Gets Big Berries — Charles F. Schiller returned to his home here yesterday morning from the Little Goose and Smokey Creek area in Mt. Rainier national park, where he had spent the past two weeks picking huckleberries. He brought back a large quantity of extra large berries. He reports the Mt. Adams region experienced one of the worst electrical storms he ever saw last Friday from 5 to 7:30 o'clock at night, with lightning striking nine times and starting fires that many fires. In order to get at the berry regions, it was necessary for him to pack in from three to five miles, but from that berry region more than 14,000 gallons have been taken this season. The road from Guler to Smokey creek is almost impassable, he said, with several washes exposed in some places and lava dust very thick in others. Sulphur and tungsten mining, in addition to some gold mining, is being carried on around Mt. Adams, he reports.

Seen by the Sage

By D. H. TALMADGE
A traveler from Nebraska tells me that the Californian who was in that section the past spring and a summer selling tornado-tamers did not do so well. Following the Grinnell tornado in Iowa a year ago a number of towns bought small cannons, the contention being that a tornado would collapse if penetrated by a cannonball. The theory was "scientific." But it did not work. I know of families that rushed to their cellars more than 20 times during the summer following the Grinnell tornado. Every black cloud sent 'em scuttling. But in the course of time they became accustomed to the situation. The man from Nebraska tells me that folks back there do not pay much attention to tornadoes any more.

Speaking of the "back yonder" country, I met up with Sid Burdell and then Sid came from old Fort Atkinson, Iowa, on the headwaters of the Turkey river, famous in song and story — or should be. He has been long in the Willamette country, but, like some of the rest of us, he enjoys looking backward.

Along about this time of year there are certain men in Salem and other communities who give the clock a rest from being looked at and concentrate their glances on the calendar. Open season for deer and pheasants is a matter of only a few days to come. Indications that summer is past — music and dance studios are reopening, musical organizations are getting under way, sporting goods store windows are filled with footballs and the heads of thousands of youngsters are full of football, and all in all there is nothing to kick about — except football, and football would be nothing to kick about were it not that the game cannot be played without more or less kicking.

PRUNE CROP HEAVY IN HILL ORCHARDS

The heavy crop of prunes in the hills is forcing the farmers to shake the trees to reduce the burden. S. H. Van Trump, county fruit inspector, reports. The driers have had to start operations, the inspector added. The Central Howell district is reported by Seymour Jones to have begun picking two days ago for the canneries although the Kelzer district will probably not begin until Saturday. Although prunes are coming in very slowly to the canneries, the canners report, a large percentage of those arriving are small. Some of the canners do not want to handle prunes under 16 to a pound.

Stimulate Stomach; "Pep-Up" Appetite

No matter how little you eat, you should relish your food to feel your best and get the most enjoyment out of living. It closes up bowels and inactive kidneys are poisoning your system, causing you to have a "puny," finicky appetite, and making you feel run-down, sluggish, without ambition or zest for the good things in life — take a few doses of good old Williams S. L. K. Formula and see how much better you feel.

Williams S. L. K. Formula is compounded from the prescription of a former army doctor and contains several valuable ingredients which accomplish their work in four beneficial ways: as a mild tonic, stomach stimulant, laxative, and drastic stimulant for the kidneys. Many take Williams S. L. K. Formula also for indigestion, nausea, loss of weight and sallow complexion, where a mild tonic is needed.

Don't take too-painful drugs which jolt your system and upset your stomach. Ask Perry's Drug Store today for Williams S. L. K. Formula. The first bottle must satisfy you or money back.

FESTIVAL EXHIBIT SPACE ALL TAKEN

West Stayton's Big Event Starts Saturday; Three Programs Announced

WEST STAYTON, Sept. 12—(Special)—All exhibit space at the West Stayton Harvest festival, which will be held Saturday and Sunday, has been spoken for and a record number of exhibits is assured, it was stated today by Mrs. O. O. Lacy, secretary of the festival board.

The Saturday afternoon program will include an address by G. W. Potts of Jefferson, president of the state Farmers Union, at 1 o'clock, a musical program and the sports program directed by Pete Etzel. George Keesh of Stayton will be master of ceremonies.

Saturday night the program will be under the direction of the Salem Cherrians who will bring Salem entertainers. Saturday night at 9 o'clock also, the festival dance will be held in the Forester hall at Stayton.

The Sunday afternoon program will open at 1 o'clock with a Townsend club session at which Eugene Burr of Oregon City will be the principal speaker. Townsend clubs of the vicinity will provide other entertainment.

Following this, there will be a community program in which each of the seven communities participating will provide a number.

The festival management has announced that in case of rain the event will be held on schedule, with the program conducted in the school building. All of the exhibits are under cover so that rain will not mar the enjoyment of visitors.

Large Drainage Task Completed

To drain a 63-acre tract of land across the road from Hager's grove on the road to the Cottage farm, Alfred Zweilacher, owner, has just completed the task of burying 8000 tiles.

Mr. Zweilacher reports that the use of a big ditcher to dig the ditches and a rented county grader to cover the tiles after they were placed made the job about as simple and easy as possible.
