CHICAGO, March 17-(AP)-Wheat rose about a cent a bushel today, but gains failed to hold in the face of late setbacks both of securities and of cotton. Accelerating the transient upturn of the wheat market were severe dust storms in the southwest and west, with a sudden sharp drop of temperatures to far below freezing. Subsequently, wheat values were bearishly affected by snowfalls and sleet over the dust areas and by an unofficial estimate suggesting possibility that the United States this season would have a total wheat supply of 950,000.000 bushels compared with 913,000,000 last ticularly in California, developed increased activity during the week ended March 14, as the result of an improved domestic inquiry for the moderate offerings by grow-Prices paid to growers by Salem buyers March 17 ers, according to the Weekly Hop Market Review of the U.S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Growers' sales in the three coast states totaled several hundred bales, and were the highest for any single week in recent months. Prices held practically unchanged from those which have prevailed for the past several weeks. While no new foreign sales of U.S. hops were reported during the period, an increased interest on the part of foreign buyers was noted. The increased domestic demand was attributed to heavier seasonal requirements on the part of brewers and other consumers.

In Oregon markets, growers sales totaling 378 bales were reported during the week, of which 100 bales prime to choice quality netted grower 29c per pound. 125 bales of good primes brought 27%c, while 153 bales of fair primes were sold at 26c per pound, net to grower, all 1933 crop clusters. Current prices in Oregon continued to cover the rather wide range of 25c to 35c per pound, net to grower, with the variation depending upon the quality. Remaining stocks of strictly choice hops in Oregon are reported very light, and are being firmly held for at least 35c per pound. The continued lack of selling pressure on the part of Oregon growers for their remaining stocks tended to maintain a

In Washington hop markets, moderate sales by growers were reported during the week. In the Yakima district, 23 bales of choice clusters netted growers 29 cents per pound and 130 bales of medium to prime quality brought 25 cents per pound. Growers in that district however, were generally asking prices slightly above current bids by dealers. In the Puyallup valley 25 bales of prime quality were sold at 25 cents per pound, net to grower. This lot came from one of the best crops in that district, and which had been least affected by downy mildew, which was so prevalent in that area last year.
