Dances Drawing—Second of the series of benefit dances slated at Wheatland hall by the Artisan lodge will be held tonight, with the seven-piece Racketeer orchestra furnishing the music. The Artisan plan to purchase uniforms for a semi-military band with proceeds from a four Saturday night dance at Wheatland. A fund drive held Thursday night of this week also went over big, the management reports.

Hard-time, old-time dance, Yew Park tonight. Bandana String-teers.

Seek Licenses—Two couples yesterday filed applications for marriage licenses at the courthouse. Harvey B. Thurston, 21, Jefferson, a grocer, asked permission to wed Margaret K. Goin, 19, assistant postmaster at Jefferson. Howard Hampton, 28, route five, Salem, asked permission to marry Dorothy V. Robertson, 20, route five, Salem, a housekeeper.

Just the ticket you don't ask for may be the right one to take you to Chicago.

Warrants Called In—Call for the payment of general fund warrants indorsed "not paid for want of funds" up to and including January 9, was issued Friday by Ralph C. Holman, state treasurer. Another call, involving approximately $150,000, probably will be issued early next week, the state treasurer said.

Charges Dropped—Charges of making false application for vehicle registration made against E. L. Kubin were dropped yesterday on motion of the state patrolman who made the arrest. The state agreed to dismissal, as a second weighing of the truck involved showed no falsity.

St. Patrick's party candies now ready. The Spa.

Case Dismissed—Charges against Louis Gregory of fishing within 200 feet of a fishway were dismissed from justice court yesterday on motion of the attorney for defense and after the case had gone to hearing. The state consented to dismissal, agreeing to insufficiency of evidence.

Sentence Today—Jason Price, tried in justice court yesterday on a drunken driving charge, will appear before Judge Hayden this morning at 10 o'clock for sentence.

Chess Expert to Play, Lecture at Club on Tuesday

Arthur Duke, whose fame has spread throughout the chess world, and whose playing in the greatest chess clubs in America caused him to be chosen one of four to represent the United States in the Olympic tournament in Prague, Czechoslovakia, will play 25 games simultaneously and two blind-fold games, at the Salem Chess club next Tuesday night. In addition, he will give a lecture on chess, master openings and strategic positions. The games and lectures will be held in the regular meeting place of the Salem Chess club, St. Paul's parish house on Chemeketa between Church and High streets. Play will begin at 7 p.m. All who are interested in the royal game of chess will be welcome. A small charge will be made to defray expenses incident to Mr. Duke's appearance.

ADULT SCHOOL IS OF BENEFIT HERE

Nearly 1200 Have Attended Courses, McKenzie Tells Local Credit Men

Nearly 1200 people will have taken advantage of the night school of the CWS adult night school classes here by the end of March, T. T. Mackenzie, directing the program locally, told the Retail Credit association at the Friday luncheon meeting. In January and February, 1140 persons attended the Salem classes; and the anticipated March enrollment is 500.

Salem was the first city in the state to swing into full action on the CWS adult classes, with 11 classes in operation here January 8, just eight days after "go" came in form of word that an appropriation had been made for this purpose. In January, $14,000 was allotted for the state.

Nearly 40 of the 125 unemployed Salem teachers actually in need of work, have been employed through the CWS night instruction. A maximum teacher salary of $50 per month is allowed.

Vocational education, home working courses, rudiments of elementary education, rehabilitation, university work and the recently formed nursery school have all been offered as part of these classes. In Salem, through some agreement which Mackenzie declared a mystery to him, no university extension courses have been granted through these free classes.

In registering the adult students, of 430 cases, it was found 25 had not completed grammar school, 115 had no more than a grammar school education, 133 had finished high school and only 27 were college graduates. The ages of students runs from 17 to 71 years, with about 80 students over 40 years old.

Mackenzie is director of vocational educational training for the Salem schools, and handles the CWS direction because work in the state was placed in hands of the state vocational education department.

The University of Dublin Choral society recently gave the 296th concert of its 96th season in Dublin, Irish Free State.

SIX INDICTMENTS BROUGHT BY JURY

Six indictments were returned here late yesterday afternoon by the Marion county grand jury. S. G. Kamaya and Faustino N. Aparis were individually indicted for allegedly conducting a stud poker game February 18. John A. Moore, Clyde J. Moore and Robert Ogburn were indicted together for allegedly operating a "crag" game February 18.

The grand jurors returned indictments against John Albin and George Trambitas, charging them with breaking into the cigar warehouse of George W. Waters early in the morning last month and starting to remove a large quantity of goods.

Thomas H. Wilson and Ross R. Hill were indicted and charged with burglary not in a dwelling. They are alleged to have broken into the R. C. Hunsaker property where certain tools and implements were housed.

Electric Rates Order Due Soon

Final order in the case involving the rates, practices and conduct of the Northwestern Electric company was being prepared here today and probably will be completed early today, Charles M. Thomas, state utility commissioner announced. The investigation has been in progress for more than a year.

Thomas indicated that his order would demand material reductions in a number of electric service classifications.

SUBTLE SATIRE IS FEATURE OF PLAY

'The Romancers' Greeted by Near Capacity Audience on Initial Showing

By JESSIE STEELE
If you are artistic and imaginative enough to appreciate Louis XV settings and dialogue, and can grasp satire without confusing it with dead earnest, you will enjoy "The Romancers" now playing in the Nelson auditorium. But if you are a matter of fact person, perhaps a movie fan, don't go because you will be disappointed.

Friday night the play dragged badly in the first act but picked up as the two scheming fathers, Roswell Wright and Ronald Craven, got on with their comedy scenes. In places it was finished and quite beautiful. Such a scene was the false abduction with music and subdued lighting.

J. Lyman Steed as Stratford shone throughout the drama. His hearty laugh at his first entrance was typical of his robust, natural performance. Genevieve Thayer was pretty and graceful as the romantic Sylvestre and Lawrence Brown satisfactory in his role as the lover, Percinet. The direction by Lucille Tucker Paulus kept the action going and saved the rhythm lines from dragging the entire performance into dullness. A near capacity house greeted the Chemeketa Players' first night.

SEEK TO RESTORE LIQUOR HOME RULE

Reenactment of the home rule provision of the state constitution, as it related to liquor control, is provided in a proposed constitutional amendment filed in the state department Friday by A. C. Buchman of Portland.

The state supreme court, in a recent opinion in the case of the city of Klamath Falls against the state liquor commission, held that this provision of the constitution previously was repealed.

Two initiative measures previously filed by Buchman authorizing counties, cities and towns

Interest in Spring Opening Extensive; More Merchants Participate; Date March 15

Public interest in the Salem Ad club's plans for spring opening to be held next Thursday is expected to reach a near-climax today, with virtually all merchants in the city cooperating in the event.

Many stores are remodeling and painting interiors of display windows in anticipation of a large crowd of lookers during Thursday evening. Members of the Ad club are expecting more people from Salem and the surrounding territory than have ever attended such an event.

A feature of spring opening will be the annual dance to be held in the newly redecorated armory. A feature expected to attract many is the waltz hour, during which waiters only will be played.

Yesterday the following names were added to those already cooperating fully with the Ad club: Marr Grocery, C. S. to prohibit and regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors will not be pressed, Buchman said.

The proposed constitutional amendment filed by Buchman adds to section 2 of article XI the provision that the county as well as cities and towns shall be given the exclusive right to regulate liquor sales and traffic. Another feature of the amendment eliminates the saloon and provides that revenues from liquor sales shall go for indigent relief and old age pensions. These features are now included in the Knox liquor control act.

In case the completed petitions are filed in the state department by July 5 the amendment will go on the ballot at the general election in November.

Thomas W. Ross of Portland will serve as chairman of the committee which will seek to obtain 26,667 names on the petitions.
