

NEW DRIVE FOR JOBLESS OPENS

Further Reduction in Hours Proposed by Johnson to Give $2,500,000 Jobs

Johnson wants this reduced at least to 32. On this basis of distribution more than 2,500,000 could be put back to work.

If the present upward movement in industry continues, NRA authorities are looking forward to a considerable absorption of the unemployed during the next few months quite aside from the influence of a reduction in hours for those already at work.

With hours cut down, they figure that an expansion of business would employ approximately greater number of the jobless, and they are anxious to obtain the reduction while the present upswing is still comparatively young.

POLITICAL PICTURE IS VASTLY CHANGED

who would have liked the job. Eastern Oregon now has a man on the board. But Stadlerman cannot be expected to beat the drum for Meier if the latter expects to run.

Mr. Meier is no more certain of his political course than he was at Christmas. The only enjoyment he now is receiving is the knowledge, first, that Mr. Holman can sputter but he cannot control the board of control, and second, that until March 15 to April 1, the governor can keep mum and let the governor-makers fume.

Men like Frank Loneragan and Joe Dunne, each of whom was in Salem the last week of full attention to make the governorship race, can hardly wait for a month or more until Meier makes up his mind. They would be gratified to have the governor announce his position but if he doesn't, each one is confident their strength is sufficient to seek the nomination, Meier or not as a candidate.

Martin Tie-Up With Os West Stressed

The announcement of General Charles H. Martin that he would seek the nomination for governor on the democratic ticket is exceptionally well-received throughout the state. Democratic papers and leaders are assuming that the nomination is in the bag and that the election is almost as sure. Republican back-stage workers say the Martin support is entirely too sanguine. The governor is vulnerable and that the voters of Oregon will know it as the campaign progresses. They point to Martin's age, his unfamiliarity with upstate Oregon, his alleged up-stairishness, and his close connection with Os West who is Oregon's right bower of the utility interests.

The story is that General Martin a few months ago had no wish to run for governor and was well satisfied with life in the national capital. West, knowing Mrs. Martin would like to live in Oregon and thinking the general's nomination — and probably his election — was a certainty, dashed back to Washington, pulled the general into the campaign, then flashed his connections in Portland hours before the Martin announcement "broke" that the general was in the race.

West, presumably, is to be the Henry Hansen of the new regime. General Martin is to be the front man at the capitol; Mr. West, experienced and shrewd in state affairs, will see that the details are attended to.

The strongest factor for General Martin is not the press support, nor the West sponsorship, nor the general's own ability. His strength is the fact that in mid-February is the fact that the rank and file of people who speak of Martin have the idea that the old general is forthright, straight, courageous. The fact that he has been in Washington for a long time and that he knows comparatively few upstate citizens, adds to the illusion. The general has "color." He has somewhat the hold on voters, at this stage, that the "merchant prince" had four years ago, a hold which "ghost" meetings, quarrels and the Benson hotel state capital has weakened if not dissipated.

Alleged Forger of Checks Here is Apprehended

A special Salem city policeman who went to Portland yesterday there recognized and arrested Paul Howard Dickman, Salem route five, who had been sought since mid-November for cashing a string of allegedly forged checks here and at Stayton. Grilled here last night, Dickman confessed, police reported.

They were turned in by Allen Hardware company, Doughton-Sherwin, Koff Electric company, Fred Meyer, Anderson Creamery, Miller's, Ira Jorgensen, Collier Motor Sales, Clark Grocery and others in Salem and Stayton, police stated.

Lincoln Memorial On Banks of Potomac Is National Shrine

Descriptive Data by Jennie F. B. Jones, Press Correspondent, Woman's Relief Corps No. 1, Salem, Oregon

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT made the speech of presentation at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial at Washington on May 30, 1922. President Harding accepted the memorial for the nation. Edwin Markham read an original poetic tribute. Dr. Robert Moton, head of Tuskegee Institute for negroes spoke for the negroes whom Lincoln had emancipated. Robert Lincoln was guest of honor.

All sorts of memorials had been proposed, including a road across the country, a bridge across the Potomac and many others. Finally congress in 1910 provided for a committee to study the subject and decide on a plan, subject to approval. Mr. Taft was chairman of this committee. The result of it all was that a design for a structure in the style of a classic Greek temple submitted by Robert Bacon, an eminent architect, was chosen, and was decided to place this pile close to the shore of the Potomac river on the same east and west axis as the capitol and the Washington monument. It is about a mile and a half from the capitol to the monument, then nearly another mile to the Lincoln memorial, thus making the distance from the capitol to the memorial over two miles.

The structure fronts toward the monument and capitol and is built on a foundation of 122 great concrete piles or legs which go down to solid rock. These piles were made by driving steel cylinders four feet in diameter down to the rock, removing the dirt, sending down a concrete core and filling the two feet, to make sure of a firm footing, and then filling the cylinders up with concrete.

This was done because the ground is alluvial and it was essential to make certain of the foundation which is now all covered up. It took a full year to complete the foundation and ten years to build the memorial. The ground around the memorial is filled in and terraced in such a way that it forms an artificial hill which makes a splendid base for the building.

The building is 190 feet long, 120 feet wide and 100 feet high. The lower part of the building is columns to the number of 36 corresponding to the number of states in Lincoln's day. These columns are 44 feet high and are over seven feet in diameter at the bottom. Each column is made up of 11 drums or blocks, each weighing about 22 tons.

The building is constructed of white Colorado yule marble, which was chosen as being the most durable. The steps and platforms are of pink granite from Massachusetts.

The portal to the building is 45 feet wide and 45 feet high. It has bronze grills or gates filled with plate glass which slide into the walls during the day time but can be closed at night for the protection of the building.

The interior of the structure forms an open hall 70 feet long, 50 feet wide and 100 feet high. In the center of this stands a colossal statue of Lincoln, designed by Daniel C. French and chiseled in Georgia marble by the Piccirilli brothers, Italian artisans of New York, and is set on a pedestal of Tennessee marble.

The statue alone is 21 feet high and weighs 150 tons. The height of Lincoln's sitting figure from the sole of the boot to the top of the head is 19 feet. The head is three feet high. The boot is over three feet long and it is eight feet from the boot to the knee cap. The chair is over twelve feet high.

It took the sculptor over four years to design this statue. Above and back of the statue is this inscription: "In this temple, as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union, the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever." Running around the walls of

Fourth Slaying Charged Up to Dillinger Aide

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(P)—Another slaying—the fourth—was charged by police to John Hamilton, Dillinger mobster still at large, with the death tonight of Peter de Young, 35, bank watchman.

De Young was shot in the head and body and disarmed by three men whom he surprised at the South Holland Trust & Savings bank when he came to work there this morning. The trio was apparently waiting for the time lock on the vault to release itself.

After wounding De Young, the men fled without loot. Before he died De Young looked at a police picture of Hamilton and told police he believed he was the leader of the gang.

FERREY TELLS HIS PROGRAM AS JUDGE

Lawyer Says He Will File at Courthouse This Week for County Post

A four-point program for the county judge in caring for the duties of his office was outlined here yesterday by Martin Ferrey, local attorney, who said he would formally file for the republican nomination for the office some time this coming week.

"The county judge's post is one of the most difficult departments in our state and county to handle," he said. "In discussing the duties confronting the judge, I have been surprised how little information many of our citizens have concerning the office."

Ferrey said first, that in handling juvenile cases much of the responsibility lay with parents. "I propose to find out and to remedy, if possible, delinquency in parents as well as in the children who are dragged into court," he said.

"In handling insanity cases I hope to place the care on proper parties and to thus cut expenditures of the county which should be borne by individuals," he said. "As no time in the history of the nation has there been such an increase in insanity. The stress of life; lack of discipline and self-control—these factors make men and women break down. There are many cases which are harmless, where quiet and care, involving sympathy from sons and daughters, or parents, would save the state the responsibility."

Ferrey stressed as his third point that he would oppose all persons who attempted to "racketeer in insanity." "The poor and the unemployed will be listened to and their problems taken care of with sympathy but no advantage must be taken," he said.

Elimination of the county poor farm was the fourth point stressed by Ferrey. "Since the old-age pension came into legal being, the poor farm is no longer needed," the candidate declared.
