Following a bounteous no-host dinner served at long tables under the lovely maple trees, the family assembled in the house for a short program: Piano numbers, Kenneth Wait of Salem; recitation, Mariene Axley of Portland; reading, Shelburna Bowen, Sherwood; song of the pioneers, written by Mrs. William H. John, father of the seven children who came to Oregon as orphans, was born in Kentucky November 8, 1809, and moved to Monitor county, Missouri, where he married Rhoda McPherson in 1833. She was of colonial stock of South Carolina. To them were born Joshua, Silverton, who married Louisa Cox; Rebecca, married George Wait and lived at Zena; Peter, married Permillia Cox, Silverton; Polly, married Andrew Siefarth, they first lived at Spring Valley and then at Dallas; William, married Alice Pooler of Waldo Hills; Caroline, married Frank Egan, Waldo Hills; James, married Cincinnati Laury, Silverton.
