Car Found, Police Hopeful of Capturing Man Who Robs Orting Bank

short time after they had arrived, a car drove up the side road and when the driver spotted the officers, turned around and drove hurriedly towards Sumner.

The two Puyallup officers gave chase, overtaking the other machine which came to a sudden stop, brakes squealing. By the time the Puyallup officers stopped a short distance ahead, the driver of the other car was out of his machine and came towards the police car.

Officers Mined

By Man's Approach
Chief of Police Nelson of Sumner believed they had not stopped the right machine as Chadwick, according to reports, had just started to get out of the police car when the bandit walked up and started shooting. The first bullet hit Chadwick in the chest, killing him almost instantly, while the second shot hit Storem in the eye. He died a short time later. The bandit then jumped back into his car and speeded off towards Sumner.

Chief of Police Nelson of Sumner was only 100 yards away from the scene of the shooting when it took place, he reported. He had been following the Puyallup officers.

Story of Shooting Told by Chief

"The bandit, a big fellow about 5 feet tall, wearing a blue denim shirt and wearing what appeared to be a taxi driver's cap, got out of his machine and walked toward Storem and Chadwick. He opened fire before the two officers knew what had happened. He used an automatic pistol," Nelson said.

The shooting of the two policemen was witnessed by John Urden, an employee of the C. W. Orton ranch in front of which the fray took place, and Urden's wife who was looking out of the front window of her home at the time.

Urden's story substantiated that told by Chief Nelson. Urden said neither of the officers had a chance to get out of their car before the bandit started shooting. At the west outskirts of Sumner a tire on the bandit's machine went flat and he abandoned it.

fall that a pardon was forthcoming. Banks, brother-in-law, Mr. Moran, former business manager of a Clatsop paper, appeared in Banks' behalf. Moran died suddenly last year while still hopeful that his efforts in Banks' behalf would be successful.

When word got out that a pardon for Banks imperiled, Medford citizens quite generally protested vigorously, sending petitions and telegrams to the governor's office urging that Banks be held in prison indefinitely.

His wife resides in Salem.

EUGENE, Ore., July 15—(AP)—Dean Wayne L. Morse of the University of Oregon law school denied today that he suggested to Mrs. Ariel B. Pomeroy that an investigation be made into the Lewelwa A. Banks case "in the interests of justice."

At Salem today Mrs. Pomeroy said Dean Morse characterized Banks' murder trial as an injustice and suggested a probe be made.

"I did not make any such statement as Mrs. Pomeroy attributed to me," Dean Morse declared.

"Mrs. Pomeroy came to my office and asked me to sign one of the petitions. I told her I never did such a thing, and furthermore that I would not commit myself until an investigation was made disclosing all facts of the case."

The moon was hidden by clouds at Rochester, Syracuse and Albany but Buffalo revealed in a clear view of the eclipse.

Throughout the Great Lakes region it was clear and visibility was good, with Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit reporting conditions highly favorable.

Oiling Schedule Is Changed When Materials Ready

Decision to oil the 2.8 mile section of Market Road No. 92 running north and south between the penitentiary and Silverton road four corners ahead of the Monitor-Silverton stretch was reached by the county court last week when it was ascertained that crushed rock for the former job would be available early this week. It was held desirable to oil the four corners road as soon as possible because it is probably the heaviest traveled gravel road in the county.

The 5.4-mile section on the Turner-Markon road, first scene of county oiling operations began last week will be finished early this week. County Engineer Hubbs said he was highly pleased with the speed with which the oiling crew was working.

MIDAIR RESCUE IS CAUSE OF CITATION

MOSCOW, July 15.—(AP)—Ivan Krasnikoff, a soldier in the Red army, today won public thanks and a war department citation for making what is believed to be the first midair rescue in the history of parachute-jumping.

Soldier Noskoff, the rescued man, came hurtling through the air today after losing his chute. He caught hold of Krasnikoff who counseled him to open his reserve chute. Both landed safely.

The rescue was largely accidental, but Krasnikoff's citation in the war department's newspaper, Ras Sar, attributed the safe landing of the two men to Krasnikoff's cool head.

Noskoff's chute caught on the stabilizer of the airplane as he leaped. His second parachute opened 300 feet above the ground.

Housing Plan is Hit by Decision in Appeal Court

CINCINNATI, O., July 15.—(AP)—The administration's low-cost housing plans hit a stumbling block today when the sixth district United States court of appeals here ruled the government has no power to condemn land for such purposes.

Secretary Ickes, in Washington promptly announced, however, the plans for the program for which $249,000,000 in work relief funds has been earmarked, would proceed on another tack.

whatever action may be taken." Scott said he had not heard of a movement to have District Attorney James R. Bain of Multnomah county bring the action which District Attorney William H. Trindle of this county refused to launch.

Will Take No Further Action, Says Scott

"General Martin is a commissioned army officer and as such he is an officer of the United States," Scott continued. "The state constitution says no officer of the United States may hold a public office."

"What does the constitution mean? It means just what it says. I think it is the duty of everybody to uphold the constitution. At least there is a definite swing back to the constitution, and it is a good thing. I've taken an oath to uphold the constitution, and so has the governor."

Scott said he had heard nothing from those identified in the move to unseat the governor. "They don't talk to me. I've been in no conferences and I'm not a candidate for anything," he said. "My sole purpose in the matter was to point out the law. That was done."

ISSUE OF HIGHWAY BONDS HELD LEGAL

Issuance of $4,200,000 in Oregon highway bonds was approved as to legality yesterday by Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge, Boston firm which serves as legal counsel for the state. J. M. Devers, commission attorney, said. The first $3,000,000 of the bonds which will refinance toll bridge bonds for the Oregon Coast highway, will be sold June 25. The remaining $1,200,000 in bonds not exceeding five years in term will be sold at a later date.

The bonds cannot be made callable, the bond attorneys averred. Oregon's statutes for issuance of highway bonds are highly inflexible. They do not provide for callable issues and any issues of more than five years in term must be 25-year bonds with only five per cent of the bonds retireable in the sixth to 25th years of the bonds.

Talk at the statehouse is that the law will be amended at the special session of the legislature to give the state greater leeway in issuing obligations and in obtaining favorable money rates now existing.

State highway department officials expect the short-term bonds to be sold at an interest rate of about one and one-half per cent a year.

City Water Job Candidates Being Interviewed Here

Candidates for the position of manager of the Salem water plant were being interviewed, one by one, by the water commission, it was learned here yesterday. Selection of a manager was probable before the end of this week. The water commission was understood to be desirous of selecting the manager a sufficient length of time before the acquisition date, August 1, to permit the new manager a period in which to formulate a plan for the city's operations which begin that date.

HUG AND JIM REED ACTIVE IN RESCUE

SEASIDE, Ore., July 15—(AP)—Three strong-swimming lifeguards battled valiantly against a strong obb tide here yesterday with the result that Donald Stone of Portland was rescued in an unconscious condition and revived.

Stone was swimming in the surf when he suddenly found himself unable to return against the strong-ebb tide. Noting his distress, life guards Wallace Hug, Jim Reed and Floyd Owens swam to the rescue.

The undertow was so strong they were unable to return with their burden, but one swam out with a life line and some of the thousands of spectators on shore helped pull them in.

Application of artificial respiration for half an hour revived Stone.
