sisted on a list of the notes, with their numbers, it was found that none of the 10 bore numbers on the department of justice list. They all came within the "maximum and minimum" numbers list supplied by the department of justice, but no number corresponded exactly.

The sheriff at Grandville, who notified other officers in the region, said White insisted to him that he had received ransom notes from one of the three men seen to leave the ancient mining center shortly after noon today in a "mouse-colored sedan." The sheriff was advised the numbers had been verified. A posse immediately was sent out.

BANK LIQUIDATION AIDED BY ORDERS

A series of orders, issued on Thursday in circuit court, permit sales of assets of the Bank of Stayton and compromises with creditors, facilitating the liquidation of that institution which went into the hands of the state banking department in May, 1932.

The court authorized the liquidators to take title to real estate in Cottage Grove which the bank is holding as collateral to a note of Hattie May Bond for $1106.

The court authorized the sale of a 1927 Reo truck for $100. The truck has been under a chattel mortgage to secure a note for $524.

Andrew Fieber was allowed to settle in full for $20 for an $18 note on which interest was delinquent from 1932.

The bank is to take title to 63 sheep and 35 lambs owned by E. M. Rieger in settlement of the balance of $412 owed on a note.

In settling affairs of the Bank of Hubbard, also in liquidation, the court allowed the sale of property owned by Cora and J. E. Pangborn for $1400 to T. B. Morgan. The bank is to pay back taxes of $55 and allow a real estate commission of $70.

In settling the affairs of the Bank of Woodburn, the court accepted $712 in cash and a $600 bond of the Kentucky Utilities company as full payment of a note for $2000 owed by J. J. Herzhberger.

Sale of property in Multnomah county for $300 to L. Clough was approved by the court. The property was held as security for an obligation owed by E. B. Day.

Normandie Crowned Queen of Atlantic

Proudly nosing her way up the North River to her newly built 1100 foot berth, the Normandie is greeted by whistles of hundreds of river craft, after cutting trans-Atlantic record by ten hours for world's record. Buildings in background were jammed with thousands of spectators.

JURY SAYS COUNTY SHOULD OWN CARS

costs totalling $6140. Taking 1933 as a typical year, the jury reports that $2719 was expended in that year for 35,597 miles traveled by the sheriff and his deputies. Had the county owned and operated its own cars for that period, the jury believes a saving of $1652 could have been effected in the 12 months. Three cents a mile is enough to operate a light car and to pay all gasoline, oil, upkeep and depreciation charges, according to the report.

In computing the outlay for mileage, the auditor used the figure of ten cents a mile allowed by state law for civil cases and the figure of six cents a mile allowed by the county court for criminal cases. The court reduced its mileage figure to six cents during the depression. Before that time the court allowed ten cents a mile to all its officials; its present rate of six cents is drawn by all county officers who use their own autos on county business.

The jurors' report goes into several cases where extended trips were made throughout the state, and compares the costs by auto with the costs by train. The jury recommends that hereafter the sheriff's office ascertain whether the train charges are cheaper and if so, to utilize the railroads rather than the highways.

Criticisms of vouchers presented in the case of Pavlock against Klamath Falls are made by the jury which says it is unable to find that such a case was in court here. Another mileage item criticized is one made for "patrolling a closed game area in the territory east of Salem; the jury holds that the voucher does not set forth in sufficient detail what patrolling was done and what specific territory was covered.

The sheriff's office yesterday withheld comment on the report other than to point out that the mileage rate on civil and criminal cases was set by law and by the county court, respectively, and that the sheriff made only the customary charges.

Green Appeals For Support of Labor NRA Bill

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, appealed to the nation tonight to back the federation's new NRA bill.

Employers' promises to keep their code wages and hours, he said in a radio speech, would have to be broken eventually because of keen sales competition by "chiselers."

campus to a new site in order to provide more space for the new capitol will be considered at the meeting, it was learned yesterday. Certain members of the university alumni have proposed that the university sell its campus to the state for a sum sufficient to provide a new campus and buildings for the university with the cooperation of citizens of Salem.

Tonight the annual alumni association banquet will be held at the university gymnasium followed by the annual meeting of the organization. Bishop Titus Lowe will deliver the baccalaureate address Sunday morning at the First Methodist church here. Monday morning formal commencement exercises scheduled for the Elstner theatre will be coupled with the inauguration of Dr. Baxter as president of the university.

MIDGET NRA BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—The house today gave the revised and reduced NRA overwhelming sanction, specifically refusing at the same time to remove the president's powers to suspend the anti-trust laws in connection with voluntary codes.

The action, ordered by a vote of 264 to 121, came a few hours after Mr. Roosevelt had asserted that the anti-trust laws would be fully enforced and that all such voluntary business agreements must be in conformity with them.

The resulting situation precipitated some confusion and had the capital guessing. The full text of the house resolution follows:

"To extend until April 1, 1936, certain provisions of title I of the national industrial recovery act, and for other purposes.

"Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that section 2 (c) of title I of the national industrial recovery act is amended by striking out 'at the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act' and inserting in lieu thereof 'on April 1, 1936.'"

Immediately after the vote of confidence the government's decreed powers bill was sent to the chamber finance committee for quick consideration. Prevention of devaluation was given as the sole object in the law, under which parliament would authorize Laval's ministry to take "any measures" up to October 31 "to fight against speculation and defend the franc."

In the south, Georgia Tech reported more calls for graduates than for the last two years. Nearly all of the University of Georgia's 425 seniors were assured of places.

An increase of 15 per cent over 1934's placements was reported at Stanford university, California.

University of California officials said job prospects definitely were better than in any other year since 1929.

Of the 350 University of Southern California graduates, out of a class of 1500, about 30 per cent have been placed, or 59 per cent more than were placed in 1929.

All of the University of Washington's forestry graduates have found jobs, and more engineering, business administration and teaching students than usual are finding places.

Today's matinee will consist of choosing the three best talented members. The semi-finals of this contest has run for a period of four weeks with over 100 boys and girls under the age of sixteen presented. Each week the three best were chosen and given prizes. The twelve entertainers chosen will participate this afternoon, and the awarding of the winners will be entirely by the amount of applause they receive from the audience. Curt Williams and Marie Stutesman have been the judges for the semi-finals.

OVER 200 SCOUTS WILL PARTICIPATE

Members of 12 Troops to Figure in Rally and Field Day Events

Over 200 boy scouts, members of 12 or more troops, will take part in the annual rally and field day of the Cascade area council which opens on Sweetland field at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The afternoon program will commence with a mass mobilization of all troops participating, followed by an inspection. After the inspection, the officials, Eagle scouts from the university, will start running off the competitive events.

Events listed for the afternoon include an undressing relay, compass race, knot tying contest, first aid, scout's pace, O'Grady drill, tug o'war, tent pitching, string burning, chariot race, semaphore signalling, Morse signalling and bagging trout. A flapjack contest will also be staged during the afternoon. This is a new feature of the scout's annual big show and is expected to produce interesting and even edible results. The afternoon events will be concluded with a scout staff race at 5:30.

The night performance will be opened by a parade at 7:45 and will be followed by the more spectacular events of the competition. The Sweetland field lights will be on for the night events starting at 8 o'clock with a bicycle race. Other events include a wall scaling contest, bridge building, fire by friction and flint and steel, bugling and O'Grady drill.

The rally will close with the presentation of awards and taps are scheduled to be sounded at 9:30. M. Clifford Moynihan, general chairman for the event, will present the awards. Last year the rally was won by troop four of the First Christian church, of which E. W. Kennedy is scoutmaster. A troop must win the trophy three times in succession to gain permanent possession.

FUTURE OF OREGON BRIGHT SAYS RUDIN

Predicting future prominence for Oregon through a developed commerce and industry, John J. Rudin, graduate student at Willamette, yesterday told the Salem Credit association some of the facts about Oregon and her markets he has gleaned through a study of commercial club records over the state.

Oregon is fast becoming the center of the furniture and flour industries in this country because Oregon goods can be sent by boat cheaper to the south and east than inland factories can ship to those points by rail, Rudin pointed out.

Industrial expansion, he said, is bound to come because of logical trade with the Oriental countries, including Siberia which he predicts will some day be opened up and be one of the coast's big markets; likewise Manchuria. Portland's fresh water port has advantages over either Seattle or San Francisco for connections with the Orient, he holds.

Opening of the railroad from Eugene to Port Orford will tap great mineral resources. Potentialities of electrical and

Police Are Busy Checking Digits On Paper Money

That Salem residents are greatly interested in the manhunt for the kidnapers of George Weyerhaeuser has been evidenced by the number of phone calls received by Salem police to check on bills suspected of being ransom money.

Sergeant Asa Fisher estimated that about 300 calls have been received from people inquiring whether the serial numbers on bills they had received checked with the figures on the ransom money. Although many of the figures given came close to the numbers on the list of 20,000 federal reserve notes known to have been paid the kidnapers, none checked.

LAND BOARD WILL ENTER SAND CASE

The state land board will intervene in the three-way fight over the ownership of Oregon Sands at the mouth of the Columbia river, in the case brought by the United States against the Columbia River Packing company and the Barbery Packing company. It was decided Friday.

The sands, declared valuable seining grounds, are near Sand Island. The government claims the sands are a part of Sand Island and belong to the United States as a result of the gift of the island to the government by Oregon in 1864.

The state of Washington claims the new deposits are a part of Peacock spit, owned by the northern state.

The packing companies contend the new sands are separate and lie within the jurisdiction of the state of Oregon. A lease was sought from the land board last week.

RECOGNITION FOR RAILROADS URGED

A proclamation urging participation in Railroad week was issued Friday by Mayor V. E. Kuhn, as follows:

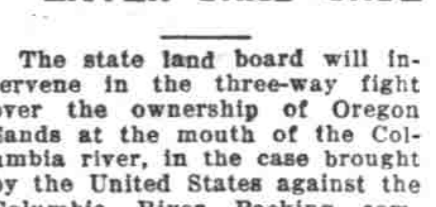

"The railroads of the west have contributed more toward the development of this great state of ours than any other element and should be given due consideration for their achievements.

"They have been the determining factor in the progress and improvement of many sections of this great west that would have otherwise been valueless lands. Their support to the state and cities through their large taxes and their employment of many people has been of very material value in making our great west what it is today.

"In consideration of these and many other reasons, I urge all the citizens to join in recognizing the week of June 10th to 15th as National Railroad week."
(Signed) V. E. Kuhn, mayor.
