tomorrow night at which five demands would be formulated. Joseph Oakley, one of the leaders of the CWA group, told the police that the industrialists heckled the workers.

GAS ATTACK STOPS AGITATORS' PARADE

BRAWLEY, Cal., Jan. 9 (AP)—Tear gas bombs were hurled by police here this afternoon to halt an attempted parade by persons seeking to agitate a strike among lettuce and vegetable field workers.

Between 700 and 800 men assembled and began the march, although Police Chief Lon Cromer had advised them such a parade would be in violation of a city ordinance. The men were driven back by tear gas and dispersed.

Police arrested eight alleged leaders and the sheriff had as many more in custody tonight.

Farmers claimed many of their employes failed to appear at their fields for work today for fear of violence from agitators.

Flowers at Bethel Swing Into Parade Of Early Blooming

BETHEL, Jan. 9. — Red and pink geraniums are blooming outside in the porch boxes at the J. P. Carruthers home. They have been covered only one night this winter. Summer roses are blooming, and the early spirea and the bridal rose.

A Japanese quince has bloomed all winter at the A. L. Schulz home, and is now loaded with buds. Violets, marigolds and other hardy flowers are in bloom. The bud clusters on the English laurel are numerous this season and are large and well advanced.

Hold up of Use In Little Slam

By MRS. WILLIAM H. QUINN Culbertson Associate

Mrs. William H. Quinn, Culbertson associate, today explains the interesting play of a small slam contract bid and made in the recent Statesman tournament. The board was No. 16. The hand, on which a six-diamond contract was reached by west, was:

Bridge hand diagram showing North and South hands with cards: North (AKJ, 95, 6, KQJ75432), South (Q85432, J10643, 72), East (A106, 82, KQ94, A1096), West (AKQ7, AJ10853, 8).

The play: North would lead the king of clubs. West stops and plans the play of the hand. The crucial play is often times the first trick. Form a habit of planning the play of a hand before you play from dummy. This habit is invaluable.

West takes inventory of his losses. He has a losing spade, so he decides to play the "hold up," refusing to take the club trick. This "hold up" gives him an opportunity to discard the spade on the ace of clubs. The second lead of clubs, he ruffs, leads out trumps, leads hearts, ruffing the small heart in dummy. Rest of the hand is a lay-down.

If west plays the ace of spades from dummy, south will ruff, and declarer has to lose a spade trick. So the only chance is to use the hold up for a discard of the spade.

BRIDE OF MDIVANI RECEIVES WARNING

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Receipt of "crank" notes by Barbara Hutton M'Divani warning the heiress against her honeymoon trip to Japan aboard the liner Tatsuta Maru became known here today, although Inspector Walter Descalso of the police crime prevention detail said he had not been asked to help trace the writer of the missives.

James Donahue, cousin of the heiress, who is to sail Thursday to join her husband, Prince Alexis M'Divani, said the notes had been destroyed.

"I fear them up when they arrive," he explained, adding they threatened that Princess M'Divani and her husband would never reach China if they started on the trip.

Upon receiving word that Prince M'Divani would sail from Seattle, the heiress and her cousin held a conference, and then Donahue issued a statement saying "the princess feels very sorry that the prince will not be able to sail from here with her."

HOUSES ARE MOVED FOR NEW ROADWAY

GATES, January 9 — With the surety of the work on the new road between Mill City and Gates being started in the near future, houses are being moved from the right of way. The house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown was moved back several feet on Friday. This house is about a mile east of Gates. The house belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Klutke is the next to be moved.

In most cases wells will be dug and fruit trees moved. Most places will be more valuable in the long run by having the highway near thus avoiding the railroad crossings.

MYERS DESCRIBES HEAVY L. A. RAINS

"Oregonians never saw rain like that," declared Frank Myers, proprietor of the Spa, on his return yesterday from Los Angeles where he was visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Blower, when the recent cloudburst occurred. The Blower residence is at La Canada, a short distance from Montrose, the district hardest hit by the storm and ensuing floods.

"In the center of the highway a short distance away from where I was visiting, a rock 50 feet in circumference was reposing the morning after the heaviest rain, washed down in floods of dirt and drift," Myers recalled. "A church nearby was used as a refuge for people whose homes were completely washed away without a stick or semblance of a house left. A bridge over which we would have traveled had we gone to the Ambassador hotel New Years' eve as planned, was washed out and six cars drove into the raging flood at that point."

Mr. Blower, former Salem resident, is seriously ill, Myers reported.

PAWNSHOP SCANDAL CAUSE FOR RIOTING

PARIS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Royals rioted near the chamber of deputies this evening in angry protest against what they alleged to be part of high-placed officials in the $40,000,000 collapse of the Bayonne pawnshop and in the death of its founder.

Shouting "Down with the thieves! Down with the assassins!" and swinging canes, the irate crowd launched a series of attacks on policemen stationed as guards in the district, ripped up iron tree protectors, broke lamp posts and blocked traffic over a mile-square area.

Scores of persons, including many women, were taken to police stations, but were released shortly. Hundreds of spectators were massed in the big Place de la Concorde to watch the bitter demonstration, which taxed police facilities.

Inside the parliament halls an air of almost equal tension prevailed.

The reorganized cabinet paced the lobbies, trying to negotiate a truce with angered legislators and hastily patching fences to avert a threatened overthrow.

Navy Planes to Head for Hawaii

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Safely over a 60 mile flight from San Diego, the six huge navy flying boats which arrived here today will hop at noon tomorrow on a 2150 nautical mile flight to Honolulu which naval officials said merely was a transfer trip, it was announced tonight.

Lieutenant Commander Kneller McGinnis, squadron leader, made the announcement which will start the planes on the longest ocean massed flight ever attempted.

"Patrol squadron 10 will depart from San Francisco for Pearl Harbor about 12 o'clock noon, January 10, taking advantage of prevailing weather," McGinnis said, adding the planes were being gassed and made ready for the flight tonight.
