City's Attorneys to Talk With PWA Official on Details of Grant

hopful that these hitches in the proposed deal can be ironed out with Walte when he reaches Portland.

Interest in the water question was evidenced last night by the presence at the council meeting of a number of representatives of Portland and San Francisco bond holders.

The aldermen refused to pass an ordinance creating restricted parking areas in front of all bakeries in the city. They recommended that a court street bakery seeking such an ordinance petition for a restricted parking space in front of its own establishment rather than seek the general ordinance.

City Recorder Mark Poulsen reported that he had collected $40 in fines on parking zone violations in the last month. He said he had turned 292 tags back to the city police after the tags had remained in his office more than 10 days.

The council approved a score of applications for wine and beer selling firms, the applications now going to the state liquor commission.

Alderman Watson Townsend introduced two changes in the council's rules which he said were needed to clarify ambiguous statements on the rule of unanimous consent and the rule providing for a two-thirds vote in the case of the council's rules. The amendments will come up on final passage at the next meeting. Townsend said they were needed to clear up the legal status of the water bond issue now pending.

BOY SCOUTS DOING F. R.'S GOOD TURN

If a boy rings your doorbell some afternoon this week, he probably will be a Boy Scout soliciting clothing, furniture or food as his part in the "good turn" asked of all Scouts in the nation by President Roosevelt in a radio address February 10. For the local boys are spending their after-school time this week locating these goods for relief work preparatory to collection in a general drive Saturday.

Full cooperation of the Marion county relief committee in the "good turn" drive was evidenced yesterday in a letter received at scout headquarters. The committee will provide trucks for collecting the various articles. Other relief organizations also are to assist.

Furniture and bedding are especially in demand for needy families. It was stated at scout headquarters, but clothing and food will also be gladly accepted. Articles that can be repaired are wanted along with others.

PUBLIC SUPPORT OF KNOX ACT IS ASKED

Plan Will Work if Backed by Public, Sammis Says; 24 Stores Planned

The Knox liquor control act will work if public sentiment remains behind it, George Sammis, state administrator, told the Salem chamber of commerce Monday noon. Praising the personnel of the commission as men of character who held a sincere desire to serve the state, Sammis asked patience on the part of the public in judging the commission's work until its operations have been fully set up.

"Our difficulties for some time will center in keeping out the bootlegger," Sammis averred. "This must be done by keeping prices down. We have already received assurance from the state police, from city police and from county sheriffs that they will help us enforce the act."

Sammis praised the Knox act, saying it was the most comprehensive liquor control act passed in any state whose legislation on the subject he had studied. "We think the plan will work and that Oregon may become a model in its liquor control plans," he said.

Sammis said state operated stores would soon number 24 with 86 agencies set up in towns too small to merit a store. Ninety-nine communities will be directly served by the commission.

BROOKNOOK RAIDED, FIVE MEN ARRESTED

Gambling With Dice, Cards, Slot Machine Charged; Enter Pleas Today

Five men arrested in the wee small hours Sunday morning when state police made a raid on Brooknook, on the highway eight miles north near Brooks, are slated to enter pleas in justice court this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Each put up $100 cash bail yesterday.

The officers swooped down upon a completely equipped gambling room on the second floor of Brooknook, and surprised the five in various gambling operations and took $134.50 from crap and stud poker games running then, they charge.

Those arrested were: John A. Moore, proprietor, held with Clyde Moore and Robert H. Ogden for gambling with dice; John A. Moore, on a second count of unlawfully conducting, maintaining and operating a slot machine; Shintro G. Kamaya, for gambling, and Faustino Niparus for playing stud poker.

About 30 persons were in the place, a good percentage of whom were said to be minors. Officers released all but the five arrested after taking names and addresses in what they wished to call some of those present as witnesses.

No arrests on liquor charges were made, although much liquor was in evidence. No hard liquor was being sold over the counter but officers said hard liquor produced from flasks was in evidence.

OLD HOSPITAL BILL TO BE PAID BY CITY

Salem's aldermen dug into the city's pockets Monday night and paid a bill of $265 due to the Salem General hospital since 1930. Told by their attorney that the account was not a minor collectible since it came from the tort of a city officer while on duty, the councilmen decided the obligation was nevertheless a moral one and should be paid.

The $265, which will be taken from the emergency fund, covers the hospitalization of Clyde Williams who was shot by a Salem policeman and confined 54 days to the hospital from the wound. The mishap occurred late in 1929. Alderman Henry Vandover made the motion for the bill's payment. Alderman S. A. Hughes contended the liability was an equitable one on the city and should be met. Alderman Needham's motion to reduce the payment in half failed to carry.

REMODELING SHOPS, MASONIC BUILDING

Women's Bootery Planned By Acklin, Shine-Repair Shop by A. J. Paris

Remodeling operations that will entail an expenditure of approximately $1500 were begun yesterday on the store room on the first floor of the Masonic building, State and High streets, formerly occupied by the French shop. Tenants for the new rooms will be Edward W. Acklin and A. J. Paris.

Acklin, who now operates the Acklin Bootery at 121 North High street, expects to move about March 1 into the south half of the remodeled store space, 105 North High street, next to the Red Cross Pharmacy, where he will cater to the women's and children's shoe and hosiery trade. He announced yesterday he planned to install equipment and stocks to make the new Acklin bootery one of the most modern women's and children's shoe stores on the Pacific coast.

Something new in a shoe shine and repair, and hat repair shop will be opened in the near future in the north section of the new space, 115 North High street, by Paris, who for many years operated a shoe repair business here, but retired about three years ago. Paris, it was reported, intends to make a large expenditure to offer novel, up-to-date shoe shining service, and to install the latest in shoe and hat repair equipment.
