Expected Case Increase in Depression Fails to Materialize, Says

OREGON TUBERCULAR

RECORD SAID GOOD

In spite of the fact that economic causes are held to have influence on tubercular ratios, the depression has not made any particular chance in tuberculosis in Oregon, Dr. G. C. Bellinger of the state tuberculosis hospital here. told the Retail Credit association luncheon gathering yesterday.

A request to the public works administration for beds that will about double the present accommodations does not point to more uberculosis, but rather to the fact that needs have not been fulfilled in this line. Dr. Bellinger predicts he time will come, though possibly not in this generation, when facilities will be adequate to handle all who need treatment. Oregon has made great advances since establishment of the hospital here 20 years ago, and > today stands near the top on the low percentage of patients. Oregon today has only about a third of the tuberculosis recorded 20 years ago, and this in spite ofand at the same time partially because of - the developments in seeking out cases in the early stages. These latter apparently healthy specimens show up through school and other clinical examinations. The advanced patient has twice the chance today for recovery that he had 10 years ago, thanks to emphasis on treatment at this stage. Dr. Bellinger showed a few pictures to indicate the type of treatment now used for the advanced patients.

Improvement in sanitation has been a great contributing factor in control of tuberculosis. A proboys and girls enrolled in projects gram of personal hygiene and isofrom spreading the disease are two of the greatest factors in combating the disease.
