

Hoffman and Baer Want Referee Brought From Honolulu

FINNISH ABOUT FIGHT ARBITER

Braddock Camp Insists on Man Who Can Count 10; Battlers Resting

By EDWARD J. NEIL
NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—The inevitable holler about referees broke out today to spice the preliminary maneuvering—and incidentally kept interested alive—the Max Baer's heavyweight title defense against Jimmy Braddock on Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island Thursday night.

An old situation in a new setting, Anell Hoffman, manager of the champion, tore into the New York state athletic commission today and demanded that one of his list of five eligibles be named.

With equal speed and no little uproar the commission promptly sat him down.

There was a very definite tongue-in-cheek aspect to Hoffman's nominees for his first choice was George Blake of Los Angeles, who happens to be several thousand miles away in Honolulu at the moment, considerable of a hurdle to overcome in 48 hours.

The second was Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, who has no referee's license.

Another was Lieutenant Jack Kennedy, another Pacific coast arbiter who is with the navy's Pacific battle fleet, and likewise might have trouble getting here.

The other pair were Ed Dickerson of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Lieutenant Commander Jess Kenworthy, naval officer stationed at Washington, D. C.

Will Be Gothamite
Sternly the commission told Hoffman that a New Yorker would referee, and that if he had any specific objections to any man, the complaints should be filed after the weighing in at the commission offices Thursday afternoon.

Hoffman is certain to bar Arthur Donovan, who refereed the night Baer won the title on an 11 round technical knockout of Primo Carnera a year ago.

While Hoffman has forgotten that Donovan twice stopped Baer from hitting Carnera while the Italian was down—thus keeping Max from losing automatically on a foul—the referee's score card had five rounds scored for each man at the end of the 10th. Hoffman insists Baer won every round.

"If Donovan is in the ring," Baer said as he rested at Ashbury Park, taking only the lightest exercises, "I'll walk right out of there. There will be no fight."

Hoffman, more composed, said he didn't know what he would do if Donovan was named.

Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, whose workout consisted only of a rubdown, said anybody who could count ten would suit him as referee.

Compromise Upon Tipoff Is Proposed
SEATTLE, June 11.—(AP)—Northern division coaches and graduate managers meeting here today preliminary to the Pacific coast conference session, voted to recommend a compromise change in the basketball rules to the southern division.

The annual two day meeting of the conference, which will be attended by faculty leaders, graduate managers and coaches, will open tomorrow.

The northern division officials voted to suggest putting the ball in play out-of-bounds after a converted free throw, but returning to center for the tipoff after a field goal.

Will British Tennis Bubble Burst?

By BURNLEY

IN English tennis circles they are beginning to worry a little over prospects of keeping the Davis Cup in the tight little isle for another year. With the cup defense looming nearer, the poor playing of Bunny Austin and the erratic work of the great Fred Perry are giving British net followers plenty to think about.

Perry, in particular, is somewhat on the spot at present. He is very much over-tennised during his tour of the United States and Australia, losing quite consistently to the Anzac netmen. He is unpopular with the British tennis public because of his rather blustering ways, which don't conform to the English ideal of sportsmanlike behavior. Then, too, Fred did quite a bit of flirting with professional offers last winter, and the constant rumors that he was about to turn pro couldn't have helped his popularity with his fellow-countrymen.

Reports that that good-looking Britisher had "gone Hollywood" during his stay in the film capital brought about a break between Fred and his fiancée, which resulted in more unfavorable publicity for the net king in England.

All these things cannot have helped Perry's state of mind, and it will be interesting to see how he performs at Wimbledon later this month.

If Perry and Austin go down to defeat in this historic tourney, British Davis Cup hopes will be dealt a stunning blow. On the other hand, if the reigning No. 1 man of the courts shows his former near-invincibility, at Wimbledon, it should prove a tonic to bolster up the rather shaky morale of the defenders of the Davis Cup.

Meanwhile reports persist that whether or not the British retain the trophy, Perry will turn professional next fall.

Woodburn's Junior Legion baseball team seems to be well on its way to another Marion county championship and possibly another chance at the national championship.

Woodburn and Mt. Angel are both undefeated yet, much to Salem's expense. After today there will be only one undefeated league team in the county for Woodburn and Mt. Angel meet at Mt. Angel today.

Helen Moody Less Serious About Tennis
LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—Helen Willis Moody hasn't dropped a match in her tennis comeback campaign yet but she's in imminent danger of losing her old nickname, "Poker Face."

In the course of a brilliant 6-3, 6-1 victory over Ermytrude Hilliday Harvey in the second round of the Kent championships today, the Californian smiled three times and once almost laughed aloud as a high wind played unexpected pranks with the ball.

Helen appears to be taking the game much less seriously than she used to. She thoroughly enjoys every point and grins appreciatively at the crowd's near-idolatorous applause.

Although known principally as a first-rate doubles player, Miss Harvey, a veteran of four British Wightman cup teams from 1925 to 1930, had been expected to give Mrs. Moody a much closer battle. The Englishwoman started well, but folded up when the former world's champion began hitting with greater severity.

Miss Harvey, who won the American doubles championship with Mrs. L. A. Godfree in 1927 and captured three of the four doubles matches she played in Wightman cup competition, never really had a chance.

Mat Antics Rougher, Crowd Likes It; Elliott Defeats Jackson at His Own Game

SALEM wrestling fans' appetite for action, evidenced by the capacity crowd after last week's thriller, was whetted last night in the wildest and wooliest mat exhibition staged here in years.

Harry Elliott's victory over Jackson last week, when the Grand avenue cave man was beaten to the canvas by a barrage of chairs hurled by irate fans, was demonstrated to be no fluke as the former University of Oregon grappling coach grabbed the deciding fall in last night's tussle. Jackson took the first fall with a choke hold which Referee Noel Franklin was unable to break before Elliott gave up. The second was over quickly however when Elliott won with a series of Sonnenbergs.

The former Oregon mat tutor grabbed the third toss when he employed Jackson's favorite hammerlock and stomped on the injured arm. Jackson conceded defeat.

The main go, regardless of its wildness, was forced to take second honors for action by the semi-windup between Dish Face Powers and Dorrie Detton. The actions of Powers in the battle, won him the right to compete with Jackson in the main event.

The former Powers came here highly touted as a bad man and has some far to prove his contention that he can grab the meanest championship from Jackson, who has been hailed as the grandpappy of all the ruffians.

Detton won the semi-final go by outsmarting the rough boy from Vancouver. E. C. Powers won the first fall in 8 minutes but Detton took the second with a Boston crab in 25 seconds and followed to take the decision in the final toss.

The opening battle between Earl Lambert and Larry Tillman was a good curtain raiser for a card of action. Lambert took the second fall after Tillman had taken the opener. Tillman was awarded the decision by the referee's warning against foul tactics.

REINHART PICKS 7 OF HIS OWN BOYS
EUGENE, Ore., June 11.—(AP)—Coach Bill Reinhart toyed unblushingly revealed why his University of Oregon baseball team won the northern division Coast conference championship.

He named seven of his players to an all-star conference crew of 12 which he announced today.

Harry McCall, first base; Ray Koch, second; Joe Gordon, short; John Lewis, third, but named utility infielder; Ralph Amato and Maury Van Vleet, outfielders, and Don McPadden, pitcher, were the selections. Reinhart made before he tore his feasting eyes from his championship lineup.

Then he looked afield and found Jack Daly, University of Washington southpaw pitcher; Ed Lovrich, University of Washington, utility outfielder; Bill Katsilometes, University of Idaho, right field; Bob Bergstrom, Oregon State college, third sacker, and Ed Godard, Washington State, catcher.

BEAVERS LOSE MOUND BATTLE

Wade and Garland Stingy; Douglas of Oakland Wins Own Game

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—Los Angeles defeated Portland 3 to 1 in the opening game of their series here tonight.

It was chiefly a pitching battle between Lou Garland, who allowed six hits, and Jake Wade, who granted seven to the Angels. Los Angeles opened with a pair of runs in the first inning. Stutz walked. Gndat was safe when Wade muffed his slow roller. Lillard sacrificed and then Oglesby singled to score Stutz and Gndat.

The Beavers got their run in the sixth when Cissell walked and English doubled. The Angels also scored in that inning. Lillard slapped out a two bager and was brought home by Oglesby's single.

Jesse Owens Is Hot After Dash Record
LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, who has shattered almost every other world's mark within reach of his sturdy legs, arrived in Southern California today with the admission on his lips that he will try to break the 100-yard dash record of 9.4 seconds held by one of the local native sons—Frank Wykoff.

The Ohio State sophomore who cracked the furlong, low hurdles, and broad jump marks wide open in one large afternoon several weeks ago is here with a dozen Buckeye teammates to meet the University of Southern California in a dual meet on the last Olympic games course at Memorial Coliseum Saturday.

"I'll try to break Wykoff's record," said Owens, as he mapped a campaign which will take him to the national collegiate championships at Berkeley a week from Saturday and probably the Southern Pacific A. A. U. meet at San Diego before his return to the midwest.

"Of course," continued Owens, "my competition may have something to do with that. I believe in running against an opponent, not the watch. But if you do that, the records usually take care of themselves.

Incidentally, Owens does not believe a second flat hundred yard dash mark is possible at the present time.

"Some fellow might come along and do it," he admitted, "but I think he'll have to be a combination of the greatest sprinters of all-time."
