

Clingman Returns to Padded Arena Here; to Oppose Marcus

Clever Ex-Gob Has High Rank

Listed Third Nationally; McGuire and Nolan in all-Irish Battle

Oily Otis Clingman, the speedy Oklahoma gob, will be back after the popularity crown Tuesday when he meets Jerry Marcus, handsome New York Hebrew, in the main event of the American Legion's weekly wrestling show.

Back on the northwest circuit after a triumphant tour in the south that netted him the national wrestling commission ranking of third in his division, Clingman will again flash his swift skill in the armory arena.

Clingman, at one time the middleweight champion of the United States navy, is one of the best mat creasers to show here and was tops in popularity in his previous appearances.

Marcus has grappled here several times and has proven himself a worthy opponent for the Oklahoma twister. One of the hand-somest of the men who make the mat their meal ticket, Marcus has won a large following among the female fans.

Irish Will Clash
Mickey McGuire, fair haired boy who hails from West Salem, will be matched with Paddy Nolan, another ham-scarum Irishman, in the semi-windup spot. McGuire is capable of putting on a first class exhibition of scientific wrestling without allowing the match to go dull for a second. Nolan runs more to the ferocious type and turns to villainy in case ethics don't produce results. The battle of the two sons of Erin is expected to be a highlight on the program. Shillalals and Irish bouquets are barred.

Art Lackey, "great big man from de south", will meet Herb Bergeson, Portland grappler, in the 30 minute opener which starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Young Golf Pro Offers Lessons; Working His Way Through University

Clem Temple, a Willamette university student and a qualified golf professional, is offering lessons in golf as a means of paying his way through school.

Temple began his career as a professional assistant at the Lake Oswego country club and was professional at the Hood River country club in 1931 and 1932.

During 1933 and 1934 he was pro-manager of a driving course and golf school in Portland.

Deer Hunters Get Everything But ...

Including Wildcat, Coyote and Big 442-Pound Bear ... So They Do Pretty Well at That

They got most everything they didn't go after, but they didn't do so badly at that. Charles Gabriel, Henry Finley and Will H. Bloch went deer hunting over in the Burns country. They were gone more than a week. Gabriel killed a wildcat and Finley killed a coyote. And they started home.

But Gabriel and Finley decided to stop over in the Suttle lake country. Bloch came home and sent Tony Spencer back to get the others.

On Sunday in the Suttle lake country, the three men now composing the party encountered a huge bear. Each, in the chase that

Punch Brings Back Boxing Boom

By BURNLEY

NOT since the golden days of Dempsey and old Tex Rickard has there been such a boom in the cauliflower market. The recent Louis-Bear argument drew the nearest thing to a million-dollar gate seen since Dempsey hung up his red leather mittens; and, of course, the Brown Bomber, with his deadly sleep-producing sock, was the big attraction in this case. The fight of Dempsey was a puncher; so is Louis, who is the greatest drawing card since the old Manassa Mauler. Tunney, a boxer who lacked a lethal smack, was never much of a box-off attraction unless pitted against a guy who could belt. When Gene defended his crown against Heeney, who was also not much of a puncher, the people stayed away in droves. Louis' feat in bringing back the big money to the big boys, focuses attention on some of the lighter fist divisions, in which there are some deadly wallopers appearing on the horizon. The welterweight class, which has fallen into the doldrums since the dynamiting Jimmy McLarin passed out of the picture, may return to glory if the devastating fists of Ceferino Garcia continue to explode T.N.T. in the faces of his opponents. Barney Ross, boss of the 147-pounders, has been widely ballyhooed as a second Benny Leonard, but because the Chicagoan lacks Bennah's sock, he is not a great attraction. Garcia, the Filipino sensation, dropped Barney to the mat twice in their recent bout, it being the first time Ross was ever on the canvas. Some Coast sports writers insist that the welter king was given a long count and that the round was cut short when he was out on his feet from Garcia's deadly darts. Be that as it may, Clouting Ceferino may revive interest in the 147-pounders if he can punch as hard as all that. The middleweight brigade should prosper more than in recent years, with Babe Risko, a hard-hitting slugger, having displaced the mauling Teddy Yarosz as ruler, and such heavy wallopers as Freddy Steele and Frankie Battaglia on hand.

Caustic Carries On

Another world series is on the shelf and the Detroit Tigers are in proud possession of what they couldn't get last year on account of the Gas House Gang and the world's championship. As championships go it's the top. As series go this one was a wow. As managers go Mickey Cochrane is plenty happy. And Chicago deserves a lot of credit. As Cochrane said, in three games it was just a question of which team was able to get there first with the winning run.

We are willing to wager a slightly used hat that "Doc" Barrick is so hoarse from yelling he won't be able to talk for a month. Salem's leading softballer and corner has been contributing at least half of that roar you've been hearing in your radio.

Three and a half tons of peanuts were sold at the first game of the series. At that rate the total consumption for six games was 21 tons of goobers or enough to keep a full sized herd of elephants happy for six months.

Salem high's football team is not getting any rest this season. There were eight games on the schedule originally but Camas took one and now Hillsboro wants to try its luck so it's just one game after another for the Vikings until Thanksgiving day. There's always the possibility of a post-season clash, too.

The trend in college coach-

ing nowadays is getting to be something like the Mexican Klein, r. Most of the big schools have a squad of coaches that a visitor might mistake for the team. Willamette, in its own small way, keeps right up with things. Helping "Spec" Keene this year are Howard Maple, Emil Hauser, Keith Jones and Mike Balkovic.

Maple and Hauser are both on All-America rolls. You remember Maple at Oregon State in 1929 when he showed the New York university Violets what could be done with a football. Emil Hauser, the great Wauseka of Pop Warner's famed Carlyle Indians, was an All-America tackle. It was he, we think, who first felled Carlyle's notorious hidden ball stunt.

Long distance runners will turn out at Salem high school today when Vern Gilmore holds initial trials for cross country runners. A larger turnout than last year is expected as the distance running is being urged upon track men as a means of keeping in condition during the fall months.

Last year the Salem cross-country team split in two meets with Stayton. The team will again enter the annual Hill Military meet.

Thousands Jam Wrigley Field for World Series

This general view of Wrigley Field in Chicago shows part of the thousands of baseball fans massed around the stadium prior to opening tilt between the Cubs and Detroit Tigers in the Windy City.

Bridges, Goose Given Plaudits

Tigers Hilarious as They Celebrate Victory at Close of Series

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(AP)—With blood curdling yells that rocked the rafters, the victorious Tigers charged into their dressing room after walloping the Cubs 4-3 today to cut loose in a wild, hilarious celebration.

Cy Perkins, Tiger coach, led the procession. Then came big Schoolboy Rowe, Clifton Gehring, Goose Goslin and the rest, all yelling, swearing and sweating. The Tigers immediately made for Goslin, whose single in the ninth scored Manager Mickey Cochrane with the winning run. They surrounded him, pulled off his shirt and mauling and hauled him all over the place.

Cochrane, the bulldog of a man who piloted the Tigers to their first world championship, was beaming with pride. He paid a remarkable tribute to little Tommy Bridges, the Tigers' winning pitcher.

"A hundred and fifty pounds of courage," he yelled. "If there ever is a pay-off on courage this little 150 pound pitcher is the greatest world series hero. It was the finest exhibition of pitching I ever saw in a world series game. In the ninth inning, after Hack had tripled, Bridges threw nine of the best curves I ever looked at to get the next three men."

Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs catcher, joined the crowd of well-wishers congratulating Cochrane. He shook Mickey's hand warmly and said: "I hope we play you in the series next year."

Then Grimm, the Cubs manager, came through the door to extend his congratulations. "Thanks, Charlie," Cochrane said, gripping the Chicago leader's hand. Then Grimm told him: "It was a helluva series. It was a tough one to lose. I hope we meet up again next year."

The Cubs trooped into their dressing room weary and crushed. Manager Grimm looked like he had lost his best friend. He was disappointed and so were his players.

Not Much Margin
"We were beaten by a grand ball club," Grimm said, "both evenly matched. It was just a question of which one would score just one more run in three games."

Lon Warneke, one of the stars of the series, remarked "If we had to lose, it was a swell way to lose it, coming down to an exciting finish that way."

Coyotes' Invasion and Homecoming Lie Ahead of Bearcats; One Day of Rest Taken; Pullman Showing Good

THE light, fast and trick College of Idaho football team, the first string 100 per cent veterans, will provide the next opposition for "Spec" Keene's Willamette university Bearcats when they meet in a homecoming clash on Sweetland field October 19.

The veteran Coyotes, co-champions with the Bearcats last year, will be no setup for any team this season, but with a gameless Saturday before the tilt Keene gave the Bearcats a day off yesterday in which to rest up from their tough assignment with Washington State.

Both Coach Keene and Assistant Coach Howard Maple expressed satisfaction with the showing made by the Bearcats and said that they looked much better than against Oregon State. Although defeated by a larger section of Willamette made a chance first downs to the Cougars' 12, and ran up 143 yards from scrimmage.

The squad got through the battle with the hard hitting Cougars with only three injuries. Manfred Olson, fullback and George Abbott, freshman end, both received ankle injuries and are in the Salem General hospital. Henry Woodbury, freshman tackle, sustained a bad shoulder injury but was not in the hospital.

Keene used his entire squad of 27 players in the contest. Charley Versteeg, fighting end, was the only one to play the full 60 minutes. Neither Johnny Oravec nor Manfred Olson was in the game in the second half and the welterweight fullbacks got a chance to show their stuff. Jiggs Burnett and Frank Hediger, freshman halfbacks, both looked good. Walt Weaver, freshman end from Wisconsin, showed up well as a pass receiver and pulled down several of Versteeg's passes that appeared almost impossible catches.

Keene's work during the next two weeks will be mostly in polishing up the Bearcat offense and strengthening the pass defense. Loren Basler's Coyotes use every variation of aerial attack and will keep the Bearcat secondary hard at work attempting to knock down passes.

Tom Loutitt and Doug Lowell of Portland will be two of the officials for the Idaho clash, Keene announced.

Settlement is Sought For Loss of Thumb at Silverton's Swim Pool

SILVERTON, Oct. 7.—A letter read at the city council tonight from Vinotn and Marsh, McMinville attorneys, requested that the council meet with the attorneys to discuss a settlement of damages suffered by Alice Mechbank August 31, when she lost a thumb sliding down a chute at the city swimming pool here. The letter indicates a damage action in even no settlement is reached outside the city limits.

The council left the next step in the hands of the city attorney, Custer Ross of Salem. The letter gave no hint of what amages will be asked.

Fifty Million Pounds Of Pilechard Caught at Coos Bay, Report Here

Pilechards weighing 50,181,489 pounds were taken off Coos Bay during the time June 23, the inception of the industry, and September 22, 1935, auditors for the state department reported Monday.

The tax charged was $13,545.28 and the tax paid $9008.75. There is still due the state $4356.53. The tax is paid to the state fish commission.

The auditors said the fishermen receive an average of $9 per ton for their catches with the processing costs estimated at $3.50 a ton.

1540 Now Attending Salem High; Increase Of 98 Since Opening

Salem high school's active enrollment yesterday rose to 1540 pupils, or exactly 98 more than at the same time a year ago, it was announced at Principal Fred D. Wolf's office. Although yesterday marked the end of the first school month, a still further increase in enrollment was anticipated. More than 150 students who have signed enrollment cards have not yet put in an appearance.

Vikings Drill For Hillsboro

Strong Team Gunning for Title in Washington County is Coming

Hillsboro high school's football team will meet the Salem high eleven on Sweetland field Friday night, Coach Hollis Huntington announced last night after Hillsboro had completed negotiations with Salem high school officials for a game.

Little is known here of Coach Goodin's Hillsboro team except that it is a veteran outfit which had a good season in the Washington county league last year. It won its first game this season by a lopsided score and is hoping to take the Washington county championship.

The Vikings drilled yesterday after their 25 to 0 rout of the Chemawa Indians Saturday. Two injuries were received in the Chemawa game. Lindsey, regular center, had two front teeth knocked out and two more may have to be pulled. He will probably be out over a week. Webb Traglio, veteran end, suffered a leg injury. Oglesby, regular tackle, was back in suit yesterday after being on the sidelines with a bad ankle for nearly two weeks. His ankle is still not overly strong but will be in shape by Friday night.

One-Cent Drop in Egg Prices Noted

PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Some-what mixed character is reflected for butter. While on the Portland Produce exchange there was an advance of 1/4 lb. in the two low score cubes, others were unchanged and the local market does not use the lower grade.

Unsteady tone was suggested in the market for eggs. On the exchange there was a loss of 1c each in large extras, large standards, medium specials and extra while others were unchanged. The weakness appeared chiefly due to cold storage offerings.

In general there was a lack of price change for cheese at practically all leading jobbing and primary centers of the country a fairly steady tone was suggested for the past week.

Market for live poultry again showed a strong tone with advance of 1c lb. noted in spots for the buying value. Leghorn hens are now up to 14-15c pound. Turkeys were in good call.

Klamath potatoes continued to lead the market in popularity because of their quality. They are sold Yakimas when in competition here.

There was a call for Northern Spy apples, but practically none available. Kings were practically ending their season.

Half of Oregon Forest Area Under Restriction Because of Fire Hazard

One-half of the state forest area in Oregon is still under the restrictions of fire permits, the state forester's office announced yesterday.

Although the Tillamook burn area and several others were opened after the recent rain, the Eden Ridge country in Coos and Douglas counties, the Detroit area, the Molalla area, and the Kinna area are still subject to fire permit regulations and will, according to the declaration, continue to be so until another rain reduces the danger of fire.

Molalla Defeats Newberg, 33 to 0

MOLALLA, Oct. 7.—Molalla high school won its first game in the Willamette interscholastic football league when it defeated Newberg Friday, 33 to 0. The Buckeroo grounds, where the game was played, were unusually muddy. Both teams were inexperienced, and had had the benefit of only a short practice season.

The first score was made by Charles Temple, half back, in the third play of the game, when he got possession of the ball and ran 52 yards for a touchdown. Temple scored two touchdowns in the game. LaVerne Dahl was the outstanding defensive player. Molalla had a little advantage over Newberg when it came to weight.

Molalla is looking forward to a hard game Friday with Silverton here. Don Hartung is the Molalla coach again this year.

Drill Pass Defense

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Coach Bill Spaulding put his U.C.L.A. Bruins through a strenuous pass defense session today in preparation for Saturday's game at Palo Alto against Stanford.

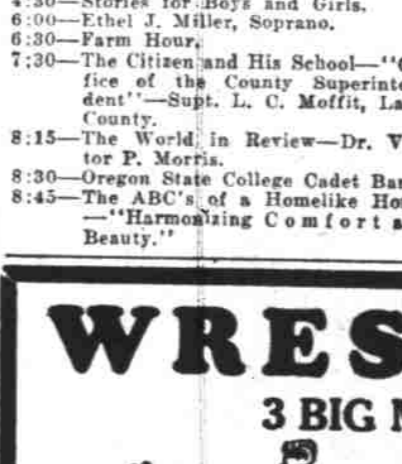

"We looked terrible defending against Oregon State passes at Portland last week," Spaulding said.
