CWA PROVIDES WORK FOR 1500

Approximately 1500 men and women residents of Marion county, are now on CWA projects working from 15 to 24 hours a week, the local re-employment committee was informed at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday noon at Cole's cafe. Harry Hopkins, national CWA administrator, has said no work would continue after Saturday if additional appropriations are not made by congress. Local CWA officials expect, however, that additional funds will have been made available by the end of the week so there will be no lapse in employment.

Twenty-five CWA projects scattered in the county have been approved and will be under way in the next few weeks if more funds are available. Total registrations at the re-employment office, Court street, have reached more than 6000 since the registering of men and women began late in October. Placements on PWA projects have been 30; on CWA work have totalled 1824; on miscellaneous jobs 363. Ninety-two of the workers placed have been women.

Work on the airport here, on the night school on the business census, and on the geodetic survey all comes in addition to the county's quota of 1411 workers. Twelve thousand dollars monthly is being spent in the direct relief of needy families in Marion county, it was stated at the county relief offices yesterday. In addition to this sum is the large weekly outlay for CWA work. Direct relief is also supplemented by government outfit of pork, eggs, butter, flour and fresh fruits, not included in the $12,000 costs. Twelve hundred heads of families are on the present relief rolls. Tapering off of relief outlays is expected as soon as the spring farm work gets under way.

STUDENT DEBATERS ADOPT NEW SYSTEM

EUGENE, Ore.—An entirely new system of forensics, called the symposium plan, which abolishes altogether the old style debate where "judges" weighed the "arguments" and "methods of presentation" and then gave a decision for the "affirmative or negative" side, has been adopted at the University of Oregon, it was announced here today by John L. Casteel and W. A. Dahlberg, forensic directors. Under the new system the teams will not just meet other schools, but will go from community to community over the state and will present their questions before audiences of citizens.

The season opened February 1, when the students journeyed to Westfir, near Eugene, and presented their views on the question, "Is there an inequitable tax distribution in the state of Oregon?" "The whole object behind the new plan is to train college men and women so that they can approach vital problems objectively and with a scientific mind," states Mr. Casteel.

"It is our conviction that those people who support our state institutions are interested in having their young men and women who are sent to college bring back to their communities solutions to problems that are current and vital."

Communities already on the schedule include Kerby, Glendale, Aurora, Buell, Sheridan, Willakenzie, Portland, Westfir and others.

A second question that will be taken up by the squad is "Is there a wasteful expenditure of the Oregon tax dollar with regard to our public elementary and secondary schools?"

Mayor Expounds Manager Plan To Rotary Club

Mayor Douglas McKay outlined the need and the advantages of a city manager form of government for Salem to the Rotary club Wednesday. Under the present councilmanic system 14 councilmen are divided in committees and each committee expends money for its division. The result is disorganization and inefficiency. The council members are busy men who undertake city duties as a sideline. There is no definite responsibility for city administration.

The manager plan concentrates the responsibility in one administrative officer, who would be responsible to a city council of five to seven members. Thus, according to the mayor, the city manager would be held accountable for successful conduct of the city's business. 461 cities now have such a plan, and few have gone back to the ward councilman plan.

He assured the club that the plan would go on the ballot this year. A council committee is now

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Does your job sometimes get you down? Do you feel tired? Irritable? Ready to "blow up" any minute... because of raw nerves? Try to get enough sleep. Eat sensibly. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by turning to Camels. Much has been said on the subject of tobacco quality. But—

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

That statement is conclusive. And it represents an important benefit that nervous people should not overlook! Begin to smoke Camels. Taste those finer tobaccos. Notice their mildness. You will be delighted to find that Camels do not upset your nerves... or tire your taste.

"SELLING CALLS FOR HEALTHY NERVES, TOO... MR. MARKSMAN"
Kenneth B. Logan, Salesman, of Scarsdale, N. Y., says:
"The selling game calls for healthy nerves just as much as being a wonderful marksman. Meeting people all day long... trying to turn prospects into customers... the life of a salesman certainly tells on the nerves! I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why I say only Camels! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either."
Virgil Richard, Champion Sharpshooter, says:
"I've been smoking for years and had no trouble in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. Camels are much milder, and never interfere with my nerves."
