

PROBE OF LONG SLAYING ASKED

Huey's Secretary Says He's Convinced of Plot and Weiss Drew Straw

Back to the seat of his political power and the scene of his assassination, the body was borne in a procession led by national guardsmen and followed by high and low of his followers.

Long was mortally wounded Sunday night in the statehouse by a bullet fired by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, jr., 30 years old, who immediately was killed by the senator's bodyguards. The senator died early yesterday.

Congressional investigation requested by organizer. The Christenberry statement was followed tonight by a request from the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer of Senator Long's "share-our-wealth" clubs, for a congressional investigation into the assassination.

Mr. Smith said he had wired Speaker Byrnes of the house of representatives in Washington that he thought such an inquiry should be launched since the speaker "had appointed a committee to investigate Long's politics in Louisiana."

The clergyman predicted that an investigation into the senator's death would "unfold facts that would shake the nation."

Even as he lay dead, new powers that he sought for himself were decreed by his docile legislature—but to be administered by others.

High and low walked slowly past the bier as hundreds filed into the rotunda of the towering building to pay honor to the dead political leader dressed in a tuxedo.

Simple Services To Be Held Today

Simple funeral services were arranged for 4 p. m. (Central Standard time) tomorrow beneath giant, moss covered oaks on the 20-acre capitol grounds, across the concrete drive fronting the capitol.

The senator will lie in a sunken garden in the statehouse park, 19 1/2 yards from the capitol steps. As plans were made for the funeral the legislature passed 37 new statutes drawn by Long to tighten his state rule and bolster his fight against the Roosevelt administration of which he was an outstanding foe.

Joe E. Brown, the funnel-mouthed comedian, comes to the Elsinore theatre today in what is heralded as his most uproarious comedy romance.

In addition to Joe's laugh-provoking stunts, there are four lively songs, for the picture is one of back stage life and the singing comes in naturally.

Joe E. himself, sings and dances and does acrobatic stunts with the famous Maxellos.

The story is by Lois Lesson and concerns Joe E.'s quick jump from a burlesque comedy troupe to a big Broadway actor, playing with a madcap heiress, Patricia Ellis, out for adventure. His wife and partner in the burlesque show is Ann Dvorak.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A Reuters (British) News Agency dispatch from Nicosia, Isle of Cyprus, stated tonight it had been announced officially that thirteen destroyers of the British Mediterranean fleet and the cruiser Despatch would be concentrated at Limasol, Cyprus, from August 21 to October 8.

It was stressed officially that the visitors are in accordance with the normal summer cruise program of the fleet.

The British Isle of Cyprus is in the far eastern Mediterranean, about 250 miles north of the Suez canal.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The nucleus of the British imperial defense council met with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin today for the third time in less than a month while Sir Samuel Hoare, the foreign secretary, at Geneva, was making a definite demand for League of Nations integrity.

No disclosure was made of the subjects discussed at 10 Downing street, but the two-and-a-half hour conference was interpreted as a precursor to further steps to prepare Britain for action in view of the present grave threat of a war which might involve the British colonies.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Ethiopian forces which have been holding advanced positions on the Eritrean frontier today withdrew 18 miles to avoid any border incidents with Italian troops reported near the same area.

The Ethiopians now are reconcentrated in the vicinity of Axum and Adua within their own territory. The precaution of withdrawal was taken to avoid giving Mussolini any excuse for beginning hostilities through more frontier trouble.
