

APPEAL BY BACKE SURPRISES POLICE

Didn't Know Conviction Was Filed; Drunken Driving Cases are Elusive

Much to their surprise, city police yesterday received notice that William Backe, whom they arrested July 3, 1934, on a charge of drunken driving following an accident at 14th and Center streets, has appealed his case from municipal to circuit court. The appeal notice advised that in municipal court he had been ordered to pay a $100 fine and spend 30 days in jail.

"This was the first we had heard of the judge's even deciding the case," commented Chief of Police Frank A. Minio, referring to Municipal Judge Poulson. He then dug into his records and brought out officers' reports on four other men charged with drunken driving, of whose disposition no word has been given him.

There was the case of Carlton Roth, who had a fatal accident weeks ago. Judge Poulson has not yet announced his decision. And the judge says he finds in his files no record of E. A. Carrow, Portland motorist whom police here booked June 28 on a charge of drunken driving.

Police are still wondering, the chief said, what has been done about the case of William Whitesides, route two, whom a foot patrolman arrested August 26 on a charge of drunken driving. All they know is that Whitesides was released, by order of the judge, on $500 bail.

The fourth case is that of E. R. Bedwell, arrested June 26, who was ordered to pay a $100 fine and serve 30 days in jail but on July 12 appealed to the circuit court.

Pattern

Ad 2017

By ANNE ADAMS
When Paris says simple lines and richly interesting fabrics, what could be a better design to use than the smart afternoon dress sketched here? Don't you love the way the raglan sleeves are set off by the bright oblong buttons? These are also used to fasten the blouse together at the neck. You may make the frock with the simple, round neckline or, if you prefer, use the chic tabbed collar shown at the side. The gracefully paneled skirt is just as slender as can be. We suggest a plum-colored velvet, a rust colored canton crepe, or mixed wool. They would be stunning with brass buttons and buckles.

Pattern 2017 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 2-3/8 yards 54-inch fabric, and 2-3/8 yard 36 inch contrasting for collar. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Send for the new winter issue of the Anne Adams Pattern Book and know what is new in smart clothes. It takes you through the whole fashion from lingerie to outer garments. PLAYERS PERFECT ACTION OF COMEDY

Painstaking care is being taken by Miss Beulah Graham, who is directing Chemeketa Players, Inc., production of Oscar Wilde's clever comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," to perfect the cast in the typical English scenes, according to reports from the rehearsal room of South Commercial street, where the cast is busy working. Although a definite date has not been set for the presentation, it is expected that it will be decided upon within a short time.

Miss Graham is reported to be well pleased with the cast that is to present this delightful play. Several changes have had to be made from the original lineup, but the characters are declared to be well taken and carefully studied. As the rehearsals smooth out into polished action, the scintillating cleverness of Wilde's dialogue emerges, and it is expected that the presentation will prove to be a delight, not only for those seeing the play for the first time but for those who have witnessed other productions.

Rehearsals have been under way all week for the program to be presented Tuesday night by the players in the Leslie Methodist church. Three one-act plays and a chorus of singers are to be featured. Dress rehearsal is called for Monday night on the church stage. With these extra rehearsals the rehearsal room has been a busy place this past week.

INCREASED TOURIST TRAVEL IS MARKED

Out-of-state automobile registrations for the first nine months of this year showed an increase of 7624 cars, or 11 per cent over the period in 1933. August was the heaviest traveled month with an increase of 2572 cars, or 17 per cent, over August of last year. In September, 1934, the registrations of out-of-state cars showed a gain of 1871 over the same month in 1933.

California continued to send more tourists to Oregon than any other state with Washington a close second. Approximately 250 Canadian cars registered in Oregon last month while one car was registered from Haiti.

The Pacific highway was the heaviest traveled artery last month with 5084 foreign permits issued in towns along this route. Car registrations totaling 954, issued in Portland during September, were not included in any particular highway figures.

Officials said that with the completion of the five new bridges on the Oregon Coast highway considerable of the present travel on the Pacific highway would be shifted. During the past tourist season thousands of persons from Washington and California used the Coast highway either going or returning.

Bits for Breakfast

(Continued from page 4) Many were the handicaps and struggles in Oregon's early day school affairs. There were sacrifices and inconveniences, and the teachers generally received pitifully small pay and "boarded around," but, with all that, coupled with short terms, they turned out generations of men and women who, lined up against even the living and shining products of the present supervised and regimented machine age, would stand four square to all the winds that blow, without suffering much from the comparison. They transmitted some qualities of erudition, true culture and good citizenship worthy of emulation by their children and children's children.

Crocheted Gloves Exclusive Design

CROCHETED GLOVES PATTERN 861

Every woman who has cast an eye at the gloves in the shops this fall, knows that the smartest ones are colorful—gay—different; that the woolen glove, crocheted or knitted, is at the top of the list in favor. This pair is crocheted all in one color in a fine wool, making a warm but light-weight glove. The cuff makes it dressy for it is most ornamental in its lacy openness, set off by the popcorns that form the design. If you, yourself, are not given to wearing a glove like this, you'll certainly enjoy making them and delighting someone else with them. If you are smart, you will get right at them and put them aside with that collection of early Christmas gifts.

Pattern 861 comes to you with complete directions for making the gloves in three sizes (large, medium and small); illustration of the gloves and of all stitches used; and material requirements. Send 1 cent in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to The Statesman, Needlecraft Dept.

PROPOSE ARMISTICE HOLIDAY BE MONDAY

Since Armistice day, November 11, falls on Sunday this year, Governor Meier has been presented with a petition, in the form of a resolution, asking that Monday, November 12, be proclaimed a legal holiday in Oregon. The resolution, which had been previously adopted by 36 posts of the organization in the state, was adopted by the Department of Oregon Veterans of Foreign Wars and is presented by the authority of State Commander Bryan H. Conley. The full text follows:

"Whereas, as Armistice day is one of the most sacred days of the year to the ex-service men of this nation, and as many states have declared this day a legal holiday, and as the governor of the state of Oregon and the mayors of the cities of the state of Oregon have the power to declare a proclamation to the business firms and citizens of the state of Oregon, and

"Be it further resolved, That they use this power declaring Armistice day, November 11, or where it falls on Sunday, they declare Monday, November 12, a legal holiday and that all business firms shall be closed in honor of the veterans of this state who sacrificed their lives that this country might live, and

STATE LOAN SETUP REVISION PLANNED

One of the important bills now being prepared here for introduction early in the 1935 legislative session will provide for an amortization plan in connection with the payment of all loans made through the state land department. A somewhat similar bill was presented at the 1933 legislature but died on the desk in the house.

Governor Meier declared recently that such a law would speed up loan payments, make it easier for the borrowers, and at the same time save the state a large amount of money.

Under the present system a number of borrowers have paid more interest than the amount of their original loans and still owe the principal. Under the amortization proposal all borrowers would be compelled to make annual payments of interest and principal which would be retired within a reasonable time.

Some loans previously made by the state land department have run as long as 30 years. Interest received from these loans goes into the irrevocable school fund and is used for the benefit of the schools. Under the present law the interest is apportioned annually to the school districts. Governor Meier indicated that he also would request other amendments which would have a tendency to make more efficient the operations of the state land department.

Snow Reported, McKenzie Road

The cost of removing snow from the Oregon highways is no small item during the winter months. A report prepared recently by R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, showed that the cost of this work had ranged from $100,000 to $200,000 annually for a number of years. In addition to this annual expenditure the highway department has a large amount of money invested in snow fighting equipment.

A recent inventory showed that the department now has 66 light push plows of which 45 are of the intermediate type and 40 are installed on heavy trucks. There are also 20 power graders, seven large truck rotary plows, three light truck rotary plows and two caterpillar rollers. Most of the difficulty encountered from snow is confined to the mountain passes.

LAST WORD IN FUR COATS ASIAN LAMB

Of all the animals which have "laid down their lives" that women may have fur coats, right now the lamb that lives in the province of Caracul in eastern Russia and western Asia are the most popular.

Their fur, called kid caracul, is most widely demanded by women this season, according to Mrs. Fred Benloff who is here this week establishing a permanent fur department at Miller's. Mrs. Benloff, an authority on good furs, is associated designer of the Fred Benloff furs of San Francisco and will be with Miller's all this week helping arrange the new department. A cordial invitation is extended to the women of this vicinity to call and try on these lovely fur coats, jackets and neck pieces.

"Fur coats are becoming increasingly popular I find everywhere I go," Mrs. Benloff said. "They are more attractive, more lasting and therefore more economical than any other coat. We feel that this big stock of furs is outstanding and we want the women of Salem to see it."
