TOURIST BUSINESS RANKS THIRD HERE

Bridges on Highways Must Be Both Practical, Beautiful: McCullough

The tourist industry is the third in importance in Oregon, said C. B. McCullough, assistant highway commissioner, addressing the Rotary club yesterday. First in number, second in stock, tourists make a $100,000,000 business for the state; among the visitors are many who are potential investors and settlers, said the speaker. As Oregon is a greatly under-developed state, by exploiting our scenic resources we may bring to the state many more permanent residents.

"In our work in the highway department we have regarded bridges as a real attraction if we combine strength and utility with the artistic side of architectural beauty," said McCullough, who has designed nearly all of the modern highway bridges of the state. "People stop to study a beautiful bridge, to take pictures of it."

That Oregon's bridges are proving themselves to be shown by the inquiries that come for pictures and bulletins of Oregon bridges. The Clackamas River bridge received first prize in 1933 from the American steel contest, the first time with one exception that award has come to Oregon. Foreign companies inquire about Oregon bridge designs and Italy has asked permission to translate and use as text in technical schools McCullough's treatise on bridge construction.

He described briefly the four types of bridge: Suspension, beam, cantilever and arch, and referred to the development in this state of the special combination lumber and concrete bridge which is attracting wide attention.

6 o'clock, it is expected the number seeking the three cash awards will be greater than last year, when 61 women and girls entered.

Frances Colyer, young Suver girl who walked the eight-mile route last year in one hour and 20 minutes, will be in the race again this year. Her registration was received at The Statesman office yesterday. Frances' younger sister Addie, who placed sixth last year, will also be in the walk this year and will try just as hard as all the other entrants to keep Frances from being a repeater.

The route will be eight miles again this year, with a downtown route similar to last year. The start will be made promptly at 11 a. m. from the United States National bank, corner State and Commercial, and will traverse the business district two or three times. Finishing point has not yet been selected.

Walking only will be the keynote for the race; any infringement of this rule or any cutting of corners or other efforts to cheat the rules will disqualify entrants. Boy Scouts will be on the job to assist in patrolling the route, and judges will be chosen to determine winners of the three cash awards.

Registration for the walking race may be made by any girl or woman in the Salem trading area at either the Capital Journal office or The Statesman office, both on South Commercial street.

NELSONS TO MAKE NEW GAS BURNERS

An invention which will add to Salem's manufacturing activities is the gas burner on which patents have been secured by Adolph Nelson of Nelson Bros., Inc. The burner is being used in installations of gas heating jobs, and is said to make possible the conversion of wood, coal or oil-burning furnaces to gas-heated furnaces without change of the furnace plant. The burner has been under experiment for a long term of years and is now perfected for the market.

"The burner will not flash back in the mixer," said Mr. Nelson, "and has demonstrated it is much more economical in operation. The burner can be built in sizes from 10 cubic feet per hour to 5000 cubic feet per hour, and comes within a practical price range. In house installations the control is made automatic."

Nelson Bros. plan to manufacture and install the burners from their Salem plant.

POMEROY HEAD OF POLK DEMOCRATS

DALLAS, June 20.—The Polk county democratic central committee met at the city hall in Monmouth Tuesday night at 8:30 with Tracy Savory, chairman, in charge of the meeting. Twenty-four precinct committeemen were present, in addition to a large number of interested democrats from all parts of the county.

Officers elected for the following year were: T. D. Pomeroy of Independence, chairman; R. A. Harris of West Salem, secretary; treasurer, Robert Craven of Independence, congressional committeeman. Members named on the nominating committee were: Finley Edgar, Rickreall; Stephen J. Mayhood, Eola; George Kurze, Dallas; John Loy, Independence, and Preston Doughton, Dallas.

An executive and a managing committee of three members was named and was composed of Geo. Cooper, Dallas; E. F. Black, Independence, and Laird Lindeman, Independence.

All efforts to elect a state committeeman proved futile when seven ballots resulted in ties between R. R. Turner of Dallas and Howard Morlan of Monmouth. The meeting was adjourned when it was found to be impossible to select a committeeman and another meeting will be held later to decide the matter.

Pastor Gets Back Bible Thief Reads

Rev. H. L. Grafious, Gervais pastor, has a prized American revised bible back in his home after the bible was lost four years but the minister is puzzled about the hands and use into which the prized book passed during the period it has been missing.

Four years ago, in the fall, Rev. Grafious was to preach at Aurora. He missed his bible, a new and favorite one, from his auto, along with a leatherette case.

Recently the bible and case, practically worn out from much use, have been returned, anonymously, to the owner. The bible came by way of Sunnyside, Wash., a former residence of Rev. Grafious.

Why the user returned the bible after using it so much when the owner's name and address was on the fly leaf, who had used the bible so long are questions puzzling the Gervais minister and as yet unanswered.

$30 MINIMUM WAGE PER WEEK IS PLAN

H. E. Wirth, Portland insurance broker, in opening his campaign as an independent candidate for governor here yesterday, declared that he was ready to explode some bombs which would rock the old political parties.

Wirth said he had arranged for a mass meeting at Medford next week, where he would outline his platform in detail. Outstanding planks in his platform follow:

Retirement of all workers at the age of 60 years with a pension ranging from $75 to $100 a month.

Reduce incomes taxes and eliminate all tax levies from improvements on real estate, with possible exception of office buildings.

Provide employment for all persons under 60 years of age at a minimum weekly salary of $30.

Furnish industry money at a rate of interest not to exceed four per cent, by taking advantage of federal aid.

Wirth said he would campaign under what is known as the "liberal party."

Lee, secretary of the Mutual Savings and Loan association, has received word of the granting of a charter for the formation of a federal mutual savings and loan association, into which the present company will eventually be merged. DAVIS ESTATE FEES CLAIMED TOO HIGH

Charges that undue fees for legal services had been made against the estate of the late Corneilia A. Davis of Tualatin, that certain moneys collected for the estate had not been turned over to it, were heard all day yesterday by County Judge Siegmund who will resume hearing the case in his court here today.

Much of the time was occupied by the testimony of S. M. Endicott, executor of the Davis will. The complainant is the board of managers for the trust which Mrs. Davis created with her estate.

The board alleges that a $1000 added fee paid W. C. Winslow, attorney, by Endicott, executor.

was excessive inasmuch as Winslow had received $3600 as his regular fee. The charge was made, Endicott asserted, for special services rendered by Winslow in defending the estate against a $30,000 damage suit brought by Marie Davis and a suit brought by certain Sharp heirs, seeking to set the trust aside.

At first, the managers claimed an $11,000 settlement made with Miss Davis by Endicott was excessive. Yesterday this matter was dropped by the complainants. It is understood the Turner church, named as trustee, did not wish to press the claim against Miss Davis.

Endicott admitted yesterday on the stand that he settled the claim of Miss Davis one day before the state intervened in behalf of the trust.

Acrimonious battles between Winslow, representing Endicott, and Allan Carson, representing the board of managers, featured the hearing.

The 1935 license plates will have a black background with canary yellow numerals. The contract calls for delivery of the plates at the state office building in Salem early in December.

Contract for 14,000 chauffeur badges was awarded to the Dayton Stencil Works of Dayton, Ohio, on a bid of five cents each.
