Adult Education Classes Planned

While no starting date for this winter's adult education program sponsored by the city schools has yet been set, George Burrell has volunteered to assist in interviewing persons interested in the classes, it was announced at the superintendent's office yesterday. Burrell, it was emphasized, is the only person authorized to take registrations for these courses, which will be given at night in the senior high school building by teachers paid through state relief channels.

It was believed that at least three weeks would pass before the night classes would open. The superintendent's office was awaiting instructions from Roben J. Maaske, state director of emergency education. Meanwhile persons interested may obtain appointments with Burrell by telephoning the school administration building, 6157.

T. T. Mackenzie, city director of vocational education, will no longer supervise the adult education program because his other duties are requiring all of his time.

Billings, left, convicted with Tom Mooney, right, for participation in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing in 1916, met in San Francisco where Billings was brought to testify for Mooney who is making another fight for vindication in the bombing. Rumors of coolness between Mooney and Billings were swept aside when they embraced upon meeting each other for the first time since they were sentenced to separate prisons in 1916.

Volunteer Fire Department Talked For West Salem; Encouragement is Given; Further Study is Ordered

The effectiveness of volunteer fire departments and their effects on insurance rates are being considered by the fire-police committee of the West Salem city council, it was learned here yesterday.

The fire protection problem was discussed briefly at Monday night's West Salem council meeting and then referred back to this committee for further investigation.

Although plans for the proposed department have not taken shape, it is understood the volunteers would prepare themselves to report for fire duty and assist Salem firemen who respond to West Salem calls. West Salem owns no fire equipment of any sort but does have an adequate water supply.

Fire Chief Harry Hutton of Salem yesterday said he had been asked about the volunteers proposal by a West Salem man.

"I referred him to the state fire marshal, who has all the information about volunteer departments," Hutton said. "It would be a very good idea for West Salem. I told him any time I could help him, I'd be glad to do it."

The Salem department frequently answers fire calls from West Salem although the city across the river pays nothing for this service. A proposal was heard here at one time that the services be charged for but the scheme was dropped.

The latest suggestions that Salem organize a volunteer fire fighting organization was inspired largely by last week's fire which destroyed the big Gehlar prune drier there. Members of the West Salem fire-police committee are James Mitchell, Ted Burns and Fred Gibson.

Various Laws To Be Sought

Effort to Extend Agenda of Special Session is Already Observed

The ink had hardly dried on Governor Martin's proclamation calling a special legislative session when a number of state department heads indicated that they would seek the enactment of various laws.

Governor Martin urged in his proclamation that the business of the session be confined to consideration of a new capitol building, social legislation to conform to federal acts, and other emergency legislation that cannot be postponed until the regular 1937 legislative session.

One proposed law will provide for the abolition of the state budget department and the appointment of an executive secretary. This law has been recommended by D. O. Hood, state budget director under the Martin administration.

Appropriations Asked

Hood said there was no demand for the budget department and that its abolition would save the taxpayers a large amount of money.

Frank McCulloch, state utility commissioner, will seek an appropriation of $10,000, to carry on the work of his bus and truck division until January 1. In case the appropriation is denied, McCulloch said it would be necessary to curtail his office staff early in November.

Another appropriation probably will be asked by Major General White to match federal funds for the construction of new state armories.

Secretary of State Snell indicated that he would ask a number of minor amendments to the motor vehicle laws.

Another appropriation may be requested by Attorney General Van Winkle to defray the cost of numerous grand jury investigations referred to his department.

Photographic Proof of Monster's Existence

Louis B. Reynolds, of Fort Myers, Fla., was strolling at a nearby beach following the recent hurricane when he caught sight of and photographed this strange lizard-like monster. He went for aid to capture it but the animal disappeared into a swamp and has not been since seen. Reynolds described it as being about six feet long and of the appearance of museum reproductions of prehistoric monsters.

Increase Budget Of W. U. Students

With a considerable increase in the membership of the associated students of Willamette university already apparent, Lester J. Sparks, graduate manager, has announced that this year's student body budget will be drawn on a basis of $10,000.

The $10 student body fee for first semester activities has already been paid by 654 students and Sparks expects the final total to be over $75. The first term of last year 515 students were members of the associated group. Special students, those registered for less than seven hours work, are exempt from paying the compulsory fee which amounts to $29 per year.

Only twice in the history of the student body has the yearly total of fees paid been over 1000, according to Sparks. Last year's total was 939.

Athletics receive 25 per cent of the student body monitor, the Wallulah, yearbook publication, another 25 per cent, and the rest is

Change of Route Plea of Bus Firm

Oregon Motor Stages requested the city council Monday night to alter the street bus franchise here to permit the buses to traverse State street between 23d and 19th streets. While no explanation was made last night, it was reliably reported the plan back of this change was to permit the company to abandon its inbound loop from State street south on 23d to Trade, west on Trade to 19th, and back to State street, and instead run the buses entirely along State street from the penitentiary to the business district.

The council passed an ordinance providing penalties for tampering with water department connections and equipment and referred to the building regulations committee a bill setting up regulations for installing gas furnaces here.
