

REVIVAL OF LIGHT OPERA IS POPULAR

Gilbert - Sullivan Creations of 50 Years Ago Again
Intriguing Public

The comic opera "The Pirates of Penzance", to be presented by the Light Opera club of Willamette university Saturday night in the high school auditorium was one of the most sensational successes of its time, enjoying a run of nearly 400 night in London in 1880. The opera was first staged in New York City in 1879.

The "Gilbert and Sullivan" operas are the creations of two Englishmen, Sir William S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur S. Sullivan, although no other country in the world has given them the reception they have received in the United States. The combination of these two British artists lasted for 20 years and was the most fruitful of any of the musical partnerships of all history.

Gilbert was responsible for the librettos while Sullivan composed the scores. There was an original contribution in the musical world since in place of the old adaptations of the French opera bouffe, which had great vogue, they substituted a genuinely English product, humorous and delightful without a tinge of vulgarity or the commonplace.

Sullivan would have achieved lasting fame in the musical world if he had not been the composer of "The Pirates of Penzance", "The Mikado" and the other operas which bear his name. Raised in a musical atmosphere from infancy, by the age of eight he had learned to play every wind instrument in his father's band. His "Lost Chord" was probably the most successful English song of the 19th century.

Gilbert also made other contributions, his "Bab" sketches being particularly outstanding. One authority has said "Gilbert had shown himself, as a dealer in quips and paradoxes and ludicrous dilemmas, undiminished."

One of the current successes of the New York musical season has been the revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. "The Pirates of Penzance" has been one of the most successful of these.

REPORTER'S JOB IN EUROPE DIFFICULT

News reporters find their task more difficult in Europe than in the United States, declared Virgil Pinkley, United Press bureau manager here, at the Lions club luncheon Thursday noon.

"People abroad are more hesitant to talk," Pinkley explained. "In Washington, D. C., for instance, the reporters enter directly into the office of the secretary of the treasury and talk with that official freely. In London the reporter finds that if he may ask to interview a government official on a Thursday, he is likely to be told that the official possibly may have something to tell him by the following Monday."

Oregon officials for the most part are quite willing to tell the news men exactly what is going on. Only a few attempt to have the news colored," Pinkley said.

Pinkley outlined the history of the United Press, which was organized in 1907, and explained the methods by which news is collected in and dispatched to all parts of the world.

CHILDREN'S CIRCUS MATINEE SCHEDULED

Will Be Saturday Afternoon;
Animals to Be Featured;
Last Showing Nears

The Elks' circus will give a special children's matinee performance at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in the armory, where the show has been playing to large audiences throughout the week. It will conclude its six-day Salem engagement Saturday night, when it gives two complete evening performances. The first show will start at 7:45 and the second at 9:30.

At the children's matinee Saturday afternoon there will be added attraction and reduced admission for all children up to 15 years of age.

Rue Enos, contortionist and circus clown of international fame, is in charge of the clown acts, and in anticipation of the youthful audience has arranged special clown numbers on the matinee performance.

Performing animals, which will be especially groomed for their appearance tomorrow afternoon, "Sparkle," educated pony that answers all questions, promises to be an outstanding feature among the many trained animal acts.

Performing dogs, monkeys and ponies will go through their best antics for the amusement of their young friends.

Besides performing animals, children at the matinee will see serialists, trapeze performers, high wire artists, and almost every other attraction found under the "big top."

Armory doors open tonight at 7 o'clock and Saturday night at 6:30. At the matinee, doors will open Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Free dancing is to be enjoyed after the performances to night and tomorrow night.
