

New Organization for Prune Control is Incorporated Here

Powers to be Broad, Stated

Will Carry on Effort of Association Ousted by State AAA Ruling

A new setup for prune growers of Oregon, and one which is designed to put the price on a footing with world market conditions as such conditions are current, was announced by the members of the Oregon prune control board yesterday with filing of articles of incorporation for the Oregon Prune Control Board, Inc.

The new prune group, rising on the ashes of the old control body smothered by the supreme court action in voiding the state agricultural adjustment act, is composed only of independent growers.

The new board will not only create a minimum price for prunes, changing its minimum as world market conditions dictate, but will enter into the buying and selling field. Under present plans, the board will take up any surpluses at any time which the usual dealers do not absorb at the minimum prices or better, such handling to be done without profit to the corporation.

May Aid Financing
Under the powers of the corporation, the board is authorized to provide the handling, marketing and financial arrangements for prunes and other farm products as the majority of the members of the enterprise desire. Warehouses will be distributed all over the prune district of Oregon and in one place in Washington, according to plans. Under the present setup, the powers of the corporation to act are practically unlimited.

Would Enroll All
"The corporation will establish minimum prices much as the control board has previously operated under the cooperative law," A. M. Chapman, head of the control board, declared.

The board, setting as its membership goal the entire roll of prune growers of the state of Oregon, urged that growers do not dump their prunes on the market at the present time or store in warehouses other than their own, until the new corporation has time to swing into action.

The old control board will probably meet Friday night, Chapman said, to consider the liquidation of the set up under the market agreement. The independent members of the board will continue to serve until the election by members of the new corporation to be held April 1.

Board members said last night that they expected no difficulties at all in financing the new organization.

local demand was supplied from California.
"It would have required a crop of 4,224,532 pounds for us to have supplied our own back yard and our eastern demands in 1934 crop year.
"The 1934 crop was the second largest ever harvested in the northwest. It was about 1,300,000 pounds larger than the previous five-year average."
No Surplus Even
If Record Exceeded
"Even if the 1935 crop went to five and one-half million pounds, the low prices and increased buying power of the public this year would certainly leave no surplus of Oregon nuts."
"In our 1932 crop we not only had no surplus but were short over a million pounds of supplying our own local demands and eastern market, and paid cash $95,188.48 (part of which has been refunded and some more promised in final returns by board from export and selling operations) for the privilege of selling what we did sell."
"USDA office in Portland estimated on September 1, 1935, our coming crop to be 4,212,000 pounds merchantable walnuts. If correct we will again have no surplus and not enough nuts to supply our own markets and if agreement is approved we will again be compelled to turn in cash to tune of credit value prunes fixed by the board, on 35 per cent of crop moving in interstate commerce, or turn over 35 per cent of our interstate (eastern) market to California."
"We have no business entering into a pooling agreement with another state in which one concedes handles over 80 per cent of the total product, when we have no surplus and they have a heavy surplus; when we are in a minority position; when we have natural advantages as to quality and cost of production. To continue so is financial suicide."

ing of the assembly to discuss sanctions.
Technical experts who may help the staff in its complicated and huge task already are beginning to arrive and held a conference on home problems involved in sanctions.
Although not yet officially constituted, it was learned the "general staff" will include in its membership all members of the council except Italy. This is a total of 13 nations, Great Britain and France among them.
A basis for the application of sanctions, league officials said, probably will be found in the report of experts appointed to consider what measures of restraint could be imposed upon countries endangering peace through treaty violation.

"The county court may, or, upon presentation of a petition signed by not less than 50 sheep or goat owners, must declare such a where-upon) it shall be the duty of the county court to appoint a board of three resident supervisors. . . the board is empowered to hire an enforcement officer for such time as is deemed necessary. . . he shall be invested with full authority to . . . kill all dogs not licensed. . . and to investigate claims against the dog-license fund; PROVIDED, that in case no such petition is filed the county court may elect to act as the board of supervisors in the dog-control district. In case they so elect, they shall perform the duties and have the powers conferred upon the board of supervisors. . ."
Neither of the county commissioners has issued any statement in connection with McMahan's protest, and up to last night the matter had not been laid before the attorney general for a ruling through the usual channels for such procedure.
McMahan winding up his second statement on the March 21st matter, says "the law allowing an officer $1 for killing a dog running at large is limited to county districts. . . the law . . . does not authorize employment of an investigator."

This, it was said, was met with a counter-offensive from Debra Sion. The fighting here was described in the dispatches as "most bloody, because the hordes of Ethiopians came in frontal clash with the Italians and were mowed down by modern Italian weapons."
Ethiopian losses were described as "very grave," and the capture of Edagamus was cited as important because it linked the armies with a caravan trail to Hausen.

Leon Jennison is Called by Death

War Veteran and Grad of W. U. Prominent in Music Circles

Leon O. Jennison, 37, well known in Salem musical circles, passed away last night at 8:30 at a local hospital, following an operation from which he failed to recover.
He was born January 1, 1898, at Great Bend, Kansas, and came to Oregon in 1919, following service with the navy during the World War. The family resided in Salem, and he graduated from Willamette university in 1923. He was married in 1924 to Miss Carmen Harwood.

He had served as a salesman for various Salem music houses and as a soloist in the First Christian, First Church of Christ, Scientist, and other churches. He was a member of the Congregational church, the American Legion, and the Disabled American Veterans.

He is survived by his wife, Carmen Harwood Jennison, a teacher in the Richmond school, and formerly a teacher in the Garfield school and in Salem high school; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jennison, 1165 Marion street; a sister, Edna J. Ellis, instructor in Latin and religious education at Willamette university; and a brother, Earle V. Jennison, Palo Alto, California.

Liberal House Loans Offered

May Build Without Sure Sale Lined up Says Lloyd M. Sweet

Few builders are aware that the national housing program has been liberalized to such an extent that they may safely undertake construction of houses for sale without having purchasers definitely lined up before the structure is completed, Lloyd M. Sweet, in charge of the local federal housing office declared yesterday.
Sweet said he believed Oregon was 57th on the list of FHA districts "largely because liberalized features of the housing plan have not received adequate publicity." California leads the nation in taking advantage of the housing act's insured mortgage terms while Washington is third, he pointed out.

"The plan makes it possible for the contractor to buy a lot or use a lot he already has, put in a small amount of money and borrow enough money to complete a house, all the time paying all his bills for labor and materials in cash, and then have six months' time from completion of the house to sell it to an approved mortgagee," Sweet explained.

Must be One-Fifth
The value of the lot used or of the lot and cash payment to the FHA loan agency must amount to at least 20 per cent of the total proposed sale price of Sweet stated that a contractor proposing to build a house to sell, with the lot for $3000, need only put up $600 value in lot alone, or in lot and cash, to secure the amount of cash he needed to carry on construction.
"This feature should tend to relieve the housing shortage in Salem," Sweet said he believed.
The housing office is now located in the Chambers building on North High street.
