RECREATION NEED BY ADULTS CITED

Community Program Upheld by Major Braden; Value of Drama Guild Noted

The need of recreational instruction for adults so increasing leisure time can be satisfactorily employed, was emphasized yesterday noon at a luncheon held here for Major George Braden of Pasadena, Calif. He represents the National Recreational association on the coast. Dr. B. F. Pound presided at the meeting at which a number of prominent school executives in the city were present. Major Braden stressed the development of the handicraft arts as a phase of a community recreation program. He spoke of the development of music, of the drama, of various forms of handicraft, of the use of languages and of gardening and landscaping as fields into which adult recreational programs were going.

Sports Change Foreseen
"In sports the program of the future will include sports which can be carried over into mature life; not sports confined alone to collegiate and high school participants," Major Braden observed. He said the recreational program had advanced in outstanding manner the last two years due to the funds made available through the government's relief program.

"Community leaders who do not see the opportunity for recreational work and who do not push such a program are flat-footed and flat-headed," the speaker averred. "Recreation from a business standpoint is the fourth largest industry of California, calling for an expenditure of $140,000,000 annually."

Major Braden spoke briefly of the development of the Little Theatre in Pasadena. In recent years this has "gone Hollywood," he said, with the result that drama guild has been formed to take over the work for amateurs which the Little Theatre used to accomplish. Nine different branches have developed under the Drama Guild including studies in dramatic criticism, in the writing and production of plays.

W. U. ENROLLMENT MAY TOP 700 MARK

No Limit, Other Than Moral, Scholastic Standards, Erickson States

Willamette university's enrollment for 1935-1936 may readily exceed 700, in the opinion of Dean Frank M. Erickson, who is already receiving applications for admission to the class of '39. "Our total enrollment for the past year was 609," the dean reported this week. "Of this total, 570 of the students were in the college of liberal arts. Thus far our applications for entrance have not exceeded those of a year ago but I anticipate the extensive speaking work done for the school by Dr. Baxter and the general improvement in economic conditions will add to our totals next year."

Scholarships Boost Totals
Dean Erickson pointed out that the awarding of 25 scholarships to high school seniors of the class of '35 had been authorized by the trustees last February and that these awards should add to attendance totals.

Inquiries have recently been received at the university regarding the "limitations" on enrollment. Dean Erickson said that the university had a general policy of not accepting students who did not come up to required moral and scholastic standards but he averred there was no definite limit of students beyond which the school would not accept enrollment.

TOWNSEND MEET TO BRING 15,000, CLAIM

A gathering of all Townsend club members in Marion county which Dr. E. Davis, chairman, estimates will bring 15,000 persons to the meeting, was set yesterday for next Sunday, June 9, at the state fairgrounds.

The meeting, an all day affair, will start at 10 a. m. Addresses will be delivered by J. N. Barde, prominent Portland iron and steel dealer, who has espoused the plan; and by Dr. W. O. Livingstone of Silverton. Following the speeches a basket lunch will be held with each group providing its own food. The meeting will be held in the park site between the Southern Pacific railroad tracks and the west entrance to the grounds. Dr. Davis said yesterday that he expected many Townsend club members from Polk, Yamhill and Linn counties to attend as well as some members from Portland. Dr. Davis claims that 85,000 persons in Marion county are behind the Townsend plan since that number signed petitions to congress urging that body to pass the Townsend act.
