

Winged M Takes Overtime Win from Hard Luck Bearcats

ROTENBERG BIG GUN OF ATTACK

Lofts Six Long Ones; Don Brandon Leads W. U. in Spirited Effort

Overcoming their habit of losing games in the second half, only to lose in an overtime period, the Willamette Bearcats last night took the count for the 15th time of a hard luck season when the Multnomah Athletic club quint scored more points than they did in an extra session for a 38 to 35 win. The win was the second over the Bearcats for the Winged M hoopers.

Playing an almost brilliant first half and continuing the fight in the second until Bill Lemmon's free throw tied the score at 31-31 seconds before the end of the regular playing period, the Bearcats turned in one of their best fought games of the season. Only the long-distance scoring ability of a red-headed Multnomah guard named Rotenberg and the fast play of two forwards, Gette and Leech, prevented them from winning out in the overtime period.

Willamette grabbed an early lead and worked it up to 19 to 9 before the Clubbers began to click. The Bearcats were playing real basketball and working more plays consecutively than they have since the season began. Rotenberg and Benjamin went to work and cut the Bearcat lead to two points shortly before the half ended, but Mosher sunk a long one as the whistle blew.

As the second half started the Winged M five garnered a couple of quick tricks to narrow the Willamette lead to one point. For over five minutes the score remained at 22-23 as both teams fought furiously for an advantage. Frantz, taking the ball down fast, sank two for the Bearcats and then Davies, long-legged Multnomah center, banged in a field goal for the lead.

Don Brandon, who was easily Willamette's outstanding man, then scored twice in a row to give the Bearcats an advantage, but Rotenberg's nonchalant long-distance sharp-shooter, let fly back of the foul line for two points and Davies dropped in a gift shot to put the Winged M's ahead again by a one point margin. Bill Lemmon sank a gift shot to tie the score a minute before the game ended.

Rotenberg started the overtime scoring with a long shot to be followed by a gift shot by Leech. Brandon dropped in a field goal for Willamette but Gette shoved Multnomah ahead with another. Lemmon pivoted to sink one after several disheartening tries and the Bearcats fought strongly to gain the needed basket to lead. Leech, substitute forward, scored his first field goal of the game to give Multnomah a three point advantage and the Bearcats were unable to score again.

Barney Ross's Nemesis

By BURNLEY

OF HERKIMER, N.Y.—UNCROWNED LIGHTWEIGHT KING—

OUT of a little town in upper New York State has come the classic young lightweight these jaded eyes have seen in many a year, and his name is Lou Ambers, christened Louis d'Ambrosio.

Ambers has skyrocketed into the fame spotlight with startling suddenness. Six months ago he was merely a preliminary performer in eastern rings and had never fought a main event at Madison Sq. Garden.

Smart ring observers had even then tabbed him as the best of the current lightweight crop, but the "name" performers of the 135-pound brigade avoided him like the smallpox, so he remained comparatively unknown to fight fans in other parts of the country.

Then Ambers got his break. Barney Ross having failed to defend his lightweight diadem for more than a year, the N. Y. Boxing Commission decided to hold an elimination tourney to determine the outstanding contender.

Ambers was first to file a challenge, accompanied by the required certified check for $2,500, so the solons recognized him as one of the contenders, along with Canzoneri, Fuller and Klick. However, none of the last trio would agree to fight the youngster, so by this bloodless process of elimination Lou Ambers became the No. 1 challenger for the lightweight title.

As soon as he had been designated as the man Ross must meet, he was handicapped by a series of various pretexts to avoid fighting Ambers; as a result, he was suspended by the N. Y. Commission.

Meanwhile, the Herkimer Hurricane, as Ambers is called, was let loose against Harry Dubinsky, a rangy welterweight, with a seven-round pull in the weights over little Lou. Ambers proceeded to hand Dubinsky a terrific pasting and won a one-sided victory over the man who had trounced Canzoneri and Ross.

Ambers can box and he can fight. He is the trickiest defensive boxer to come up in many months, and has a style reminiscent of Memphis Pal Moore. Bushy Graham and Jimmy Slattery, holding his hands low and slipping punches by moving his head to either side.

He is a pretty good puncher, but is handicapped by brittle hands. Mark my words—Ross will never fight Ambers unless absolutely forced to do so.

Madras topples Bend, adding to list of strong quintets "B" schools may furnish for state tournament.

Caustic Carries on

By CAUSTIC
The tale of Oakridge and how it came out of the McKenzie river hills with five razzle-dazzle basketball players to beat the biggest and best Linn, Lane and Benton colleges had to offer has off been told in this column. It was Oakridge that changed our opinion of the value of the four "B" teams that will come to the state basketball tournament March 20, 21, 22 and 23. Early in the season we also advised the prognosticators to mark down Madras as a comer among the little schools.

Now we are justified. Monday Madras went to town against Bend, the team that has beaten the Klamath Falls, last year's runner-up, Hood River and The Dalles. With a combination that found buckets in every shot it became the Bend Lava Bears 47 to 33. Two forwards, Gedney and McLean, scored respectively 15 and 12 points. The rest of the quint, with no substitutions, scored the other 19 points.

Taking Oakridge and Madras as samples of what the "B" teams that come to the big state play-off will be, the possibility looms that the state championship might possibly go to a "B" school this year. Among the strongest bidders for the crown are Klamath Falls, Bend, Hood River and Corvallis. None figure but on paper any stronger than these two "B" teams. If the other two, taking it as certain that Madras and Oakridge will be half of the "B" representation, are as strong, pooh-poohs can go to those who decry the Salstrom, Salem forward, led all scorers with 11 points; Silver, tall gangling frosh center dropped in five for 10 points.

With five minutes to go the Salem boys led by Quesseth and Skopel both feeding the ball to Salstrom who sank three in a row and managed to decrease the lead. But with two minutes left in the game the Frosh stepped out and dropped in pot shots to give them a 9 point margin of victory.

BEAVERS TAKE GREATER LEAD

Hibbard With 11 Points is Head Man in Attack on Vandals of Idaho

CORVALLIS, Ore., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Captain George Hibbard, only veteran of Oregon State college's 1933 Coast championship basketball team, led the league leading Beavers in a crushing 34 to 18 win over University of Idaho here tonight.

Carrying down the stretch toward the northern division championship, the Beavers increased their lead to two full games tonight with but five contests left to play.

Hibbard, smooth Beaver forward who was high scorer with 11 points, staked his team to a three point lead, but Idaho zoomed ahead with a free throw by Geraghty and close-in baskets by Larson, Warner and Klumb in rapid succession.

The Beavers called time out to organize their defense which from then on was near perfect. Conkling, Palmberg, Hibbard and Lyman all connected soon to give the Beavers a 14 to 7 lead. From then on the Vandals never got closer than within six points of the winners.

With the Vandals behind 18 to 10, Geraghty scored a field goal as the second half started. But the Beavers began another scoring drive which put them ahead 29 to 13.

Coach "Slim" Gill started, giving his substitutes opportunity to play and soon Coach Rich Fox of Idaho followed suit. A lively scramble followed as the over-anxious substitutes battled frantically.

Most of the Oregon State scores were from fairly close-in shots which followed deft, speedy maneuvering to put men in the open. Except for the start, Idaho had trouble penetrating the Beaver defense and resorted to long shots. As a result the scores were wide, but Warner wished in a clean one late in the game.
