Caustic Carries on

4 Bearcats who helped slay Missionaries 75-0 on grid to try it today, diamond; Alcos boast two coaches.

By CAUSTIC

With baseball bats instead of bibles the Whitman Missionaries are aching to give the heated Willamette Bearcats a good lesson in how to be good Christians, not forgetting for a minute that 75 to 0 defeat on the hard November terra firma here Thanksgiving day. High Missionary hopes of revenge faltered a little, though, when Willamette handily took C. P. S. The same Loggers rode away from Walla Walla leaving the Whaled Whitmanites losers three out of four. Not a bit wailing to the ease of mind of Walla Walla prognosticators (guessers, in our language) is that Mills, Oravec, Weisgerber and Erickson of the Willamette nine were members of the Willamette eleven (this is positive, by no means racket) which rough-shodded Whitman six-tits to zero.

Whitman has a club as good as any man's ball team this year and the championship series in the wheat and Indian country is going to be a wow. The Missionaries after breaking even with the University of Washington made it a habit to drop the College of Idaho Coyotes every year, in their prolonged series. They beat Eastern Oregon

Normal three out of four and took games from University of Idaho and Washington state.

That sly old fox, Vincent Borske, has five good pitchers. Two of them are veterans, three freshmen. Either Boody Irving or Larry Lemmel, the two upperclassmen, will pitch against the Bearcats today. The three frosh, Pete Jonas, Maurice Webb and Clint Rhein, have all built up good hurling averages and will have to be reckoned with. The hitting and fielding departments of the Walla Walla Coyote-skinners have not been slouching either. Although they went into a simultaneous slump against the Loggers, errors have been few and plentiful against other opponents.

Too many cooks spoil the hash but too many coaches haven't cooked the goose of the Albany Alcos yet. The Alcos, who are in a three-way tie for leadership of the state league, list besides Manager "Chinkie" Coover two coaches and a referee. Coach Joey Mack of Albany college plays second base, Coach Carl Ellingsen of Albany high school roams around in the outfield where Dave Stritmatter, well known sports official, is also pastured. The coach-ridden Alcos play the Senators here Sunday.

H.S. TRACKMEN VIE SATURDAY

Salem High Hopeful it May Repeat Victory Over Corvallis Squad

Salem high school's track team will meet Corvallis on Sweetland field Saturday afternoon in the last meet of the season. Although the locals hold a victory over the Spartans competition is expected to be close throughout.

Coach Ed Adams has several promising men on his Corvallis squad including Bill Blackledge, hefty shotputter, who tosses the iron ball around 45 feet, and Dave Latorf, sprinter.

The meet will be the final event in interscholastic competition for several Red and Black runners. These are Clyde Randall, Bob Brown, Harold Forrest, Jim Fowler, Bill White, Charles Coleman and Harvey Quistad.

The senior class softball team at Salem high defeated the sophomores 13 to 0 Wednesday night at Sweetland field. The winners play the juniors for the school championship tonight.

Seniors 13 9 1
Sophomores 0 5 2

Keuscher and Comstock; Litt-willer, Hoffert and Mason.

Reinforced Senators to Play Alcos

"Frisco" Edwards' Senators will make a strong bid to regain the ascendancy in the state baseball league here Sunday when they take the field, revamped by the addition of Willamette players, against Albany.

Edwards expects to have nearly the entire Bearcat baseball team on the Senator roster Sunday. The Willamette team will return from Walla Walla late Saturday night and the players will be ready to don Salem uniforms Sunday afternoon.

Albany is at present tied with Toledo and Bend for first place in the league while Salem is holding the cellar territory with the Hop Goids. "Chinkie" Coover, Albany manager, has gathered together one of the strongest Alcos teams in several years. The Alcos are especially strong in hurling with Jim Ault and Wiltshire both in the lineups.
