PORTLAND, June 21.-(AP)-Extreme duliness was generally suggested in the market for live chickens with some recent price | Salem ; shading reported. There was a real shortage of small broilers and for that reason most operators were willing to drag more or less although no further price changes were suggested for the day. Demand for turkeys was rather slow with suggestion of poor quality as a rule. While there were no further price changes for the day in the butter market, easiness was suggested in the price structure as a result of the late decline and increasing supply. Egg market suggested a merely steady tone locally and practically without price changes for present days. Pullet laying was suggested as the chief reason for recent increase in supply. General steadiness with strength in spots is suggested in the market for country killed meats. Lambs, veal and hogs were moving out well and up to quotations. Beef alone appeared a trifle uneasy.

End of the season of strawberry production in volume was indicated. Prices were higher. Fancy peas were reported in from Rainier. Pea prices were firmer to higher generally. Raspberries were in larger supply and a trifle lower. Loganberries were in like posi-Old potatoes were slow but at unchanged prices, new stock a trifle easier for locals.
