Polka Dot Revue is Huge Success

DALLAS, Oct. 12.—The trials and tribulation of a hard working chorus director was well portrayed by Donald Pinkerton in the Polka Dot revue presented by pupils of Phyllis Grant at the Majestic theatre, Thursday evening. Inability to dance or sing, stars dissatisfied with their dressing rooms, stage carpenters on strike, were all depicted in song and dance with the director in a frenzy.

Little Jane Crider in a white satin suit and top hat was particularly outstanding as Mr. Strutin and ensemble song and dance number. The adagio number of Naomi Hayes and Sanford Betts was professional in its technique. Little Patsy Zents, not six years old, won great applause with her song, "Animal Crackers." Phyllis Dickey was a miniature ballet dancer in every aspect in a jazz toe dance number.

Tap dance duet and trios in song and dance were brought to a finale with an acrobatic dance number by Naomi Hayes and supporting group of hoop dancers.
