

WOUND FATAL TO HUEY

CAMPUS SITE DEAL COMPLETED

CITY ALDERMEN BRIDGE GAP BY PLEDGING HELP

Difference of $125,000 to Be Made Up if People, Legislature Favor

State's Share of Purchase to Be Unchanged Under Present Proposal

DEVELOPMENTS CLOSING DEAL FOR CAPITOL SITE
City of Salem, through council, pledges up to $125,000 to bridge difference in state's offer and Willamette's demand for campus site.

Board of control agrees to submit to PWA and legislature proposal for new capitol building on combined site of old capitol and 18 acres of Willamette campus.

Entire sum of $750,000 asked of PWA on loan and grant to be used for new university buildings on site in Bush's pasture.

City to provide fund, by special bond issue, for Bush's pasture site at estimated cost of $75,000 for 24 acres. City pledges additional $27,500 to state, difference on state's original purchase offer and sum agreed upon yesterday.

Unanimous pledge on the part of 10 of Salem's 13 city aldermen and Mayor V. E. Kuhn to offer as high as $125,000 as an outright gift to the state toward an adequate capitol site for Oregon yesterday brought about a compromise agreement between the state board of control and Willamette university trustees which will lead to recommendation upon the part of Governor Martin that the university campus be given first consideration as a new site for the capitol building.

Governor Martin will make the campus priority recommendation both to the public works administration and to the state legislature when it convenes in special session here this fall. This move came yesterday morning after the state board of control had heard the proffer of the city as made following a special informal session of the city council. Aldermen Open Way For Closing of Deal

The council members met yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, voting unanimously to submit to the citizens of Salem for balloting a bond issue up to $125,000. Following the board of control meeting later in the morning, it was considered that not over $100,000 will be required from the city, as this sum will close the gap between Willamette university's and the state's offers in purchase of Bush's pasture for use of the university.

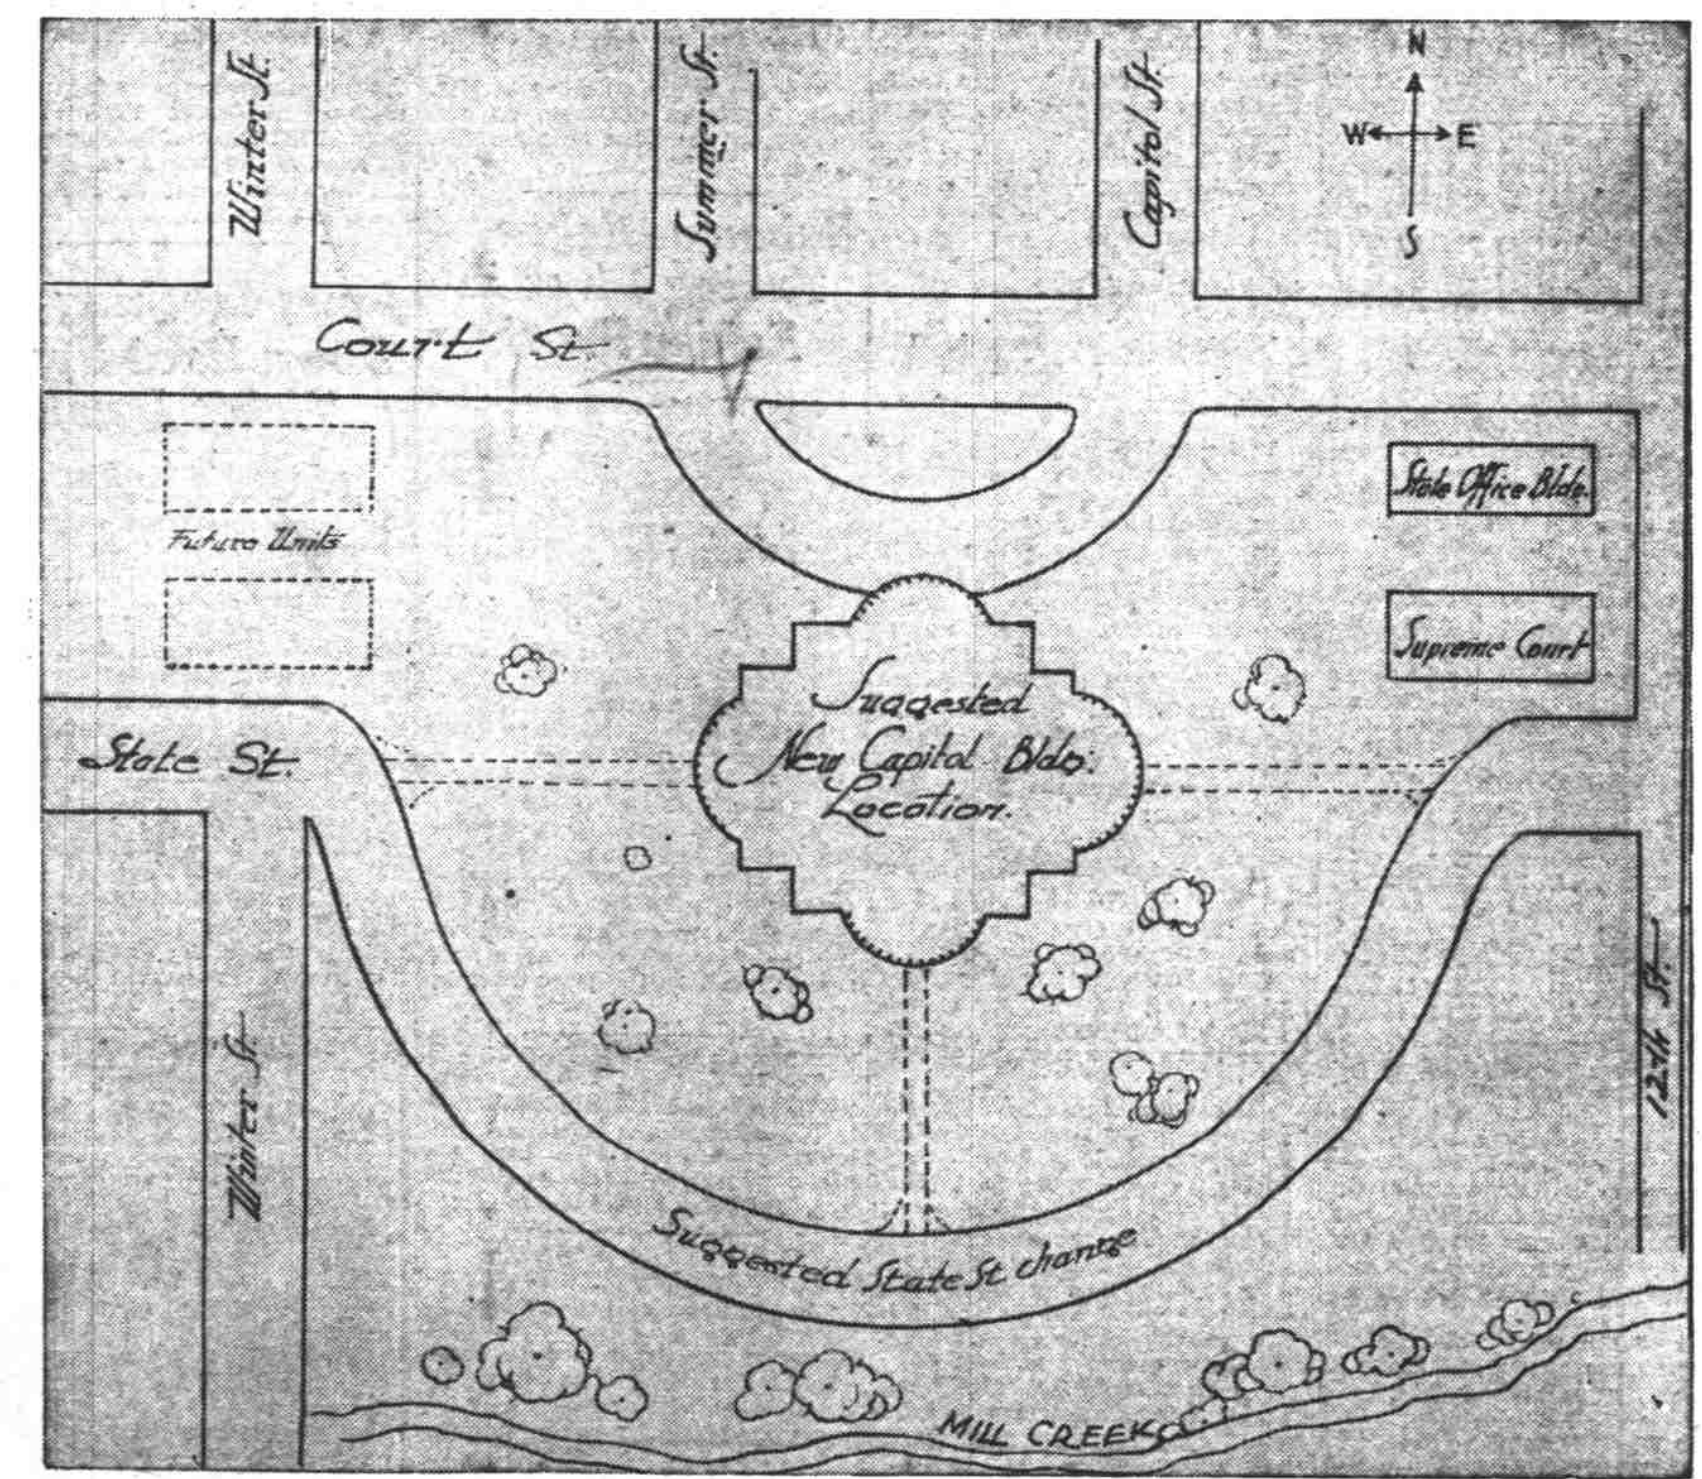

Members of the city council attending the early morning meeting and voting unanimously to put the bond issue up to the citizens of Salem were E. P. Perrine, Walter Fuhrer, John Minko, W. D. Evans, David O'Hara, Fred A. Williams, Carl B. Armbrist, Merrill D. Ohling, Paul Hendricks and Ross Goodman. Councilmen absent were H. H. Olinger, Elmer Daus and R. E. Boatwright.

Under terms of the new Willamette campus agreement brought about by the city's financial gesture, Governor Martin is making application to PWA for a loan and grant of $750,000, with understanding that the entire sum is to be expended in construction of new university buildings on a site in Bush's pasture to be provided by the city. Of the $750,000, 45 per cent will be a grant from the federal government.

The state, under the agreement, will be asked to provide $385,000. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1.)

ATTEND CREDIT MEET
Salem people attending the fall meeting of the State Association of Credit Bureaus at Albany yesterday included Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Holladay, Lee Schoettler, A. A. Hall and Hugh Shattuc. Astoria was selected as the next year's assembling point for the association. About 60 persons attended from the various localities over the state.

PROHIBITION ENDS OFFICIALLY, TEXAS
AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Constitutional prohibition ended a 16-year tenure in Texas tonight. The prohibition against possession and sale of liquors went out of the fundamental law with issuance by Governor Allred of a proclamation declaring results of the Aug. 24 election. The official canvass of the vote showed repeal carried 297,597 to 250,948. Sale of intoxicants became legal immediately in 12 counties and in one or more subdivisions of 50 other counties under a ruling of Attorney General William McGraw that sales may be made without restraint in political entities that were wet under local option prior to statewide prohibition.

School Building Program Backed
All Salem citizens interested in the proposed building program for the public schools are invited and urged to attend a meeting at the chamber of commerce auditorium late Thursday afternoon, when the building projects will be explained in detail and a general discussion on them will be held. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

Friend of Teddy Called by Death
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Capt. John W. Green, 74, Indian fighter of whom former President Theodore Roosevelt once said, "He is one whom I grew to trust most," died of a heart attack late last night at his home here. He was retired two months ago by the Santa Fe railway after having served as local depot master for 23 years.

LATER IRRIGATION PLAN FOR COULEE
WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—With allocations by President Roosevelt today of $8,500,000 for three western reclamation projects only one of the major irrigation developments contemplated in the reclamation bureau's $100,000,000 program remained unapproved. The projects for which allocations were announced today were: Roza, in southeastern Washington, $5,000,000; Heart Mountain division of the Shoshone project in Wyoming, $1,500,000, and Gila valley, in southwestern Arizona, $2,000,000. The gigantic Central valley's project for which an initial $20,000,000 was requested is the only major development in the bureau's program still lacking approval.

House Avoids All Mention of Tragedy; Anti-F. R. Moves Contested

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 9.—(AP)—In a subdued session which brought no reference to the attempted assassination of Senator Huey P. Long, the house of representatives today pushed through passage a new batch of bills aimed at the federal administration.

Even in the absence of their wounded leader, struck down last night by a bullet fired by Dr. C. A. Weiss, jr., who himself was slain by Long's bodyguards, the legislative followers of the senator held firm against sporadic opposition, pushing ahead the program described by the senator as preserving "state's rights" against any encroachment by the federal government.

The senate held a brief night meeting, remaining only long enough to refer all of the house-approved bills to the finance committee.

NEW REBELLION IN GREECE IS FEARED

Republican and Monarchist Clash Occurs; Royalty Return is Argued

ATHENS, Sept. 10.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Fears were widely expressed this morning that Greece is on the brink of a new civil war. Mounting tension gripped the capital as a result of a clash between republican army officers and monarchist guards which broke up a cabinet meeting.

Burst of the leadership of General Panagiotacos, leader of the anti-monarchist officers and commander of the Athens garrison, who was bayoneted in the jaw during the sharp skirmish on the threshold of the cabinet chamber, the army was ordered by Minister of War George Kondylis to stay within the barracks.

But deep apprehension was felt that the incident may set aflame the smouldering republican forces. The clash followed almost immediately upon the heels of a declaration by Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris—acting under pressure from Kondylis, according to reports—abandoning his previous stand of neutrality on the question of the restoration of former King George and announcing himself in favor of the monarchy.

Physicians Battle For Two Days to No Avail; End Comes Early Today

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—(AP)—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana died here at 4:10 o'clock this morning, Central Standard time, the victim of an assassin. Long's death was announced by Abe Shushan, president of the Orleans levee board. The senator had been dead four minutes before physicians announced it from his room. Mrs. Long and the three children were led from the building. Mrs. Long was not crying but was showing severe strain.

Famed Senator Dies of Wound

HUEY LONG

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Friends of Senator Huey P. Long expressed fears death was approaching early today as he became delirious at intervals after a third blood transfusion had been administered to counteract the effects of an assassin's bullet.

Raced under an oxygen tent shortly before midnight, the senator appeared to be experiencing some difficulty in breathing.

Once he said to Governor O. K. Allen, who was at his bedside: "Get back, Oscar, and give me air."

His brother, Earl Long, said the senator talked irrationally in his delirium about a book he had written relating to his imaginary tenure of office as president of the United States.

At 1:30 a. m., Abe L. Shushan, president of the New Orleans levee board and a close political adviser of Long, said he was "sinking."

Earlier, relatives and friends had expressed doubt that he would live through the night. No official comment was forthcoming from physicians on the result of the third transfusion. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

CHILD FOUND; DIES DUE TO EXPOSURE

ST. BONIFACE, Minn., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Five-year-old Jack Pike, found in bushes 11 miles south of here today after being lost 96 hours, died at 9:40 p. m., (CST) tonight despite a blood transfusion.

The boy wandered from his parents while picking blueberries last Thursday afternoon in the St. Norbert district, 12 miles south of Winnipeg.

More than 2000 searchers had sought him since the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pike of St. Vital, reported to police.

The lad was found this afternoon by E. Olson, unemployed carpenter.

The lad had been without food and water, was suffering from shock, starvation and exposure. His death came a few hours after transfusion of blood furnished by his father.

BRITISH FLEET ALL READY FOR CRUISE

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The ships of the British navy, fueled and equipped for long cruises from their home bases, stood by strategic stations tonight, ready for any hurried call to duty.

A general belief war between Italy and Ethiopia was inevitable gained ground in informed London quarters, where the whole series of significant naval and military moves about key points went unexplained.

The movements included massing of Italian submarine light cruisers in the Mediterranean, the Mediterranean fleet jockeyed into position about Suez, gateway to east Africa.

The lid of secrecy, clamped on the movements last week, continued in effect.

Reports of concentration of Italian submarine light cruisers in the narrow waters between Sicily and the African coast furnished some insight into the seriousness of the situation.

Twenty Are in Hospitals Due to Weekend Accidents

With over 20 persons injured in accidents, the list of motor and railroad accident casualties increased rapidly in this district over the weekend and yesterday.

A hit-and-run driver was responsible for the worst of the accidents. A horse that walked in front of a car caused another and head-on collisions helped to swell the list of injured who kept local hospital emergency crews busy.

The latest collision occurred last night when a car driven by Alfred Whiteside, route 2, collided with one driven by Tom L. Webb, Turner. Whiteside received a gash on the face and Herschel Peterson, a passenger in his car, was also lacerated about the face and head. Webb stated that Whiteside was driving on the wrong side of the road.

Ernstson Injured Seriously Sunday
Most serious of Sunday's accidents here resulted in serious injury to Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Ernstson, route 7, Salem. Mr. Ernstson received head injuries that include a skull fracture while Mrs. Ernstson received a compound fracture of the left leg.

A hit-and-run driver, driving a green coupe, struck the Ernstson car, forcing it into a ditch three miles north of Salem. C. B. Taw of Portland, who witnessed the accident, said the car passed the Ernstson car, a delivery truck, at a rapid rate of speed and continued at the same speed after forcing the other car off the road. The driver has not yet been apprehended.

Dr. George F. Gildarg, Eugene, gave first aid to the couple who were later taken to the Salem General hospital. Smashup Sends Eight

M'NARY TO ASSIST TO LIMIT, PLEDGE

Oregon's interests in the construction of a new state capitol so far as federal aid is concerned will be protected so far as it is in the power of Senator Charles McNary, he said Monday afternoon, when he told state Willamette trustees and the city of Salem had come to an agreement on a capitol site. Senator McNary refused to comment upon the settlement reached between the state of Oregon and the Willamette trustees in which the city of Salem acted as an intervening party to arrive at a figure on what Willamette is to receive for its campus and buildings. Has Pledged Full Efforts For State
Oregon's senior senator, however, pledged full efforts for the state. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)
