To the far-reaching legions of the Unknown Soldier we offer humble praise and reverential gratitude on this, Decoration Day

Yet another tribute for supreme courage and eternal faith is due one -- not unknown -- who, eyes dimmed with the tears of sacrifice, and heart heavy with the burden of grief -- smiles the sweet smile of fortitude as her little tribute is laid at his resting place

She is the woman who loves the Unknown Soldier -- whether she is the mother who bore him, the wife who adored him, or the child grown old with a father's memory clear in her heart. She it is to whom Memorial Day is most symbolic. She it is before whom his shadow will always stand tall -- straight -- and brave: An Unknown Soldier -- but her own man.
