

NEW DEAL FOR INDIAN BACKED

Majority Favors Program; Suspicion Still Dwells in Tribes' Haunts

feel we have accomplished what we set out to do—to clear up a lot of misunderstanding which has been prevalent among the Indians on this measure. We have found these Indians in good humor.

His remarks on good humor were born out at the time when someone from the swarthy-skinned audience called out the popular legion convention term—"Where's Elmer?" His call was carried throughout the auditorium.

Those who did endorse the changes did not go too far with such endorsement. One speaker from the floor declared that "Indians are suspicious of the white man by nature and cannot change. If you should stack $20 bills on the table and say they were for the Indians, many in this audience would not go after them. They are suspicious of the whites."

Chiefs of the tribes and veterans in earlier war councils were virtually wholeheartedly opposed to any change, but the younger braves favored the proposal. A survey of the tribes represented showed the majority of them in favor of the principle back of the measure.

Many of the tribal delegates remained at the school Friday night for the entertainment program which they side-tracked Thursday night in order to hold their own councils. Today will see the redskins returning to reservations in Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and northern California to convey the changes to their people after which it was expected a more definite reaction to the bill would be sent to the federal authorities.

SALEM HIGH BAND IS HEARD AT W. U.

Willamette university students and faculty enjoyed a program by Salem high school's 40-piece band at the chapel hour yesterday. Wesley Roeder, director, is a Willamette alumnus, a member of the class of 1932. While at the university here he was active in the organization of the student band and was a member of the original "trumpet trio" of this generation which proved to Salem music lovers that the trumpet is something more than an instrument for military music.

Yesterday's program included selections recognized as requiring skill and practice:

Band—E Pluribus Unum March by King; vocal solo—At Dawning, by Cadman, Dean Arehart; brass solo—Waldo Klum and Irvin Branch; trumpet trio—Jimmy Moyer, Ronald Adams and Oliver Glenn; band-iron count company's march by King; trombone solo—Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Folks by Smith and Holmes, Bert Broer; clarinet solo—Son-nambula by Thornton, Julian Edwards; band-Egmont Overture by Beethoven.

Among the early activities contemplated by the band is the pre-tournament rally, preceding the state high school basketball program in March.

and Private Floyd Marshall were injured. After learning of the deaths, Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) asked the house to give immediate consideration to a resolution saying army mail carrying should stop at once, but Speaker Rainey refused to recognize her.

Six army pilots had been killed on flights in connection with air mail operation before Friday's accidents. Lieut. Jean D. Greiner and Edwin D. White lost their lives in Weber Canyon, Utah, Feb. 16. Lieut. James Y. Eastham crashed at Jerome, Idaho, the same day and burned to death.

Lieut. Durward O. Lowry was killed Feb. 22 near Deshler, Ohio, and Fred I. Patrick lost his life near Denison, Tex. The next day Lieut. George F. McDermott was drowned in the ocean off Long Island after an amphibian bearing three aviators was forced down on the water.

HOME LOAN BONDS ACCEPTANCE ASKED

To force Zero Polaire, owner under a sheriff's sale certificate, of real property which had been mortgaged in 1929 by E. E. Robertson and subsequently sold to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Delsell, to take Home Owners' Loan bonds for his loan is the object of a suit filed Friday by the Delsells against Polaire.

They allege that he filed a foreclosure suit to collect a $3000 mortgage in July, 1933, a few days after a payment on the mortgage was not paid. In April, 1933, the property was sold to Polaire by the sheriff and Polaire now occupies it, plaintiffs contend.

They say the property has been approved for a $4000 HOLC loan and that they have agreed to make up to Polaire any difference between the par value of the bonds and the price for which he sells them and applies them on his mortgage. The Delsells allege the property has twice the value of the original mortgage.

CWA Payroll of Week is $17,886

Marion county's CWA payroll this week totals $17,886 Glenn Niles, administrator, announced last night after completing the check list. More than 1100 workers, some of whom are engaged on projects operated by the federal government in various parts of the state, will be paid. The prevailing wage for common labor during the past week has been 40 cents an hour; it will be raised to 50 cents an hour Monday, it is understood.

BUILDERS HEAR ABOUT FUTURE

CWA and PWA, Bonneville are Among Topics at Congress Banquet

Bonneville dam will require about three years to build and will employ at the peak some 2500 persons according to Engineer Grimm. The payroll will be about 10 millions, and materials about 10 millions, half of which will be for western supplies, chiefly cement and lumber. Possible industries to use the power Grimm mentioned as pulp and paper, aluminum, chromium, electro-chemical including fertilizer, and metal working industries. He said the prospects for industrial expansion are not rosy but that he was an optimist and believed people would demand a higher standard of living.

"The cost of distributing domestic energy is many times the generating cost," he said. "You cannot materially reduce the domestic energy costs, but greater use will bring lower unit costs, greater density of population will lower distribution expense."

Former officers were reelected for the building congress: F. M. Drew, president, Eugene H. R. Perrin, vice-president, Klamath Falls; E. G. Harlan, secretary-treasurer, Eugene; O. G. Hughson, field man, Portland.

FEDERAL HELP FOR SCHOOLS IS SOUGHT

Application for approximately $250,000 for federal relief emergency funds with which to prevent the closing of Oregon rural schools short of the minimum eight-month school term and to aid districts more than a year in arrears in the payment of their warrants, was filed Friday with E. R. Goudy, executive secretary of the state unemployment relief committee.

The announcement was made by C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, who said Goudy would approve the application and send it to federal officials in Washington for final consideration.

Howard declared that recent reports received at his office indicated that approximately 50 districts would be compelled to close their schools during March and April with terms ranging from five to eight months unless federal relief money was received.

"If the application for federal relief funds is approved some of the distressed districts will be able to continue their schools and the teachers will receive salaries which are now in arrears," Howard continued.

Howard made it plain that this relief would be only temporary.

Job and Social Insurance Bill Title Prepared

Ballot title for the unemployment and social insurance constitutional amendment, sponsored by the Multnomah county federation of unemployed, was completed by Attorney General Van Winkle Friday and filed in the state department. Alice Youngblood, Portland, is secretary of the organization.

The proposed amendment provides for the payment of unemployment insurance, based on the average age of the respective industries, with a minimum of $10 a week for persons eligible to receive benefits under the act and $3 a week for dependents. Free medical care, hospitalization and other concessions also are authorized under the law.

In event the completed petitions are filed within the statutory period the amendment will go on the ballot at the November election. The amendment carries a state appropriation of $25,000,000.

Community Clubs

The Marion County Federation of Community Clubs met with the Salem Heights club Thursday evening. The president of the Salem Heights club, Frank Rogers, called the meeting to order and after a short business session turned the meeting over to the officers of the Federation, Luther J. Chapin and Mrs. Roy J. Rice. Delegates from 10 of the federated clubs and three visiting clubs from Polk county, West Salem, Lincoln and Spring Valley, responded to the roll call.

The Federation extended an invitation to these clubs and as many other clubs of Polk county as desire to do so, to join the federation. Roy J. Rice, reporting for the directors of the federation, announced that Prof. Loren D. Davidson, minister of music, of the First Christian church, had been chosen to train and direct the chorus of voices from the community clubs for the annual program of the federation. All clubs are urged to participate in this part of the program. This program was given: Orchestra, Salem Heights; an original poem, O. W. Allen; women's chorus, Liberty; reading, Mrs. M. M. Magee, Riekey; vocal solo, W. S. Biggestaff, pianist, Mrs. Forest Edwards; tablan, "The Old Spinning Wheel," Fringle; piano and accordion duet, Russell Beardsley and Donald Pearcey.

Lunch was served by the Salem Heights club.

JEFFERSON, March 9.—The last meeting of the Scrawellhill community club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grants one mile south of Jefferson. Following the business meeting, five tables of pinocle were in play during the rest of the evening.

Mrs. Roland McGowan and Carolyn Green, assisted their mother with serving refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Lou Paris were guests.

ROSSMAN IS AGAIN RED CROSS LEADER

Re-electing Judge George H. Rossman chairman, the Marion county Red Cross chapter annual meeting was held last night at the Rossman home on North Capitol street. Attendance was large with representatives from Salem, Woodburn, Silverton and Aumsville present.

No definite selection of a successor to Thora Boesen, executive secretary who is resigning April 1, was made. Harold Eakin was elected to serve as vice-chairman for the coming year, Lynn Smith as treasurer and Avery Thompson as publicity director. Reports of committees were optimistic. First aid training sponsored by the county unit will continue. Willard Marshall said. Mrs. David Wright reported for the home, hygiene and care of the sick committee that volunteer services and clothing for local work and clothing for Kelso flood sufferers had been supplied.

Organization of a disaster committee to take care of any disaster, social or otherwise of a local nature that might arise was discussed. Such committees in other chapters have proved efficient additions to the work of the society. The body expressed its regret in the loss of Miss Boesen, who is dropping her Red Cross and county relief work to be married.

Shippers into any market area who were degraded 60 days prior to December 15, 1933, and who are now restored to their grade within 21 days from the date of this order may again resume shipments into that market area.

community clubs and building construction; and Louis Waldorf of Eugene, who told what the local building congress chapters may do by working through and with the grange.

Surprise features of the afternoon program were a clever 4-H boys skit arranged by the Hayesville boys wood work club; and songs by five girls of the Riekey community club. These young folks were presented with gifts by O. G. Hughson of Portland, state field man of the congress.

Richard D. Slater, president of the Salem building congress, presided at the noon luncheon which was the first gathering of the congress. He introduced Mayor Douglas McKay of Salem, who greeted the delegates. E. M. Drew, state president, of Eugene responded with a few words emphasizing the importance of the building industry to general prosperity; and predicting that the adoption of a construction code would do more than anything to pull the industry out of its slump.

F. H. Murphy, president of the Portland section, stressed the need of educational work, describing the congress not as a trade organization but as an agency for promoting the general cause of building, insuring the people of worthy buildings and informing the public of the importance of trade training in schools and of quality materials and workmanship.
