Eight of Salem high school's brightest football stars developed by Hollis Huntington, Viking mentor, in recent years are expected to win their spurs on college teams throughout the northwest this fall, Four of them, Jim Nicholson, Doug Drager, Coburn Grabenhorst and Don Coons, will register as freshmen, not being eligible for Pacific Coast conference sophomore year. All, however, are entitled to play yearling ball. The remaining quartet, Glen Moody, Mel Engel, Tots Yada and Ira Wintermute, will fight for regular herths on Coast and Northwest conference elevens.

Jim Nicholson, finest red and black triple threater for years, floored with offers from coaches all over the United States, has opinion of Huntington unparallelcast his lot with Prink Callison's |ed as a high school end.
