

SALEM, WEST SALEM ROAD JOBS STARTED

Highway Routes Widened by Crews Under Herrold; Weather Governs

Important street improvements for Salem and West Salem are now under way, supervised by the state highway department and financed by national recovery act road funds. These are the widening of the Pacific highway entrance in North Salem and the widening of the Salem-Dallas highway through West Salem and on to Brunks' corner.

On the vagaries of the weather will depend the progress of both projects, John H. Neef, district highway engineer in direct charge, stated last night. If present fair weather continues, he said, the Salem job can be carried ahead rapidly. Extended good weather must be fairly certain before the paving portion of the West Salem-Brunks corners project may be undertaken.

Grubbing and slashing preparatory to providing a 40 foot roadway through West Salem and a 20 foot grade on west to the corners has just started. Laying of drainage pipes, curbs and sidewalk replacements in West Salem will start soon, Neef reported. L. O. Herrold, Salem, contractor, expects to have 15 to 20 men at work there in the near future.

On the Salem project, the task of setting in the new curbs, back from the old grade, will be completed within 10 days, weather permitting, according to Neef. A skimmer power shovel probably will be used thereafter to remove the dirt for the widened grade and laying of concrete widening blocks will follow at once. The center strip of blacktop, covering present pavement, will not be laid till late in the spring.

Herrold, who also holds this contract, is now employing from 16 to 20 men, all through the national re-employment office. Members of City Engineer Hugh M. Rogers' staff are assisting in supervising the work.

When completed, the north Salem highway entrance will be 50 feet wide between Madison street and Tile road and 44 feet wide from Tile road to the city limits. W. E. Chandler has both of these projects under his scrutiny as highway division engineer.

Buildings swayed at Sacramento, Cal., and chandeliers in the state capitol swung for several minutes after the shock, felt at 11:18 p. m. (P. M. T.). Although no damage was reported, the quake was felt in California at Bakersfield, Modesto, Porterville and Fresno, where dishes rattled and pictures swung on their hangings.

All President in Six Months

Recognition by the United States of the Mendieta government in Cuba probably marks the end of the political turnovers in the turbulent island that started with the ousting of President Machado last August 12th. Dr. Carlos de Cespedes, succeeding the dictator, held office until September 6th when he was turned out by the coup which placed Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin in the presidency. Grau's regime ended January 15th when Carlos Hevia succeeded him. Hevia held office just 36 hours, being replaced by Col. Carlos Mendieta, veteran leader and popular choice.

PRESIDENT STARTING DOLLAR DEVALUATION

all on the air and accepted "this tribute through me to the stricken ones of our great national family" and added that it was "the happiest birthday I have ever known."

Gifts and messages by the thousand poured into the White House as hosts of American citizens sought to pay tribute to the man they believed had brought them a new deal.

Outside of Washington thousands danced at some 6000 balls given in honor of the president and for his afflicted friends. The line of celebrations ranged from the brilliant lights of Broadway to the campfires of the Navajo Indians and from the frozen whiteness of Alaskan mountains to tropical softness of the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

At Palm Beach the president was toasted at a dazzling affair. In Detroit, admirers did him honor at 36 balls; New York turned out at swanky affairs at elite clubs and high priced hotels; San Francisco, Boston, Atlanta, San Orleans—all were represented.

In Alaska they went by dog sled and airplane to dance in the twilight and far up where it is dark for six months they just turned on the talking machine and let her rip.

The Navajos beat their tom-toms in prayer for the success of Warm Springs and shy redskin maidens claimed forfeitures of silver from the brave swains—all to go to the Warm Springs fund.

Nobody knew last night how much it would be but the New York Herald-Tribune estimated that receipts would run between one and two million dollars, enough to provide an income to make strong many, many stricken limbs.

CHECKS ARE READY IN WHEAT CONTROL

Checks, aggregating $19,762, comprising the first government payment to Marion county farmers participating in the wheat control program, are ready for distribution. The first payments will be made to farmers of the Mt. Angel and Silverton districts today with the Salem, Woodburn, St. Paul and Silverton sections receiving payment installments tomorrow.

The government checks were received yesterday by T. S. Hobert, treasurer of the wheat control committee, and will be distributed by Dr. A. W. Simmons, secretary of the organization. The distribution today is scheduled to be made in the Coolidge-McClaine bank in Silverton with the payments tomorrow made from the wheat control committee offices on the fourth floor of the courthouse, Salem.

Checks for several of the farmer landlords were not included in

JACKSON COMING TO DISCUSS SCHOOL JOB

Four Applications Received For Superintendency; Board Not Hurrying

Paul T. Jackson, superintendent of schools at Klamath Falls and president of the board of control of the Oregon High School association, is expected in Salem today to confer with members of the Salem school board regarding the local superintendency. He so notified Board Chairman F. E. Neer yesterday. Whether Jackson plans to speak for himself or for a friend he did not state in his telegram, Mr. Neer said.

Four formal applications for the position, which the board has announced will become vacant with the expiration of Superintendent George Hug's term August 31, have been received here. There are from:

John P. Cramer, Grants Pass; Frank E. Bennett, Tillamook superintendent; Frederick M. Lash, Seattle, and another from Vancouver, Wash., whose name Neer did not recall last night.

Cramer and Bennett are graduates of Willamette university. Both are American Legion members. Bennett holds a master of arts degree from University of Oregon.

Lash, at present gymnasium director for the Seattle evening high school system, is a graduate of Pennsylvania State Teachers' college and the University of Washington.

Robert Goetz, Silverton superintendent, is understood to be considering filing his application. Chairman Neer said last night the board would not hurry in selecting the new superintendent.

CITY TO INTERVENE IN KNOX LAW TEST

City Attorney Chris J. Kowitz is preparing to intervene for the city of Salem as a friend of the court in the city of Klamath Falls' appeal to the supreme court of its black liquor law. He said last night. He expects to take this action before the week ends.

The city will raise the question of whether or not a municipality has authority to collect liquor license fees and taxes in addition to those imposed by the state liquor control and tax acts. This point was not argued in circuit court, in which Judge Lowell held the Knox law constitutional. Kowitz said he also would seek to have the supreme court decide whether or not the Salem licensing and taxing ordinance is itself invalid.

Attorneys in the case proper are expected to file their briefs with the supreme court today and Thursday. Chief Justice Rand announced arguments would be heard within two days after briefs are filed.

Milk Control to be Extended to Other Counties

Portland, where the first regulations were imposed, today heard another blast from Thomas A. Sweeney, chairman of Portland's milk consumers' committee, appointed by Mayor Carson. "The milk control board is taking the attitude of 'the consumer be damned,'" charged Sweeney.

SANTIAM CONTROL PLANS SHAPING UP

Lane County May Join with Marion and Linn, Form "Super-District"

Plans for the creation of a super-flood control district on the lower Santiam river, are taking concrete form with Marion, Linn and Lane counties uniting in the project to secure federal funds for financing the program. The first meeting of the tri county group is expected to be conducted in Albany within the next few days.

The initial plans for the flood control district grew out of a joint meeting here yesterday between the Marion and Linn county courts. The meeting was called to formulate a program to serve as a defense against the lower Santiam, which threatens under flood conditions, to inundate thousands of acres of some of the most fertile land in the Willamette valley.

Officials of the two county courts decided to contact Federal Engineer Russell at Eugene to ascertain what steps have been taken there for a similar organization. Russell informed the local court that he and County Judge Fish would meet with Marion and Linn county representatives at any time.

The menace of the lower Santiam faces both Marion and Linn counties, where the river threatens to break over and do immeasurable damage. Representative farmers from both Marion and Linn counties attended the county court meeting. It is understood the basis of the plan calls for a tri-county organization, representing sufficient population to interest either the CWA or the PWA in a flood control project of considerable magnitude.

WOMEN'S PART IN POLITICS IS TOPIC

Women have a decided part to play in politics, a role that is increasing in size as affairs of government more and more concern every citizen. They must take their place in public affairs, not through a request to the public for support of the "eaker" sex, but because the viewpoint and position of women must be recognized in the formation of the nation's complex affairs. This view was brought to the Salem Kiwanis club Tuesday noon by Mrs. Dorothy McCullough Lee, senator from Multnomah county.

Mrs. Lee, in an interesting message, traced the larger role women are constantly playing in political life. She said that 25 per cent of legislation she had seen introduced pertained to school and vitally concerned women.

"The female sex must expect no favors in politics. Usually women find it more difficult to be elected than men. But once in office, the public will support them if their work is good," she averred.

The western states, while leaders in the movement for women's suffrage, have been less active in placing women in public responsibility, the speaker declared. Connected with 120 legislators, had 40 of them women.

Bullet in Brain

Mysteriously shot last December while returning from school, 13-year-old Luther Lamb of Martinsburg, Va., is pictured back in his home after spending a month in hospital. The boy is regaining his health despite the fact that the bullet is still embedded in his brain, surgeons having decided removal too dangerous.

night will be next Tuesday, February 6, L. W. DuBois, lodge correspondent, announced yesterday. A special program to observe the change will be given that night in Fraternat temple. Refreshments will be served. All members of the lodge are urged to attend.

BREWER BUILDING FIGURES IN SUIT

Suit to permit the modernizing of the Brewer building, at Court and Liberty streets, now maintained in its present condition under terms of the will of Mary Ellen Brewer, was instituted in circuit court yesterday by Dr. Charles B. Brewer, sole surviving trustee of the estate. The suit is directed against Rufus Holman, state treasurer.

Although the suit seeks permission to improve the building, located in the heart of downtown retail section, it also will preserve the body of the trust by either remodeling the structure or selling the property to establish a sizeable fund.

The trust provision of the will required the building to be kept intact as at the time of the death of Mrs. Brewer. The complaint points out that the building is located at a point of great importance in the growth of the city and was subject to heavy inheritance taxes, which could not be foreseen at the time of the death of Mrs. Brewer. The pleadings state the property either should be sold, with the proceeds used to set up a permanent trust fund, or the building remodeled so that a long time lease could be given.

F. V. FISHER TALKS ON NRA SCHEDULED

Frederick Vining Fisher, national field representative of the NRA, will give a series of pep talks here Tuesday, February 6. He will address the Willamette university assembly at 11:30 o'clock that morning and the high school at 1:40 o'clock in the afternoon. At 8 o'clock at night he will talk before a mass meeting at the chamber of commerce.

Fisher was chief of the Pan-Pacific exposition, San Francisco, 1912 to 1915. During the world war, 1917-1918, he was morale officer for the government and was directly connected with all Liberty Loan drives and other patriotic endeavors. He was the eastern officer for the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, stationed in New York, during 1926-28 and after that time organized and directed the city waterways program for Chicago.

The past few months he has been making a series of appearances in California towns, and it was only at the urgent request of the northwest NRA officials that he was detailed over California protests to the Pacific Northwest for a similar series of NRA pep talks.
