Kerr's Election Held Stupendous Blunder"

In its extended report the committee expressed the view that the central and outstanding fact of the controversy was that "the election of Dr. Kerr as chancellor was a stupendous blunder."

"Even if there were no taint whatever attaching to the means whereby his election had been maneuvered; even if there had been no suspicion of a breach of good faith in making him chancellor after an understanding had been reached that neither Dr. Hall nor President Kerr should be chosen, it could not have been expected that the Eugene faculty would view with anything but alarm and foreboding the selection as chancellor of the man who had been for 25 years identified with a rival institution.

"The university needed educational leadership, such as under the circumstances could not have been expected from a man of Dr. Kerr's antecedents and former associations.'

tion was hopeless and impossible with the Eugene faculty "practically unanimously united in opposition to the chancellor" after the Nelson episode. Ringleaders' Dismissal
