letter as to its value, $1,000,000. Kowitz, Winslow, Ross and Shields officially represented the city with Mayor V. E. Kuhn and Alderman Fulcher present as spectators.

City Will Collect Back Water Rates

The stipulation which ended the suit, in addition to setting the plant's value and the manner of transfer, provided that the city shall collect back water rents due the company and that arbitration shall be resorted to if the city and company fail to agree on the value of supplies used and improvements made since last September 27, when the arbitration of the plant's value began.

They also contained provisions barring suits by the Portland General Electric company and Oregon Pulp and Paper company, over their interests in the millstream, from which electric power is generated for the water pumping plant, and by the Minto interests from whom the present intake site on Minto's farm was secured.

Yesterday's judgment cannot be appealed, Kowitz said.

Preparing for the delivery of the $1,100,000 worth of Salem water bonds to the buyers, City Recorder A. Warren Jones yesterday took bond number one to Portland for scrutiny by bond attorneys. As soon as a legal opinion on the bonds is obtained and the city seal affixed to them, they will be delivered, probably next week.

(By the Associated Press)

Eastern states and Pacific coast states felt the brunt of hot weather Friday as the midwest was given respite from 100-degree temperatures to the accompaniment of flood and tornado.

Nine persons were drowned at Grand, Colo., when cloudbursts changed streams into raging torrents.

A tornado struck Montgomery City, Mo., but no one was injured. Property damage was slight. High winds elsewhere disrupted communications.

Heat deaths mounted in the country as the mercury soared in the east but dropped in the middle-west. The unofficial toll was 60 with at least 17 drowned. A New York suicide was attributed to heat.

Experiencing its second day of suffocating heat, the east reported nine deaths and two drownings. Temperatures climbed to highest peaks of the year in New York.

Shoved from the north by a high pressure area, breezes hit the sizzling midwest plains yesterday. Scattered showers accompanied the cool winds, but there was no general rain.

LUTHERAN MEN OF NORTHWEST MEET

lus Sture, Gresham; Peter Hemmingson, Astoria; C. E. Jorgensen, Silverton.

For the afternoon session opening at 1 o'clock, Rev. N. J. Hadland, Canby, will conduct the devotions, and reports of Lutheran activities in the northwest will be presented by: Rev. A. M. Knudson, Longview, Wash., for the U. L. C.; Rev. R. Bogstad, Eugene, for the L. C. A.; Rev. Amos E. M. M. M., Salem, for the A. L. C.; Rev. Ernest Larson, Silverton, for the L. F. C.; Rev. J. A. Martin, Astoria, for the A. S. Following discussion of the activities compendium, an open forum will be conducted on "Things that can and should be done to make our church more effective in propagating and maintaining the Christian philosophy of life."

Resolutions Will Hit At Athletic Teaching

Resolutions dealing with teaching of atheism in public schools and a proposition to utilize the facilities of the movie industry on Sunday night for presentation of bible facts and inspirations will be offered by the committee of which Max Gehlar, Salem, is chairman.

Mayor V. E. Kuhn will address the convention at 4:45 o'clock, and at 6 o'clock cars will be provided all visitors for a sight-seeing tour under the direction of W. G. Krueger.

Banquet Program Announced in Full

Youths of Salem and Silverton and others will join the Brotherhood at the banquet for which Dr. Arne S. Jensen of the Oregon Normal school, Monmouth, will be toastmaster. Devotions will be conducted by Rev. O. K. Davidson, Portland, and Rev. Knudsen will introduce the banquet theme, "Where Do We Go From Here in the Lutheran Church?" on which two-minute talks will be given by S. P. Ness, David Loffgren, S. Kolden, W. E. Salzman, Portland; John Goplerud, H. N. Klev, Silthrough which it is proposed to organize the county set-up.

Will Seek Survey

Steps will be taken immediately to make the necessary power survey in the county, for setting up the district. The plan is to include incorporated cities in the set-up, subject to approval of the cities.

Later, if conditions seem desirable, the county utility district may join with Polk and Clackamas counties in proposing the nine-county super district, according to plans last night.

A report on the similar work being done in Tillamook county was given by J. L. Steinbock, president, and Dr. Boszarth, secretary of that district.

Among those present at the meeting last night were Sam Brown of Gervais, S. B. Holt, state secretary of the Farmers' Union, of Salem; Rodney Alden, Woodburn; S. A. Hoefler, mayor of Woodburn; M. A. Pearson, Butteville; Martin Rostvold, Mt. Angel; A. M. Church, Salem; Frank Crawford, Zena; R. W. Hogg, president of the Polk county People's Utility; Chris Kowitz, Salem city attorney; S. B. Torvend, Silverton; Ed Ahrens, Turner.

controversies put over until next week.

The debate ended with one of the bitterest attacks yet made on the measure—a speech by Senator Metcalf (R-RI), in which he said the amendments "mark a new high in the surrender of our legislative powers."

One amendment would forbid the issuance of orders prohibiting, regulating or restricting advertising on commodities covered by the act. Another would prohibit taxes on the processing of any commodity into newspaper. Loneragan said both the department and Chairman Smith, of the agriculture committee, had agreed to the amendments.

Hops were eliminated from the bill by 48 to 34 on motion of Senator Duffy (D-WI), who contended inclusion of the commodity would penalize growers of the best grade of hops and brewers of beer. Senator McNary (R-OR), sought to keep hops in the bill, contending they were the most depressed of all agricultural commodities.

THE DALLEs, Ore., July 12.—(AP)—Cottonwood trees today treated this city to a July "snow storm" of fluffy white down as the mercury soared to 102 degrees.

An east wind brought the "snow" from the Walls Walla district, as no large cottonwood stands near here.

Wheat harvest, just getting under full swing here, was inconvenienced some by the heat.

MARTIN ASKS EARLY APPEAL ON CODE LAW

Immediate action toward appealing the recent decision of Circuit Judge Winters of Multnomah county, in which he held unconstitutional the state agricultural adjustment act, was urged by Governor Martin in a statement issued Friday.

"I regret that our law was so drafted that it was subject to constitutional objection which Judge Winters has evidently found to exist. I realize that it is necessary in view of Judge Winters' decision to have these constitutional questions determined by the supreme court of our state, so that we may know the length the legislature may go in enacting legislation upon this subject which will be constitutional."

See Need of Speed

"Realizing that the harvest season is approaching, and recognizing the necessity of those engaged in the agricultural industry of the state of having these legal questions determined, I asked the supreme court, through its chief justice, if the hearing of the appeal might not be expedited."

"The chief justice acceded to my request and has set the hearing on appeal for July 24."

"As distressing as the circumstances are, it is apparent to everyone that nothing can be done in the matter until the decision of our supreme court."

Governor Martin said 11 codes, now operating in Oregon, were affected by Judge Winters' decision.
