

Salem High Conquers Jitters, Beats Rooks in Overtime

SCORE IS 25-23 IN WILD TUSSLE

11 Points on Free Tosses Important Factor in Tight Contest

It was a torrid, exciting game that Salem high school's basketball team won, 25 to 23 in an overtime period, from the Oregon State college Rooks Thursday night on the Salem high floor, but in winning the red and black found the jitters a more formidable foe than the tall but awkward Rooks.

Behind nearly all the way, Salem high stayed in the race by virtue of exceptional shooting from the free throw line, sinking 11 shots to the Rooks' 3 though the number of shots tried was virtually even.

Trailing 4-3 the first quarter, 10-7 at the half and 17-16 at the third quarter post was passed, Salem momentarily tied it up at 17-all on a free throw by Salstrom, then went behind again until Brownell, sent into the game a few moments before, tied it up at 22-all in the last minute of the regular game.

The Wintermute, who had steadied down somewhat in the second half after fumbling repeatedly in the first, dribbled the length of the floor to sink the winning field goal. Brownell matched the free throw of Kappel of the Rooks.

Salem high encountered an old foe, "Duke" Wellington from Lincoln high, who despite his height did not quite match the tipoff ability of Peters, Salem's new center.

The Rooks were almost as jittery as the Salem boys but they led in field goals, 10 to 7. Kibbee, remembered as the Nehalem center in the tournament here two years ago, was outstanding with Tuttle his closest rival.

Carnera-Baer Negotiations Off; Garden Insists Maxie Give Option Upon Services

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The will o'wisp match of boxing—a heavyweight title bout between Primo Carnera and Max Baer—fizzled out of the window again today as negotiations in progress several days were terminated abruptly.

Colonel John R. Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, ended discussions he had carried on first with Jack Dempsey, then with Anell Hoffman, manager of Baer, when the latter refused to sign with the Garden for future fights just in case the big Californian won Carnera's heavyweight title.

As a result the Garden promptly launched a campaign to build King Levinsky, Chicago heavy-weight, to stature of a legitimate title challenger. The Garden signed Levinsky for two bouts, the first against Charley Massera, Feb. 9, the second against Walter Neusel, March 2.

If Levinsky beats Massera and Neusel he will be groomed through one more fight for the Carnera match outdoors here in June.

Robin Reed will get his chance for revenge on Art Perkins, who handed the Reedsport editor one of the extremely few defeats he has suffered here, next Tuesday night at the armory according to word received yesterday from Herb Owen, matchmaker. Their previous bout was within a few minutes of terminating in an exceptionally even draw, when Perkins, angered at some expert pinching that Reed introduced into an otherwise fairly clean bout, popped the writer king in the jaw and it was all over.

Tuesday night's card will also be featured by the return after a couple of years' absence, of Walter Tinkit Achiu, otherwise known as "Sneez" the colorful Chinese boy with the million-dollar legs. Achiu, who made his headquarters in Eugene for a long time but favored Salem with his presence only a couple of times, will meet Stan Crawley. Don Sugar will be up there as usual, opposing Jack Curtiss.

Tied for fifth place are the Jason Lee Scouts and the South Salem Friends. The Scouts are the surprise team of the league. BEARCATS FACE LEAGUE OPENER

Dark Horse Albany Quintet Met Tonight on Pirate Floor No Set-up

Willamette university's basketball team, led by Marshall Hartley, who was elected captain Wednesday thus carrying out a family tradition since his brother Henry was captain in 1927, will open its 1934 Northwest conference campaign tonight at Albany, meeting Coach Joe Mack's Albany college quintet.

Albany is something of a dark horse, having made almost as good a showing against Oregon Normal as did Willamette, but later losing to the Oregon State Rooks who did not look like a team of college calibre here against Salem high Thursday night.

The Bearcats, defending champions, are favored to win, but Albany has always been a greater threat to Willamette than its showing against other teams warranted, and in view of the in-and-out performances of Coach "Spec" Keene's men to date the opening game is far from "in the bag."

Keene has been experimenting with a number of combinations and has not announced his lineup for tonight.

Mauney and Kieblock forwards, Curry center, Coffield and George guards, have been starting most of Albany's games to date.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 18.—(AP)—American universities are taking the financing of athletic sports out of the hands of committees, are soft-pedaling athletic scholarships, and are resisting the "commercialization of athletics," the Association of American Colleges was told here today.

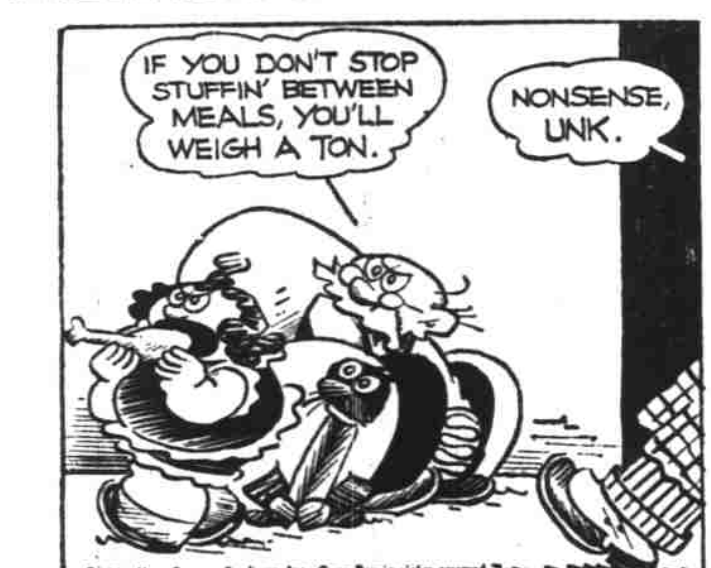

A report of survey made by the colleges was read at the annual meeting of the group by Daniel Marsh, president of Boston university. It was prepared by Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, head of a committee on college athletics.

Referring to a report on college athletics, made in 1928 by the Carnegie foundation, Mr. Gates asserted that "from this report may be dated the housecleaning on a large scale that occurred in a good many colleges, and the reorganization of departments of physical education and athletics."

Facts and figures for the 1933 trend were compiled from more than 200 explanations made by presidents, deans and directors of colleges and universities.

"An increasing number of institutions have taken the financing of athletic sports out of the hands of committees and have turned it over to the treasurer, bursar, or other equivalent officer," the report said.
