ALFALFA TOURS TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Two in Woodburn Vicinity Thursday, South of Salem Friday

To study the most successful methods of growing alfalfa and the soil types to which it is adapted, are the purposes of four field tours being arranged by H. L. Riches, county agent, to be held June 6 and 7. Proper methods of seed preparation, inoculation, value of lime, kind of seed to plant, time of planting, cultivation, and fertilization are some of the particular problems that will be studied.

So many farmers have expressed an interest in the growing of alfalfa this spring, that a tour to see first-hand the most successful methods used in the county seems desirable. County Agent Riches stated, a little time spent now in viewing fields will save seed, time, and money in the future.

The first of the four tours will start on Thursday, June 6, from the Echo Ridge farm, four miles west of West Woodburn on the Champeo highway, promptly at 9 a. m. The second tour in the southwest district will start from the Ezra Rhoten farm at 10 a. m. and the tour east of Salem will start from the Jim Nichols farm on the penitentiary road east of Salem at 1:30 p. m.

On Friday, June 7, similar tours will be conducted in the vicinity southwest of Salem and also east of Salem. The tour in the southwest district will start from the Ezra Rhoten farm at 10 a. m. and the tour east of Salem will start from the Jim Nichols farm on the penitentiary road east of Salem at 1:30 p. m.

Soil surveys show that no other western Oregon county has as large an area of soil adapted to growing of alfalfa as does Marion county, Riches indicated. There are more than 100,000 acres of the Chehalis, Newberg, and Willamette soil areas in the county all of which, if properly handled, will grow alfalfa successfully. In 1929 there were 1,061 acres of alfalfa in the county, according to census. While there are no accurate figures on present acreage, it is thought to be between 2,000 and 3,000 acres. This acreage could be profitably increased by two or three times, resulting in better hay at lower cost and more fertile soil when the alfalfa is plowed down, Riches believes.

All interested farmers are invited to participate in the tours. Possible rural electrification projects well above the minimum requirements under the president's new reemployment program are being found in Marion county, D. Arthur Lowe, district SERRA engineer, declared yesterday. Three men are still in the field conducting surveys to ascertain where power line extensions would be feasible. Lowe said they had covered about 60 per cent of the developed area of the county and should complete the survey within a month.

The minimum requirement for extensions will be four or five new consumers to the mile. The survey crew, Lowe said, has found numerous routes on which nine to ten farmers per mile stand ready to use electric power if it is made available. Funds coming into the county under the electrification program will be in addition to those allocated for relief purposes, Lowe stated.

News changes, but principles do not, he said. People are not not by thought, but by feeling and emotions, he said. In fact, people think scarcely at all, although they think they think, he charged. Cartoonists try to take the news and evaluate it, and it is this thought process that is the work of cartooning, he said. The actual drawing is comparatively quick and easy. Principles do not change through the news does.

The cartoonist does not try deliberately to make all his work funny. Nor does he try to take the world too seriously, Scott said. There is nothing more pathetic than the group of individuals that takes himself too seriously, Scott avowed, adding that he who attempts to be funny all the time is a fool and that he who tries to be serious all the time is a greater fool.

SALEM STUDENTS AT OSC ORGANIZE

A new club has recently been organized at Oregon State college by students from Salem. The local name is Salem Oregon State college club. Phil Brownell was elected president at the first meeting; Marcel Reardon, vice-president; Mary Lois Driggs, secretary. The purpose of the club is to interest high school graduates of Salem in entering Oregon State.

RURAL ELECTRICAL PROJECTS LISTED

Possible rural electrification projects well above the minimum requirements under the president's new reemployment program are being found in Marion county, D. Arthur Lowe, district SERRA engineer, declared yesterday.

Three men are still in the field conducting surveys to ascertain where power line extensions would be feasible. Lowe said they had covered about 60 per cent of the developed area of the county and should complete the survey within a month. EXHIBIT OF WOODS IS IN HOTEL LOBBY

An exhibit of northwest woods as they may be used for home building is to be displayed today and tomorrow in the lobby of the Salem hotel, South High street here. The West Coast Lumbermen's association is sponsoring the exhibit in cooperation with the J. W. Copeland yards here. Included in the exhibit are eight room-height sample sections of wall paneling, 16 designs for wood homes, seven models of homes and also a complete set of farm buildings," said R. A. Meyer, Copeland manager here, in describing the exhibit yesterday. "Fifteen architects have cooperated in developing the exhibit. One of the features will be a model barn constructed by 4-H club boys from the Hayesville district."

The exhibits bring out the beautiful effects obtainable with the principal west coast woods—fir, hemlock, red cedar and spruce. Specifications for the finishes used on the wall paneling will be supplied by the association to any interested persons.

LAND BOARD HEARS SAND ISLAND CASE

Seiners and Gillnetters of Astoria Region Battle Along New Lines

The state land board for two hours yesterday considered a peculiar question in Oregon's political affairs—the ownership of Sand Island. Peacock spit and certain additions to these sands—controversies which heretofore have been heard at length in each legislative session. Officials of the Columbia River Packers' association and Jay Bowerman, their attorney, defended their application to the land board to advertise the Oregon sands for fishing leases. Records show that the land board leased these fishing grounds in 1928 but the lease later was cancelled when the ownership of the island was thrown into the federal court.

The fishermen's union at Astoria and the independent packers opposed the granting of leases to the seine fishing interests. They were represented by William P. Lord, Portland; F. M. Francisovich and Walter Norblad, both of Astoria. Bowerman said Sand Island was given to the federal government by Oregon during the civil war as a military island, and that the government collected $200,000 in leases for fishing purposes during the past 20 years. Peacock spit is owned by the state of Washington, he declared. Applicants for the lease argued that the state of Oregon should claim that part of the sands adjacent to Sand Island by nature and lease it to some responsible individual or group. They said such a course would establish ownership. Opponents alleged that the Oregon legislature would interfere with the gillnetters. The argument also was advanced that the fish belonged to all the people and not to any monopoly.

Francisovich charged that the applicants sought through leases because the state of Washington, at its recent legislative session, had prohibited seine fishing on the Washington side of the Columbia river. He also said the packers previously had operated through leases obtained from the federal government and the state of Washington. E. D. Hicks contended that ownership of the sands was in the federal government but eventually would be determined in the courts. Hicks represented the government at the hearing.

EMPLOYABLE MEN REGISTERING NOW

A decree by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, that all employable persons receiving public relief funds must register at their nearest United States employment service office has deluged the national reemployment agency here with work. Manager D. D. Dotson commented yesterday, as he looked at a crowd of men that filled the lobby in front of his office. He was kept rushing all day yesterday taking job applications from men on relief. Hopkins ordered that these workers should be "classified as to occupation and fitness for work... and be available to public and private employment."

There are approximately 2000 men in Marion county to whom the order applies, Dotson said.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILLO, ON MAY 30, won the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.240 miles per hour.

This record is an outstanding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23 1/2 hours. This was an average speed of 127 1/2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

- 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
- 2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"
- 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.
ANSWER No. 2—Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.
ANSWER No. 3—Thousands of car owners report unequalled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.
