Young Woman is Rescued in Yosemite Park, Unhurt; Companion Injured

found tonight by weary searchers, who expected to remove the body of the boy mountain climber momentarily.

Parents Coming by Chartered Plane

The discovery, which, searchers said, sealed the fate of the boy beyond question, came even as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Brode chartered a special airplane and started here from their southern home by way of Dallas. The father is a prominent dealer in cottonseed products.

Working for more than 24 hours in quest of the lad, the mountaineers came upon the exact place where Brode plummeted beyond reach of a 15-year-old companion and found marks where the body had struck once. Small Chance Seen Of Boy's Being Alive

Persons in the hunt said there was "only a chance in a hundred" the young Memphis boy was still alive on the mountain that only a few persons ever have climbed.

He started the ascent yesterday with Robert Henderson, 15, of Omaha, Neb., who was vacationing with him at Camp Chief Ouray, summer mountain camp of the Y. M. C. A.

At 6:30 o'clock last night Henderson stumbled into Crater Lake camp, near the base of the peak, screaming that Brode had been killed. Search parties were organized immediately and they hunted all night with electric torches without finding a trace of the boy.

Friends said they advised the boys not to attempt an ascent as the peak has been climbed by comparatively few persons, most of them experienced mountaineers.

ACTION ON FLAX IS URGED BY GOVERNOR

"Oregon has talked flax for the past 40 years but has done virtually nothing about it," Governor Martin declared here yesterday. "If it ever intends to develop the industry now is the time to do it. What we need in this state is less talk and more action."

Governor Martin's statement was made during a discussion of the flax industry development with Mrs. W. W. Gabriel and E. G. Robinson of Portland.

A general committee of seven members was appointed to take charge of the development program. Besides Mrs. Gabriel and Robinson the committee includes L. L. Laws, superintendent of the state penitentiary flax plant; Walter W. R. May and Fletcher Linn, Portland; Herman Chindgren, Molalla, and Frank Chambers, Eugene.

Three plants planned
The flax plant as contemplated in the development program. Sites proposed for the plants are at Stayton, Mt. Angel and Canby.

The Oregon committee will work in cooperation with the federal government.

Mrs. Gabriel told Governor Martin that the time would arrive when 100,000 Oregon men and women would be employed in the flax industry.

Modernized Courthouse Plea of Molloy, President Salem Chamber

practical way to make the courthouse usable. As it is it is totally inadequate. It is a firetrap and the county stands to lose heavily in case of fire.

County's Share Would be $96,250
"If the county accepts a PWA plan, the county's share will be $96,250. This sum would have to be included in the 1936 budget passed by the county court. The inclusion of this item would necessitate no special election, no bond issue, nor the issuance of warrants. The county court, once the item was in its budget, could temporarily transfer cash from other funds until the moneys came in for the courthouse remodeling through the 1936 taxes.

"As the matter now stands the county court is undecided in its course. We heartily endorse the project of a remodeled courthouse. The only other alternatives are (1) to let the present, inadequate fire menace structure go on or (2) to raze the building and erect a new courthouse. The first alternative is unthinkable. The second involves so much more money, so much loss of time and the chance that it would be too late to get PWA funds that we hardly think it can be accomplished."

PARRENT CASE IS HELD UP BY JUDGE

Preliminary hearing for Roland C. Parrent, accused of removing a mortgage property, was started in justice court yesterday afternoon and continued to give Judge Hayden an opportunity to view and check a list of the goods involved.

Two witnesses, Phil Ringle and Onas S. Olson, who made the complaint for the state bonus commission, appeared for the state. Olson produced a list of fixtures allegedly taken from the premises at 1485 North Summer street, where Parrent lived prior to a fire July 10. The list had been furnished him by Parrent, he said on cross examination. He failed to name things allegedly taken from the premises other than those listed by the defendant.

Admission in Doubt
The defendant may or may not tell his side of the story in justice court, when the preliminary hearing is resumed.

Olson admitted Parrent had stated he took the listed fixtures from the place to insure safe keeping.

Last Rites Said For Christinia Moll Wednesday

Funeral services for Christinia Wilhelmina Hedwig Handel Moll, who died August 5, were held Wednesday afternoon from the Rigdon mortuary.

She was born July 10, 1868, at Dresden, Saxony, Germany. While she was 16, when both her parents died, she left Germany and came to America, joining a brother at Topeka, Kan. After her arrival she met and married Elias Oliver Moll, who died February 19, 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Moll remained at Topeka for about four years, then came farther west to Portland, staying there four years, then going on to a farm at Grand Island. Later they came to Salem, where they lived 37 years.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. Jenny M. Ferguson of Salem, Wilmot Kantner Moll of Portland, and Gordon Kenneth Moll of Salem.

Pamphlets to Tell Of Oregon Scenery

expended for debt service, including principal payments and interest payments, while for the previous year, debt service cost the schools in the county $780,909.21. The debt figure for 1935 year marks a decrease of $113,931.36 over the 1934 school year.

Teaching instruction the past year for the county was about $36,660 higher than the previous year, with the respective figures being $450,908.75 and $414,208.95. This does not include supervision instruction, which was cut nearly $6000 last year over the previous years, with these figures reported: 1935, $28,721.59; 1934, $32,466.80.

General control, operation of plant, capital outlay and emergency items were all higher in 1935 than for the school year ending in June, 1934.

Assessed value of the school properties in the county for 1935 was $43,778,810, with 148 buildings; and in 1934, $46,155,639 with 149 school buildings.

New construction during 1935 was fully eight times more than the previous year, with $52,939.34 spent in this period compared to $6686.48 in the year 1933-34.

an official of Associated Gas & Electric, acquainted himself with the history of American holding companies and prepared an opinion on the constitutionality of the pending legislation.

"And of course, I found that it was unconstitutional," he added, while spectators and committee members burst into laughter.

Otherwise the committee learned that Joseph P. Tumulty, who was secretary to President Wilson, received $35,000 from various utility companies for helping battle the bill. Of that, Tumulty said, he paid George Moses, former republican senator from New Hampshire, $5000.

Headrick to Head Young Democrats

Marvin Headrick was elected president of the young democratic league, succeeding John Propp, at a special meeting held at Hazel Green park Sunday. Propp was given a vote of thanks for his work in building up the club. Outstanding among accomplishments in Propp's term was success in bringing the 1936 state convention to Salem.

The young democrats will convene next on the regular September meeting date.

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—(P)—Joseph Stalin, soviet dictator, ordered all medical facilities of the Kremlin placed at the disposal tonight of Edward A. Filene, 75-year-old Boston merchant and philanthropist, who is seriously ill of lobar pneumonia at a hotel here. The American condition was somewhat improved tonight after a slight relapse at noon.

MARTIN BUYS BUTTON

An admission button to Oregon City's "Territorial Days" pageant to be held September 13 and 14 was bought yesterday by Governor Martin. Bennie Herrmann, president of the breakfast club; Lois Holland, also representing the organization; Virginia Davis, Kiwanis club; Ruth Davis, Elks club, and W. E. Tyler called on the governor.

Seen by the Sage

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Alexander, on their way home to Stayton after a few days spent at Newport, were in town Tuesday. Ed is looking good after his recent hospital experience, and it is a bit difficult to realize, looking at the two of them, that they are on the eve of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Why the dogs should have a grudge against D. H. Talmadge Harry Mills and his musical efforts is not easy to understand. Harry is a thoroughly efficient musician, and his rendition of the bass solo in Henry Stoudenmeyer's composition, "Big Boy", at the Tuesday night band concert in Willson park was fine—listened to from the State street side of the park. But on the Court street side the beauty of it was marred somewhat by dogs. A troupe of dogs lifted their several voices into the atmosphere in the best tradition of "The Call of the Wild."

More laughable than serious. And it is possible that the animals' intentions were complimentary. Dogs are smart.

Bert McKay of the postoffice rural delivery force, has a new automobile.

Mrs. Heath, for several years connected with the Peter Pan cafe, has accepted a place at the state school for the deaf.

Regardless of the merits of the picture, the "Becky Sharp" movie is laughable than serious. And it is possible that the animals' intentions were complimentary. Dogs are smart.

Depression Effects Unseen
Elliot Fuller, eldest son of Walter, former Salem printer, left last night for the family home at Falconer, N. Y., after a two weeks visit in Salem and vicinity. He was accompanied home by his grandmother, Mrs. Elliot Savage, who has been in Salem the past two years. In common with other residents of Salem, who have gone away and returned after several years, Elliot declares himself unable to see any change in the town except for the better. Evidence of the depression of the past few years, which are still apparent in other sections of the country, seem to be quite lacking here.

Overheard in a Salem cigar store: "Why do some folks have cigarette stains on their fingers and others do not?" Answer—"For the same reason that some folks have gray spots on their neckties and others do not." The explanation is hardly scientific enough to be impressive.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Finster are leaving this morning for a three days' outing at Palana lake.

W. A. Barnum, who has lived in Independence for 10 years, was in Salem one day last week. Mr. Barnum was formerly in the lumber business at Colville, Wash. During this latest visit to Salem Stanley Keith chanced to meet him in the Miller store. Mr. Keith thought he recognized something familiar in Mr. Barnum's looks. He spoke to him. And then the fact was revealed that the Keiths and the Barnums had known each other at Colville 28 years ago. Just one of those things that happen.

President Roosevelt refused to comment, telling his press conference he hadn't known about the election until he read about it in the papers.

The executive also declined to comment on Rhode Island's rejection of a $12,000,000 public works bond issue sponsored by its democratic governor, Theodore F. Green. Only one item, $2,000,000 for unemployment relief, apparently survived. Republicans interpreted the result as a reaction to huge government expenditures.

Gervais School Job Progresses Rapidly, Noted

D. D. Dotson, director of the state employment office, made a field trip to Gervais Tuesday to check up on progress on the union high school being erected there. Most of the workers for the job are being furnished through Dotson's office, an average of 15 men being kept busy on the work. Dotson reported that everything is progressing satisfactorily and that the job is being rushed toward completion for the opening of school.

Clerical work entailed by ramping the files for assisting the PWA has been the main order of business in the local office but several requests for farm hands have been filed. A request for two choker setters and a rigger was received from the Willamette Valley Lumber company of Dallas.

itol plans by that time is an architectural impossibility. Furthermore President Roosevelt and PWA administrator Ickes have each assured Governor Martin that the federal government will not through PWA funds ready to help Oregon secure its new capitol. It is thought highly unlikely that PWA would not be willing to grant the state a reasonable time in completing its capitol plans, meanwhile earmarking $1,575,000 in PWA funds pending the completion of a carefully worked out arrangement for the new capitol.

Quiet preparations for the legislative sessions are under way. The Elk's temple location is unlikely now to be the state's choice due to lack of space for committee room hearings and to the probable damage to the furniture of the temple through the hard usage of the legislators.

Yesterday a plan to house the house in the Salem armory and to place the senate in the dance hall across south Liberty street was being studied. Such an arrangement would provide ample room for the committee uses, for the press and for the officers of the legislators.
