cores have been advanced. Market for butterfat continued to reflect more or less competition with prices still showing & widespread but local centralizers generally offering the extreme top. The controversy was said to have broken out in the coast region of southern Oregon. Trade in the egg market was solding firm with an additional advance of 1c quoted for specials on the Produce Exchange. The entire fresh egg market was becoming firmer.

Well held price and demand was showing for live chickens in the local trade with receipts just moderate and a call for more in all lines being received. Market for country killed meats was held steady and without price changes generally for the day. There continued a small supply of old mutton. Potato trading was marking time here with prices nominally the same as they have been during the last few days. Complaints of grading or central Oregon stock were becoming more numerous.

PORLTAND, Ore., Oct. 23-(AP)-

Prices were steady at today's session of the gardeners' and ranchers' market, despite the small number of growers and buyers Tomatoes continued to be offered at 25 and 50 cents a crate while spinach was offered at 60 and 70 cents an orange crate. Beets were up slightly to 30 cents a dozen bunches while the top price of local lettuce and cabbage was 80 cents a crate. Brussel sprouts continued steady at
