47 Beginners at Mt. Angel School

MT. ANGE, Sept. 17.—School opened today at St. Mary's grade school with a roll call more than 75 short of what it was last year. The only grade in which the entire class reported was the first. An extra large number of these beginners registered, 47 in all, so that the class will have to be divided and assigned two teachers.

The upper grades especially are very depleted in their ranks, due to the prolonged hop season. It is hoped that by the end of the week the hop harvest will be all in and the next week will see all the youngsters at their desks.

Thus far only 259 have registered. Miss Adelle Zolner and Miss Florene Dehler left Sunday to take up their positions as teachers in the Mehama school, where school was scheduled to open Monday. Miss Marie Flerchinger left to teach in Salmity.

Huge Rook Class Due at Corvallis

CORVALLIS, Sept. 16.—The largest freshman class since depression hit college enrollment in prospect when freshman week opens at Oregon State college Monday, September 23. Advance applications, between 49 and 50 per cent greater than a year ago, indicate a class of around 1200, says E. B. Lemon, registrar, with total enrollment of about 3000.

Every freshman is expected to report for freshman week in order to become acquainted with college procedure, requirements and opportunities before classes begin, says Lemon. Under the personal guidance of faculty leaders the newcomers become oriented before the old students return.

The freshman week idea in Oregon originated at the state college 11 years ago and has become one of the most valuable features of the year to students. Even rushing by fraternities and sororities is prohibited until the "rooks" become settled in their new environment. Registration of old students is Saturday, September 28 with classes starting Monday, September 30.
