CITIZENS URGED TO PRESERVE LIBERTY

Would-be Destroyers of U.S. Constitution Greatest Enemies, Says Jurist

Justice John L. Rand of the state supreme court gave a patriotic address in honor of July Fourth at the Rotary club Wednesday. He extolled the American system of government as embodied in the constitution and urged vigilance on the part of all citizens to preserve the popular liberties it guarantees. "There must be an earnest, insistent, militant desire to maintain those principles, and personal effort of the people is required," said the jurist. The speaker denounced those who would destroy the constitution, saying that no man who entertains such views is a greater enemy to the country than those who take rifles and shoot at the flag. "There would be no liberty, no united government without it," he said. "We would have despotism. And there are few countries which operate now save under dictators."

Few Laws Invalidated—He pointed out that the constitution acts as a restraint on the power of the government, because the founders realized that those to whom power is given are apt to abuse it. He referred to the division of powers as a means to insure liberties of the people. Under this division courts have the authority to pass judgment on the laws enacted, he said, but cited the fact that the supreme court has held unconstitutional only sixty out of more than 24,000 laws passed by congress and that the court does not invalidate laws except for serious cause. Walter T. Molloy, retiring president, was presented with a diamond-studded Rotary pin by the club, Past President W. I. Staley making the presentation.

Six Improvement Bond Issues Yet to be Refunded

Six more issues of Bancroft bonds, issued to pay for street improvements in Salem, remain to be refunded at prevailing low interest rates, City Treasurer Rice announced yesterday. The outstanding issues total $301,000 and stand interest at 6 per cent annually.

Three issues totaling $181,000 are due in August and these will be called for payment. Two issues totaling $79,000 are due the following month while a $31,000 issue becomes due in November. The council is determined to reduce the street bond interests to almost one-half in its bond refunding program.

The treasurer's office paid $133,000 July 1 on a Bancroft issue then maturing and will take up the remainder of the issue as fast as the bonds were turned in. The city has issued $173,000 in refunding bonds to take up the issue. The majority of the issue retired was held by the state treasury and by local banks.
