

STATE WARNED IT MUST SHARE

Hopkins Wires That Oregon is Expected to Defray Its Share of Cost

(Continued from page 1) the state spent a total of $29,304. Counties in that period provided $630,000.

It was said yesterday by relief officials that many states have contributed large sums to put with moneys received from the federal government. Southern states have been the least cooperative in providing funds. California at times has provided as much as half of the relief money spent in the state.

Colorado was unable to determine how to raise money and a few months ago was cut from federal relief rolls. Within 30 days the state legislature had provided funds and renewed relations with the federal government.

State officials here yesterday had few suggestions on ways to meet the federal government's demand.

Assuming that the state as of August 1, 1934, would be required to provide one-third of the relief money expended, at the present rate $250,000 a month would have to be put up for Oregon. At the most favorable calculation not more than $75,000 a month could be provided from liquor stores and profits. If the federal government would accept $3,000,000 in state notes, secured by prospective liquor and tax incomes over the next three years, the crisis might be met for 12 more months.

CALL FOR MEETING MONDAY IS ISSUED

ty apparently is the choice of most of the delegates. Friends of Charles M. Thomas, state utilities commissioner, declared that he probably would not allow his name to go before the assembly. Thomas was mentioned this week as a potential candidate.

Zimmerman, in a statement given out at Roseburg recently, made it plain that he would serve as standard bearer for the independent group, provided he was the choice of the assembly. Zimmerman said his platform would include three outstanding planks, as follows:

Payment of taxes by those most able to pay.

State-owned transmission lines from Bonneville to distribution centers.

Creation and operation of a state owned bank.

Incidentally these three issues entered prominently into discussions at the recent annual convention of the Oregon state grange held at Roseburg.

Sponsors of the assembly said they did not anticipate any dissension, and that a nominee probably would be selected early Monday afternoon. Most of the morning session will be given over to organization and committee deliberations. A large number of resolutions probably will be reported out during the day.

Tompkins was in Salem Wednesday arranging for use of the hall of representatives, and completing other details of the assembly.

The certificate of nomination must be filed with the secretary of state between July 30 and September 12.

Friday night at 8 o'clock, Rev. Dean Vermillion, who has been associate pastor of the First Evangelical church of Salem and pastor of the Fruitland church for this past year, will bring his farewell message to the Fruitland congregation.

The Fruitland church has enjoyed a successful year. Financial obligations were met in full with a fine sum raised for building improvements. These include painting both inside and out, a new floor and platform, and a new porch and steps. There has also been a fine gain in the membership. Rev. Vermillion will assume his new duties as pastor of the Dallas Evangelical church. Next Sunday will be his first there and he will bring messages both morning and evening.

Claim Success for NRA on First Birthday

Celebrating the first birthday of the National Recovery Administration, June 16, NRA officials, headed by General Hugh S. Johnson, as administrator, despite criticisms, contend that the NRA has laid a firm groundwork of industrial organization through five definite achievements, as depicted in layout above—operation of voluntary codes in a bulk of industry; sharp increase in payrolls; increase in employment at private industries, officials agreeing that 3,000,000 have been rehired; elimination of child labor in legitimate industries, and a large advance in trade union membership.

made when there are no withdrawals made during the month. "Cost of special checks and check books, exchange purchased, telegraphic transfers made, and similar regular or special services shall be charged to the account for which the services are performed.

A direct charge shall be made for all out of pocket expenses arising out of specific transactions for specific customers and actually paid or credited by the bank on behalf of such customers, as well as other costs chargeable to the account.

Bank account holders have decided to deviate from the charges in one respect: depositors paying the minimum monthly charge of 50 cents will be allowed to use ten checks without extra charge.

MISSIONS CHANGE THEIR LOCATIONS

Several changes in local missions are announced this week. The Glad Tidings mission has moved from 412 North Commercial street to the Open Door Missions formerly in charge of Earl Sechrist.

The Lighthouse mission in West Salem will be taken over by Rev. A. Smith, E. H. Snyder having gone to Port, Oregon.

A new organization, formed this week by uniting a number of helpers of the Advent faith, Church of God and Pentecostal, will be headed by Rev. S. A. Ober. This unit will send E. E. Proctor and Bert Yeager as home missionaries to Nevada and Idaho for the early summer. This new group is for the most part composed of the early Sabbath Keepers.

Corps Uniforms Will Be Sold to Woodburn's Band

Not quite six years from the time the Salem drum corps participated in its first national contest and won second place at San Antonio, Tex., the executive committee of Capital Post No. 9, American Legion, last night approved sale of the uniforms used at that time to the Woodburn community band. The sale price was not revealed. The corps, organized in 1924 and disbanded last November, went to San Antonio in 1928.

An agreement included in the sale specified that the Woodburn band should play at the July 4 celebration here next month. The 29 uniforms purchased consist of red cadet jackets with blue caps, and black military caps with gold braid and orange plumes. The trousers to these uniforms long since wore out.

FIVE ARRESTED ON FORGERY CHARGES

Ambrose, who pleaded not guilty in justice court yesterday to a charge of forging the name of Sam P. Matheny to a $7.85 check made payable to Ralph Davis, a fictitious name, and passed to Damian Riedel at Sublimity, will have a preliminary hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was being held in jail in lieu of posting $750 bail.

Mrs. Estrella Miller, 70, of Sedonia, was killed instantly and Arthur D. Madon, 45, Prosser fire chief, who was driving the car, died an hour later in a Sunnyside hospital.

Ruth Hall, 14, was injured when the machine driven by her father, R. C. Hall, of Eugene, Ore., ran into the rear of Madon's auto, after the chief's car crashed into the burner.

OWNERSHIP LEAGUE REVISES ITS PLANS to Salem and not for a local distributing system, the resolution stated. It asked that the bonds "be forthwith advertised and offered for sale on New York and other large markets."

The league also named a committee to investigate cost of replacement of the present water system and of a mountain pipeline. On the committee as named are R. D. Cooper, chairman; W. H. Henderson and Engineer John W. Cunningham.

Mayor Douglas McKay, in reply to an inquiry from Mr. Elliott, stated that the suggested date of June 25 for the arbitration conference would be agreeable to the city and that the city would be represented at the meeting by the city attorney, members of the council committee appointed to negotiate for purchase of the local system and himself.

No mention appeared in Elliott's letter regarding details of the arbitration plan to be discussed. Previously he had stated that the city's general proposal to submit the matter to a board of three engineers was acceptable but that the company would not consent to fixing $950,000 as the maximum price to be considered.

Whether or not the city can legally bind itself to abide by the findings of an arbitration board is one of the chief questions yet to be settled.

PROponents OF BUS TRANSPORT HOPEFUL

Proponents of free bus transportation for non-high school district students to adjacent school districts were hopeful yesterday, on the strength of scattering returns, that their candidates had been elected at the vote taken last Monday.

On the early reports, Candidates Chapin and Collard were leading over M. Wetnack and Frank Hynes, incumbents. The former are said to favor a restoration of bus transportation; the latter were elected heretofore or appointed on a non-transportation platform.

Since 108 districts are to report, no official determination of the election will be had until the canvass is made here next Monday by the present non-high school board which by law is the official canvassing board.

THOMAS RESPONDS IN OVERLAND CASE

Denial that a writ of mandamus should be issued to compel C. M. Thomas, utilities commissioner, to grant a truck permit to Oscar J. Overland, was filed yesterday in circuit court here by the attorney general's office.

Thomas asserts that the license of Overland, operating as one of the partners of McKay Trucks, was cancelled March 29, 1934, for failing to file copies of contracts he made with people he served.

Subsequently, Thomas alleges, he refused Overland a license to haul because he deemed his financial condition unsatisfactory and because he had not made the required reports.

In the complaint Overland recently filed, he sought a writ of mandamus to compel Thomas to give him a license.

RESTAURANT CODE ABROGATION ASKED

PORTLAND, Ore., June 20.—(AP)—A group of 675 Portland restaurant operators led by the Oregon Retail Beverage Dispensers, Inc., has signed a petition asking Governor Meier to abrogate the marketing agreement of the restaurant business, which becomes effective Thursday, Henry G. Kreis, attorney for the beverage group, announced late today.

Under the law, the governor is required to abrogate the agreement whenever 75 per cent of the industry asks it. Kreis asserted sufficient signers to force such action would be obtained as soon as the group has time to canvass other parts of the state.

A charge that the agreement was being fought only by "beer joints" was made today by Grover Rebenitsch, managing director of the code, who said "legitimate" restaurants, which serve beer only as a complement to their food dispensing business, helped formulate the agreement and have endorsed it.
